BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 8.—(Tuesday.)—The airplane of Don Moyle and C. A. Allen was unreported at 11:40 a. m. (9:40 p. m. Monday, Chicago time), from the time it passed Point Erimo at 6:40 a. m. Eight ships in the Kuriles islands who had been requested to watch for the plane had not reported sighting it.

SAMUSHIRO, Japan, Sept. 8 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Beginning one of the most hazardous flights known to aviators, Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, California pilots, left the beach runway here at 5:30 a. m. today [8:30 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time Monday] on a non-stop journey of 4,465 miles over the stormy north Pacific to Seattle, Wash.

At 6:40 a. m. [4:40 p. m. Chicago time Monday] the Ochiishi radio station reported the plane, named Clarinamadge, had passed Point Erimo, Hokkaido island of Japan. The flyers had flown about 110 miles in seventy minutes.

Plane Has No Radio.

Their monoplane carried gasoline for forty-seven hours of flying, but no radio to inform the world of progress in the little traveled area over which they flew.

The intended course lays along the Japanese island of Hokkaido, skirts the volcanic Kurile islands of Japan, which often are hidden by fog, and swings out over the North Pacific in a great circle that touches the Bering sea and curves across the Aleutian islands and southward over the Gulf of Alaska and off the British Columbia coast to Seattle.

The weather was reported more favorable than usual on the route, which is subject to frequent gales and dense fogs. It was clear here and a storm had moderated over the Aleutians. There was some fog along the route, however.

Due in Seattle Tomorrow.

Moyle calculated the flight would require thirty-nine to forty-four hours, depending on the weather. He said he and Allen expected to arrive in Seattle possibly before daylight of tomorrow [Wednesday] morning.

Rising at 2:45 a. m., the flyers went to the field and warmed up their engine in the presence of a small crowd gathered to witness the takeoff.

Moyle took the controls, and as Allen waved at the crowd, the engine roared and after a run of 5,000 feet along the beach lifted its load of 1,020 gallons of gasoline into the air and, flying at a height of 165 feet, disappeared over the Pacific. Moyle got the plane into the air much easier than aviation experts here had expected. The wind and a smooth sandy runway were favorable.

A Plane of Hard Luck.

Some experts had predicted that the plane, which failed to carry Harold Bromley and Harold Gatty on a non-stop flight to America last year, and also failed Thomas Ash this year, would not rise from the beach with a heavier load than was carried on the previous attempts.

Moyle and Allen had cut one inch off the propeller at each end, giving it swifter revolutions, and had altered the tail assembly. They believed these changes had given more lifting power and increased speed.

They expressed themselves undismayed by the fact that Bromley and Gatty had been forced to return to Japan by a broken fuel pipe after flying 1,200 miles toward America. They were unconcerned when told again that Thomas Ash had been unable to get the plane off the beach with a smaller load than it carried for them. Their loaded plane weighed 11,600 pounds.

The plane, they said, with 1,020 gallons of gasoline aboard, would fly for forty-seven hours, which they believed more than sufficient to take them

Bank Thief to Go Into Hands of State Today

Walter E. Wolf, former manager of the coupon department of the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company, who embezzled more than $2,000,000 in bonds to finance twelve years of speculation, is to be turned over to State's Attorney Swanson for prosecution today.

Wolf is to be placed in the hands of the authorities after the bank issues a report revealing the details of the theft.

State's Attorney Swanson said yesterday that Wolf's case would be presented to the grand jury at once.

The state's attorney will consult with Abraham Meyer, attorney for the bank; Abner Stilwell, vice president, and with representatives of Toplis & Harding, agents for Lloyd's of London, which has insured the bank up to $2,000,000.

Grand Jury Inquiry.

The grand jury is expected to hear the testimony of David Weiss, the tailor-broker, who handled a $1,000,000 account for Wolf. Another possible witness is Maurice Davis, customers' man who handled an account carried by Wolf in the name of his brother, Henry Wolf, with Stein, Alstrin & Co. They are to be questioned on the activity of Wolf's accounts. Wolf placed the bonds, largely government securities, with the brokers as collateral to finance his speculations.

Weiss and Davis, it is expected, will be asked to testify concerning the acceptance of the securities for the margin accounts and on reports made on the accounts.

The bank's report on Wolf's thefts is expected to reveal the names of other brokers with whom Wolf dealt and the aliases he used in carrying the accounts. It was revealed Sunday that one of the accounts had been carried by Frazier, Jelke & Co. under the name of E. Gregory.

E. Gregory Identified.

The identity of E. Gregory was revealed last night by Walter Bachrach, attorney for Mr. Davis, who gave out the following statement as from Mr. Davis:

"About six years ago Walter Wolf told me that he wanted to open another account for his brother, Henry, as a convenience to be able to trade in two accounts. I suggested the name of E. Gregory. This is Edith Gregory, who has been a good friend of mine for over fifteen years. I secured her consent to the use of her name and so informed Walter Wolf. It is not uncommon to use a different name or a number for trading purposes. Edith Gregory never had any interest whatsoever in the account."

Girl Is Found Mysteriously Slain in Flat

Shot three times, Miss Evelyn Danielson, 23 years old, operator of a beauty parlor at 7205 Dorchester avenue, was found dead last night in the single room apartment of Patrick Gavin, 41 years old, at 6251 Blackstone avenue.

Gavin is married, a city plumbing inspector, and a former member of the Syracuse university football team.

First word of the killing was given to Woodlawn police by Gavin. He said that he did not know whether Miss Danielson shot herself or was murdered. Coroner Herman N. Bundesen examined the body. He said that the woman had been dead for more than ten hours and from the position of the wounds could not have killed herself. She had been shot twice in the left side of the neck and once in the left wrist. Apparently she was slain while lying on a daybed. Her body was found, however, on a sofa.

Gavin told detectives that he and Miss Danielson went to his apartment Sunday night. They had something to drink, he added, and he did not remember anything subsequently. Later Gavin said that he had left Miss Danielson alive yesterday morning and that he visited his brother-in-law, Clarence Brinkley, 3333 West Van Buren street. When he returned, he said, he found the girl dead. Police went to the Van Buren street address and found Gavin's wife, Marcella, and Brinkley, and took them to the station for questioning. According to Gavin, his wife trapped him and Miss Danielson in his room two weeks ago.

Two licensed air pilots were killed last evening one-half mile south of Itasca, in Du Page county, when their plane went into an inverted tailspin at a height of 2,000 feet and plunged to the ground. The victims were:

Sterling Mitchell, 29 years old, of 351 Wilson avenue, a salesman for the Casper Coffee company and an aviator since 1926.

George Wallis, 44 years old, of Lincoln and Austin avenues, Morton Grove, a salesman and aerial photographer for the Chicago Aerial Survey company.

The tragedy occurred within sight of hundreds of persons in Itasca and on Irving Park boulevard, an arterial highway. The plane, which was owned jointly by Mitchell and six other persons, had taken off a few minutes before from the Greer airport, a mile and a half northwest of Elmhurst and about three miles from the scene of the accident.

Stunts Precede Tragedy.

With Mitchell at the controls, the two flyers had wheeled over Itasca and were heading south. Mitchell was entertaining the crowds in the town below with a few stunts and had just brought the plane out of a loop when it flopped over again into an inverted tail spin and plunged to the ground. The plane landed upside down, but did not catch on fire, as Mitchell apparently had cut off the ignition when he realized he was falling.

Both men were dead when onlookers reached the plane. The bodies of the victims were taken to Elmhurst, where the inquest will be held on Wednesday.

Police Chief Goes to Scene.

Chief of Police Wallace McClay of Itasca was one of the witnesses to the crash and was among the first to reach the fallen plane.

James McKenna, manager of the Greer airport, was up in another plane when the accident occurred. He said later that Mitchell and the other owners of the plane had kept the ship at the Greer airport for some time and that George Hook, 1527 North Keystone avenue, one of the owners, had just landed the plane before Mitchell and Wallis took off. Wallis, he said, also owned a plane but had no interest in the one in which he met his death.

The plane was an old type Waco 10 OX-5, similar to those used during the world war. It was a small biplane and was considered safe for flying with a pilot and passenger.

Army Pilot Is Killed.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Capt. George Converse of Somerset, Ky., army pilot stationed at Bowman field, was fatally injured when his plane crashed near the field late today. Private Arthur Jenks, Louisville, was injured. Capt. Converse was a member of the 325th observation squadron, army air corps. Investigators said the plane's motor stalled. The ship grazed a barn in an attempted forced landing. Its right wing was smashed and the flyers were pinned in the wreckage.

Killed When Parachute Fails.

Danville, Va., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Budd Lipford, 22, of Danville, was killed at the municipal airport this afternoon when his parachute failed to open and he fell 3,000 feet. The parachute jump was to be a feature of a Labor day program.

Student Flyer Killed.

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Leland H. Dunn, 23, a student flyer with 10 hours in the air to his credit, was fatally injured today when his small monoplane crashed at Curtiss-Steinberg field here. Dunn attempted to climb while making a turn and sent the plane into a spin at 500 feet. His mother witnessed the crash.

REDUCE ROYAL INCOME! KING URGES BRITAIN

Asks Personal Cut of $250,000.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—King George, on the eve of the "economy" session of parliament, today announced that he wanted a reduction of $250,000 in his civil list of $1,850,000 — the annual income paid by the British government to the crown.

KING GEORGE.

Queen Mary and other members of the royal family joined the king's request for cuts in their parliamentary grants, and the prince of Wales, who derives his income solely from his duchy of Cornwall, estimated to be about $350,000 per year, announced he intended to contribute $50,000 to the national exchequer.

Request Made by Letter.

The announcement of the king was conveyed to Prime Minister MacDonald in a letter written by Sir Frederick Ponsonby, keeper of the privy purse. The letter read:

"Balmoral Castle.

"My Dear Prime Minister: I am commanded by the king to inform you that in the grave financial situation with which this country is confronted, his majesty desires personally to participate in the movement for reduction of national expenditure.

"The king has decided that his majesty's civil list should be reduced by 50,000 sterling [about $250,000], while the emergency lasts.

"When, after the war, owing to the increased cost of living and the fall in the purchasing power of money, the civil list settled by parliament was found to be quite inadequate, drastic economies were made, and therefore, it is not easy to reduce the civil list further without sacrifice of some of the state functions, which are traditionally associated with the monarchy, and without throwing numbers of his majesty's servants out of work.

Uses "Rigid Economy."

"After careful consideration, however, the king has arrived at the conclusion that by the exercise of the most rigid economy it should be possible to reduce the civil list by 50,000 pounds.

"I am to say that the queen and other members of the royal family who are in receipt of parliamentary grants are all desirous that reductions of these grants should be made during this time of national crisis."

Replying from his official residence, 10 Downing street, Mr. MacDonald today wrote:

"His majesty's personal contributions during the war and the difficult years that have succeeded it are very present in the minds of his subjects, and I venture to say it will be with profound regret to them all that circumstances are such as to lead both his majesty and other members of the royal family to wish to add to those contributions even further.

"Characteristic of King."

"But whenever his majesty's subjects are called upon to share a heavy burden, it has been characteristic of his majesty to lead the way. Now when all sections have joined together in common sacrifice they will be heartened by his majesty's example and the knowledge that in making their own contributions they have been led by the king in person and that his majesty's thoughts are with them.

"May I, therefore, in behalf of his subjects, tender their most sincere thanks to his majesty for his action and to the other members of the royal family."

The prince of Wales' gesture was contained in a letter addressed to the prime minister from St. James's palace by Sir Lionel Halsey, the prince's controller and treasurer.

Eight Others Receive Grants.

Eight other members of the royal family draw parliament grants. They are the four younger children of the king, his two aunts, and the Princess Louise and the duke of Connaught. Their yearly incomes total $530,000.

A peek into the royal finances has previously revealed that the world war left King George relatively a poor man, for in addition to other sacrifices, he contributed $500,000 to the treasury from his privy purse. The royal privy purse, as distinct from the salaries and expenses of the royal household, amounts to $550,000 per year.

In 1918, when the king and queen celebrated their silver wedding anniversary, they declined all gifts and instead presented a check for $265,000, which had been subscribed nationally, to the disabled soldiers and sailors' fund.

The emergency national cabinet met tonight to put the finishing touches to its economy program, designed to erase a $600,000,000 deficit in the budget.

King to Deliver Message.

Tomorrow's parliamentary proceedings will be preceded by a message from King George. This formality is necessary because of the pending imposition of new taxation.

"Tomorrow parliament will meet. The government will ask from it, and it is certain to obtain, a vote expressing its confidence. I appeal to the nation also to give us its confidence and to banish from its mind all notions that the crisis, which confronted us, was not a real and dangerous one, or that we could have met it with any measures less vigorous than those we shall ask parliament to sanction.

"We had to face it and all its potential consequences. We had to act with decision and speed, and the great thing that we have already secured is that the house of commons, instead of meeting to deal with conditions of a financial collapse, is meeting to deal with proposals to avert that grim possibility and bring the country back to an even keel."

The trades union congress—the labor caucus which tells Labor members of parliament how to vote—met today at Bristol in annual conference to discuss the situation caused by the action of Prime Minister MacDonald and his associates in abandoning, temporarily at any rate, their Labor leadership to head the emergency national government.

It seems that the delegates did not know what to do about it, and the opening session fell flat. The fact is that the trades union congress cannot issue orders to its Labor members of parliament until Arthur Henderson, former foreign secretary, now "leader" of the opposition and chief organizer of the Labor party, tells them what orders to issue.

And Mr. MacDonald, the trade unionists declared, has played them a dirty trick by calling the special session of parliament for tomorrow when he said he would, instead of postponing it a week so that reverberations of the trades union thunder could resound throughout the land and influence public opinion against the government's policy of retrenchment.

Worse than that, the assembly of parliament tomorrow made it impossible for Mr. Henderson to go to Bristol today to tell the unionists what orders should be issued to the Laborites.

Union in Confusion.

As a result, all is confused in union circles and there is a notable lack of enthusiasm.

The house of commons tomorrow will present an unusual spectacle. Every one of the 680 odd members, who is not ill abed, is expected to be present and as the house only seats 300 the members will be forced to crowd onto the floor and into the galleries, thus excluding the public and perhaps even the press.

Mr. MacDonald, James H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, and Mr. Snowden will sit up front on the government bench, cheek to jowl with Stanley Baldwin, Conservative president of the council; Neville Chamberlain, minister of health; Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal leader and home secretary, and other old opponents.

STIMSON WILL RESUME STATE DUTIES TODAY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Secretary Henry L. Stimson will take up his work at the state department again tomorrow after an absence of more than two months.

With Mrs. Stimson, he returned to the capital tonight. He said his trip through Europe, on which he "combined work and play," had been beneficial.

He expressed confidence that the European countries he visited were successfully attacking their economic problems.

He left Washington June 26.

DOLE ABUSED, BUT BRITAIN IS AFRAID TO ABOLISH IT

Would Force Millions Into the Poorhouse.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Writhing in the throes of the most desperate economic crisis she has ever experienced and facing bankruptcy, ruin and disaster, Great Britain's political leaders are preparing to make drastic cuts in every avenue of government expenses—except one.

The dole is sacrosanct, and not even the most stiff-necked Tory among the ultra-conservative elements dares even to suggest any serious tampering with the handout which is running the nation into debt at a rate of $4,860,000 weekly.

Nearly 3,000,000 men, women and children, a record number, throughout the United Kingdom are drawing a dole, and all indications point to a heavy increase during the coming winter.

Foresee Heavier Deficit.

It is estimated that the dole fund may be running $9,720,000 per week behind receipts by Christmas, thereby eating another large chunk out of budgetary receipts and further increasing the deficit, which amounted in the month of May to $583,200,000.

The mere mention of reducing the dole by 10 per cent shattered the MacDonald Labor cabinet and split the ranks of Labor. The men who dared contemplate this reduction were thrust from the party ranks and cast out from party posts.

Prime Minister MacDonald sought to mitigate the enormity of his action by reminding labor that the cost of living has depreciated 11½ per cent since 1924, so the dole recipients would still benefit by a net of 1½ per cent if the allowance was reduced a tenth.

A National Institution.

In Great Britain all parties, classes and elements of society, the church, crown, aristocracy, bourgeoisie, middle class, poor, capital and labor alike, recognize that the dole has become a national institution which cannot be tampered with or altered in any direction except upward—augmenting the weekly payments.

The new national government is under the spur of city bankers, who insist that the outside world demands convincing proof of Britain's sincerity in putting its financial house in order, and of conservative elements in the new cabinet, which urge a tightening of the dole conditions and a ridding of some abuses of the system. But the Laborites are just as firmly against any intrusion, any investigation or any reorganization to stop up leaks and eliminate ..t and wastage.

Critics of the dole estimate that 20 per cent of the drawers are illegally obtaining compensation, and even Labor leaders admit that nearly half the beneficiaries of the system today are technically not entitled to this compensation through having failed to subscribe their weekly installment payments during the year.

What Dole Provides.

According to the original terms of the "unemployment insurance act," as the dole is described officially, the employer, employé and the state contribute about one-third each, but a proviso was made that the worker must hand over half of the year's installments. In other words, he must work 26 weeks of the year at the minimum to obtain benefits.

But hundreds of thousands of dole drawers have not worked for years, and have no prospects of working for years to come, if ever.

"If we strike them off the dole they will be automatically sent to the workhouse," explained a high official. "Obviously they cannot starve. That means that we would create a couple of million additional recognized state paupers.

Unable to Handle Them.

"Our institutions are insufficient to handle such an influx, and we would be obliged to commandeer empty houses on a large scale and reinforce the workhouse staffs enormously to house and feed such a large number of recruits. It would require the purchasing of large additional stocks of cots and other furniture, and kitchen and mess hall supplies. And we would be frankly unable to provide the daily stint for the workhouse inmates which now prevails—chopping wood or some similar manual task.

"English law provides that any person declaring himself destitute is entitled to demand a night's lodging, supper and breakfast at any workhouse, and such institutions are scattered all over. In the morning he must do a couple of hours on a job as payment for his lodging.

"We believe it is better for the country to keep the jobless in their homes, expending the dole for rental and foodstuffs to neighboring tradesmen and bringing up their children in a family atmosphere, than to herd them by the thousands into institutions, breaking up the life of families, and shutting off the distribution of this huge amount of ready cash into circulation among the small shopkeepers which the dole accomplishes."

Dole Is Abused.

One of the principal abuses of the dole is that of girls getting married, quitting their jobs, going on the dole and continuing to draw an allowance maybe a year or more before they are detected. This racket is generally discovered from anonymous letters sent the labor board by jealous girl workers.

The most serious abuse of the system, however, is the action of a certain class of employers who take advantage of the dole to pay cheaper wages.

The dole regulations provide that a man is not entitled to draw anything if he works more than three days a week. Unscrupulous employers hire workers three days a week below the regular scale of wages and their employés remain on the dole.

Breaks Spirit of Nation.

Opponents of the dole assert it is breaking the spirit of the nation and prevents people from seeking jobs. Labor's reply is that this is, perhaps, true in isolated cases, but that with 3,000,000 jobless it does not matter if one man refuses to look for work, since the next man will land any job that is open. In any case, there is a deficit of a couple of million jobs in the country.

Before the war, when David Lloyd George organized the unemployment insurance system, it was a working proposition and in some years actually made a profit. Since the war, however, the decline of Britain's industry, commerce, and production has resulted in such an enormous increase in the number of jobless that the fund annually is forced to borrow from the state. It is estimated that at the end of the current year the dole fund will owe the treasury $378,080,000.

"If we did not have the dole we would probably be facing revolution today," a labor leader said. "With workhouses crowded, evicted families sleeping in the streets, food riots and bread lines, there surely would be an uprising in the present crisis if the unemployed had not the dole to fall back upon to insure their existence."

HUNT GERMAN HEIR IN SWIGART ESTATE BATTLE

Lawyers Are in Europe to Seek Cousin.

Two Chicago lawyers, George L. Reker and Thomas A. Walpole, are in Germany in connection with the $350,000 estate left by Charles F. Swigart, former alderman of the old 14th ward, who died in 1917, according to a dispatch last night from Berlin.

Although suits are pending in the Probate and Superior courts in behalf of 21 cousins of the former alderman, the attorneys, it was indicated in the dispatch, may be searching for a mysterious woman cousin to share in the estate.

Fourteen Cousins in Germany.

Two of the 21 cousins are Karl Hofsass and Caroline Schwigart of the republic of Baden, Germany, and twelve others are also residents of Germany.

Swigart, whose family name was Schwigart in Germany, came to Chicago at an early age and built up a profitable express business here during the civil war. From 1892 to 1894 he served in the council and then went into the real estate business. He died without leaving a will and for ten years the estate was in litigation.

In 1923 the Illinois Supreme court awarded the estate to Miss Emma Swigart, the aged and incompetent sister of the former alderman. At the time of her brother's death, the sister was an inmate of the Elgin State hospital, but later was removed to 1325 South Kedvale avenue.

Deny Claim of Woman.

In awarding the estate to the sister, the Supreme court denied the claim of Mrs. Ena Welch, 59 years old, former actress and wardrobe mistress for a theatrical company in New York. Mrs. Welch alleged she was a daughter of Swigart by a common law marriage and that later Swigart married her mother.

Miss Swigart, for whose care more than $1,000 was spent monthly, according to court records, died last spring, and the battle for the estate was reopened.

Suspect in Bank Robbery in Michigan Is Arrested

Amedo Scalsetti, 28 years old, 1645 Taylor street, was arrested yesterday as a suspect in connection with a bank robbery on July 30 at Buchanan, Mich., where a robber escaped with several thousand dollars after shutting bank employés in the vault. Sergt. Patrick Mollhane and his detective squad arrested Scalsetti at Roosevelt road and Marshfield avenue.

Boy, 8, Tenth Victim of Tetanus in Six Weeks

The death yesterday at the county hospital of Earl Courtney, 8 years old, 2744 South Kedvale avenue, was the tenth caused by tetanus, or lockjaw, in the last six weeks, health authorities said. The boy fractured his left arm a month ago when he fell from a swing at a public playground. Tetanus was detected three days ago. Treatment failed to save his life.

Who Said The New Hats Are Hard to Wear?

See Our Millinery Opening Today!

Tell us honestly. Aren't you glad that brims are back again? Aren't you glad that lines are back again (instead of little peanut hats that sit on the back of your head)? Aren't you glad to have hats that do something for your face again?

The newest Paris hats show a great modification of Second Empire influence. In fact many have none at all. The hat pictured from the house of Agnes is more the Spanish toreador influence creeping in. This and similar hats were shown with the new clothes at the Paris Openings. These are the hats that our staff simply fell head over heels in love with while in Paris.

They're subtle in line. They require good materials and beautiful workmanship. That's why they're safe in our hands. We're copying them just as reasonably as possible, maintaining their intrinsic good looks.

Be sure to come down to the Millinery Sections today and feast your eyes on the entire collection. They're good to look at. Let us try some on your head. You're going to remember the hat you buy this season lovingly for a long, long time.

BAYLES FLIES AT 236 MILE SPEED TO WIN AIR RACE

[BY STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Cleveland Airport, O., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Lowell R. Bayles, one time Illinois coal miner and virtually a veteran in air racing, won the Thompson trophy race, American land plane speed classic, this afternoon. He set a new American record for closed course events with an average speed of 236.239 miles an hour, flying a Gee Bee Super sportster low wing monoplane, powered by a supercharged Wasp Jr. motor, before a grand stand packed with a holiday crowd of 80,000 persons. It was a fitting windup to a week of speed demonstrations by Bayles and his yellow and black plane.

Maj. James H. Doolittle, winner of the Bendix trophy race from Burbank, Cal., to Cleveland and holder of the new coast to coast record, who was considered Bayles' chief rival, was forced to drop out on the seventh lap when the supercharged Wasp Jr. motor in his Laird speedwing supersport biplane grew overheated. For the first five laps Maj. Doolittle's average speed was 228.85 miles an hour.

Wedell Takes Second Place.

James R. Wedell of Patterson, La., in a Wedell-Williams low wing racer set an average of 227.992 miles an hour over the ten laps of the 100 mile course to finish in second place. The Wedell-Williams racer is powered by a supercharged Wasp Jr. motor and was designed by the late Erett Williams.

Dale "Red" Jackson of St. Louis, who twice set a world's refueling endurance record with Forrest O'Brien, won third place, flying Lee Shoenbeck's Laird speedwing solution, powered by a Wright J-6 motor, at an average of 211.183 miles an hour. A tear in the fabric on the lower side of the lower right wing of the plane near the tip threatened to disable the ship's biplane as it ripped wider and wider with each lap of the race, but Jackson didn't swerve from his course and finished in the money. It was the same plane in which Speed Holman won the Thompson trophy in Chicago last year at 201 miles an hour.

Bayles will receive a $7,500 first prize and a $10,000 trophy for winning the race, which signaled the end of the national air races. Wedell will receive a $4,500 second prize and Jackson a $3,000 third prize.

Will Try for Speed Record.

With the same Gee Bee racer he flew to victory this afternoon, Bayles hit a top speed of 286 miles an hour and an average of 267 miles an hour in his qualifying dashes, unofficially exceeding both the American and world land plane speed records. He will attempt to break both records in the same racer tomorrow, or as soon as it can be put in condition.

Robert L. Hall, flying mate of Myles in the Springfield Air Racing association at Springfield, Mass., which entered four Gee Bee racers in the national meet, flew a Gee Bee powered by a Wasp motor in fourth place at an average speed of 201.251 miles an hour.

Capt. Ira C. Eaker, United States army, stationed at Bolling field, Washington, D. C., flew his Lockheed Altair low wing monoplane at an average speed of 196.321 miles an hour and finished in fifth place, although his Wasp powered plane was the largest of eight starters.

Lands Without Undercarriage.

Three-quarters of an hour after the race had ended, Capt. Eaker landed his plane in the middle of the airport with his retractible landing gear jammed and still drawn up into the wings. He brought the ship in as slowly as it would fly without crashing and effected a smooth landing on his lower wing surfaces. The plane did not turn over and was only slightly damaged.

Capt. Eaker was unharmed and said the landing gear retracting mechanism had stuck and he had flown around the airport for three-quarters of an hour trying to loosen it.

Immediately after Capt. Eaker's landing three competing parachute jumpers landed in the grand stand, none of whom was injured, thrilling the spectators packed into all the seats. This followed a false fire alarm precipitated when smoke from a kitchen came rolling out from beneath the tiers of seats.

Ben O. Howard, Chicago air mail pilot who placed third in last year's Thompson trophy races at Chicago, finished sixth in this year's race in his small white Pylon Polisher, a low wing monoplane he built himself, powered by a 90 horsepower Wright Gypsy motor. He averaged 163.573 miles an hour. This year Howard won $2,460 in prize money in three second places and two thirds; last year he won $5,750 in prize money in five first places and two thirds.

The seventh and last plane to finish the race was a Laird white biplane, powered by a Wright J-6 motor and flown by William Ong of Kansas City at an average speed of 153 miles an hour. Ong entered the race at the last minute.

From Depths to Heights.

Bayles, who won $7,500 first prize and a $10,000 trophy, eight years ago was working far underground in an Illinois coal mine. Ever since he was old enough to make change in a country grocery store Bayles has been at work. He took a round-about route to reach his present fame, being successively a waiter, messenger boy, bootblack, grocery boy, coal miner, and mechanic before he learned to fly at Christopher, Ill., in 1924.

In his home town, Newton, Ill., Bayles worked his way through high school as a bootblack. He was born at Mason, Ill., and is 31 years old. After learning to fly he barnstormed the middle west. His first appearance as a racing pilot was last year, when he placed second in the Cirrus All-American Derby, 7,000 mile race. This summer he placed fourth and won the Great Lakes trophy in the Ford air tour.

Fire Destroys Autogyro.

Fire destroyed an autogyro at noon when the motor backfired as Jimmy Faulkner was taxiing the ship preparatory to taking off. Faulkner and his passenger jumped from the burning plane and escaped injury. The autogyro was a Pitcairn, one of five autogyros that have been demonstrating daily at the races, powered by a Wasp motor. The backfire is thought to have ignited gasoline in the carburetor.

Three scheduled attempts to break world speed records this morning were nonproductive—Lowell Bayles ran the required four three kilometer dashes in his Gee Bee plane, but his motor lost between 150 and 200 revolutions per minute and the timing machinery failed to function on his fourth dash, so the attempt was nullified; Maj. James H. Doolittle was busy changing motors in his Laird racer in preparation for the Thompson trophy race and postponed the attempt, and Miss Maude Irving Tait, yesterday's Aerol trophy race winner, who plans to attempt to break the woman's world speed record, postponed her attempt.

Falls to Equal Former Speed.

Bayles was flying a Gee Bee supersportster monoplane, powered by a Wasp Jr., in which last week he averaged 267 miles an hour on four one mile dashes to qualify for the Thompson trophy race, exceeding Lieut. Alford J. Williams' American land plane speed record of 266.59 miles an hour, and made top speed of 286 miles an hour on one dash, exceeding the world's land plane speed record held by the late Adjutant Bonnet of France of 278.3 miles an hour.

Bayles realized his motor was not turning up the number of revolutions that would be required to break either record as soon as the plane got off the ground, he said, but decided to go through with the attempt. His first dash, down wind, he made at a speed of 271.142 miles an hour, and his second, up wind, he made at 243.673 miles an hour. The average speed for the two laps was 257.408 miles an hour, more than 10 miles an hour slower than Lieut. Williams' American record.

Miss Tait, society girl flyer of Springfield, Mass., who had no previous experience flying in national air races but flew a Wasp powered Gee Bee to win the Aerol trophy yesterday, announced she would postpone her attempt to beat Ruth Nichols' women's world speed record in a land plane of 11 miles an hour until Lowell Bayles makes his second attempt.

Stribling Wins Race Prize.

W. L. "Young" Stribling of Macon, Ga., heavyweight boxer, took second place in a sportsman pilot race, flying his Travelair, powered by Wright, at an average speed of 144.9 miles an hour over five laps of the five-mile closed course, at an average of two miles an hour less than Lloyd F. Lane of Memphis flew his Laird, powered by Wasp Jr., to win first place. Henry Timken Jr. of Canton, O., in a Ford tri-motor was fourth, and F. W. Zelcer of New York third in a Wright powered Laird.

Vernon Roberts of Moline, Ill., won a race for light planes in his Monocoupe at an average speed of 116.430 miles an hour, and Arthur C. Chester of Joliet, Ill., took third place in a Leblond powered Davis plane. Barton Stevenson of Kansas City was second in a Monocoupe.

The mysterious Silver Knife aluminum monoplane, designed by Keith Ryder of San Francisco and flown by Ray Moore, which pancaked when the motor cut out after a race yesterday, was back in the races this afternoon with its landing gear repaired, winning a twenty-five mile dash for small planes at an average speed of 154.5 miles an hour.

Howard in Money Again.

Ben O. Howard, Chicago air mail pilot, flew a spectacular race, getting off the ground last and passing five planes to finish in second place, at an average speed of 180.4 miles an hour. Howard fought it out with S. J. Wittman of Oshkosh, Wis., flying a Wittman racer, Cirrus powered, for second place, passing him on the third lap. Wittman had an average time only .2 of a mile slower than Howard. James Haizlip was fourth in a Laird, Lowell Bayles fifth in a Gee Bee racer with a small motor.

Not one fatal accident marred the ten day national air racing meet, a decided departure from the record of previous air meets. However, four pilots became members of the Caterpillar club by jumping from their planes in emergencies to save their lives.

INNKEEPER SLAIN BY OFFICER WITH DRY LAW WRIT

Easton, Pa., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—James Settimio, owner of the Delaware house at Delaware Water Gap, was shot to death by Detective Calvin Gorgy, attempting to arrest him on a warrant charging violation of the prohibition law today. The shooting occurred in the kitchen of the hotel.

District Attorney Labar told reporters that Settimio lost his life resisting arrest, but eyewitnesses gave a different version of the tragedy. They said that Settimio, who fled for the rear of the hotel as Gorgy entered the place, was overtaken in the kitchen and slain.

Justice of the Peace Brewer committed the detective to jail pending an inquest set for Friday.

JAPANESE ARMY PLANES WARN OF DANGER IN CHINA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 8 [Tuesday].—A sensation was caused by the dropping of 100,000 handbills from six military planes of the 9th division at Kanazawa yesterday. The handbills called the attention of the nation to the danger of Japanese interests in Manchuria being jeopardized. This is the first time the army has taken such unusual measures. The handbills said: "Countrymen, awaken. The national defense is endangered."

The gravity of the Chinese-Japanese situation is growing. All newspapers are playing it up in sensational headlines.

POLICE ARREST BEAR AND THEN TROUBLE STARTS

Steve Paris, an Indian, and his 500 pound dancing bear were doing a profitable business entertaining crowds in Lincoln park yesterday until Lincoln Park Policeman Edward Westhouse appeared on the scene and ordered them away.

Returning a half hour later, Westhouse noticed the act was again in progress, the bear dancing, jiggling a tambourine and catching coins. So the policeman placed both Paris and the bear under arrest and summoned a wagon from the Sheffield avenue station. Wagonmen Barney McGovern and Walter Jablonski and Chauffeur John Burns responded.

The Wagon Arrives.

"Here are your prisoners," informed Westhouse. The three men surveyed Paris and the bear cautiously.

"I'll take the Indian," volunteered McGovern, eying the bear.

"I'm driving," reminded Burns.

So Jablonski got the bear.

He pushed and tugged, and finally with the aid of Paris and several others he shoved the animal into the wagon. Paris stepped in with him, and Chauffeur Burns drove off. McGovern and Jablonski stood on the back step of the patrol. It seemed a bit stuffy inside.

Bear Hates a Cell.

At the station Paris, who is a cripple and lives in Berwyn, was booked for begging. Lieut. Axel Jensen ordered Paris and the bear locked in cells. But the animal didn't care for a cell. Bribery with biscuits failed. Force, very carefully exercised, was futile. The bear had his own ideas.

Even his own master couldn't budge him. Rising on his hind legs, the bear lifted a huge paw and felled Paris with it. There was a hasty scattering of bluecoats, but Lieut. Jensen and Lockup Keeper Carl Brown rescued the Indian from his angry pet.

The bear was chained to a wall, still outside a cell, and the cops spoke softly to him until midnight, when Paris and his pet were bailed out. The bear was led to a waiting car and taken away.

Chauffeur Found Dead with Gas Burners Open

Frank Voorhees, 64 years old, a chauffeur, was found dead of gas poisoning in his home at 2600 South State street last night. Two burners of a gas range were open. His wife told police that he had been in ill health and despondent.

Despite criticisms in some circles that the plane was not airworthy, Moyle and Allen had the greatest confidence they would finish the journey and win the $25,000 offered by the Tokio newspaper Asahi for the first continuous flight between Japan and the United States.

Moyle worked day and night on the plane at the Tachikawa airport, near Tokio, preparing for the flight. He lived at a small Japanese hotel nearly a month without visiting Tokio, while Allen attended to details such as applications for a flying permit.

Flyers Are Confident.

Moyle claimed for the plane: "It holds the world's weight carrying record for a single motored plane. Therefore, there is no doubt in my mind we shall be able to take off, although the load and plane together weigh nearly six tons."

The aviators, young, healthy and with big appetites, took five roast chickens as gifts of Mayor Yoji Kobiyamaki. They also had buttered bread, with coffee.

"We have to go a long way and shall be hungry when we arrive on the other side," Allen said, smiling.

Zeppelin Lands at Home Port.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLAN, Sept. 7. — The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, completing a nonstop flight across the Atlantic ocean from Pernambuco, Brazil, landed at its home port of Friedrichshafen at 3:45 p. m. today after a flight of 52 hours. She was held up by head winds. The Graf left Pernambuco last Friday afternoon. She arrived in Brazil on Sept. 1 after a nonstop flight from Friedrichshafen. The Graf will start on another flight to South America Sept. 17.

BIRD SNARER IN HOSPITAL; VICTIM OF BIRD REVENGE

Gustava Carselle, 36 years old, 753 North Damen avenue, a bird snarer, was lying in the St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, yesterday with a broken leg, the victim of a bird's revenge. Homewood county highway police said that Carselle had been snaring birds in the forest preserve on the Dixie highway near the Sauk trail. As he approached one of his traps a pheasant whirred up from it and flopped to the ground a few yards away. In his haste to catch the bird, police said, Carselle fell in a ditch and broke his leg. He spent three hours there before a passing motorist heard his cries for help.

Lindberghs See Earthquake Memorial at Yokohama

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 7.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh left Tokio for Yokohama by automobile shortly afternoon today. They called at the American consulate there at 1:35 p. m., and visited Gov. Jiro Yamagata at 1:30. They later visited Mayor Ichiro Ohnishi and the earthquake memorial hall. They returned to Tokio late this afternoon.

AIRMEN FLYING PERILOUS PACIFIC

Map shows route being followed by Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, American flyers, who took off from Samushiro Beach, Japan, for Seattle, Wash. They intended to skirt the Kurile Islands, which often are hidden by fog, and swing out over the north Pacific in a great circle touching the Bering sea to the gulf of Alaska and then south to Seattle.

PACIFIC STILL UNCONQUERED

Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, California aviators, if successful in the flight they started from Samushiro, Japan, will be the first aviators to complete a nonstop crossing of the North Pacific between Japan and the United States by heavier than air craft.

Four crossings of the north Pacific by easy stages have been made but six attempted flights failed. The most recent of the successful flights was made by Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh.

Other successful flights:

May 3, 1924: From Dutch Harbor, Alask., to Minato, Japan, by three army planes under command of Lieut. Lowell H. Smith.

The Graf Zeppelin in 1929 flew from Tokio to Los Angeles.

Flights that failed:

Aug. 2, 1924: Maj. Stuart A. MacLaren forced to land at Nikolski, Alaska, 1,600 miles from starting point, Minato, Japan.

Sept. 14, 1930: Harold Bromley and Harold Gatty attempting to fly from Japan to the United States, were forced back after covering 1,000 miles.

May 4, 1930: Seiji Yoshihara started from Tokio for the United States but grounded at Numasaki.

MOYLE AND ALLEN SALESMEN BEFORE THEY TOOK UP FLYING

Santa Ana, Cal., Sept. 7.—Don Moyle, 29, of Riverside, Cal., and C. A. Allen, 27, of Exeter, Cal., attempting a nonstop airplane flight from Japan to the United States, studied aviation as a side line while selling washing machines and motorcycles in southern California.

Allen was selling washing machines here when he struck up an acquaintanceship with Moyle, an agent for a motorcycle factory. They both were interested in aviation. Allen learned the rudiments of flying, and later took a course.

As the friendship progressed Allen instructed the former motorcycle salesman in what he knew of aviation. Moyle obtained a transport pilot's license after an aviation course. Allen is understood to possess a private pilot's license.

Girl Solves Mystery of Clothes; She Lost Them

Miss Sylvia Santolini of Buhl, Minn., whose suitcase full of clothing was found floating in a pond near Itasca Sunday, and for whom the Morton Grove county police dragged the pond in the fear that she had been drowned there, is safe at her home in Buhl, according to a message received yesterday by the police. The message explained that Miss Santolini had lost her suitcase from an automobile while motoring along the road near the pond.

WEST TOWN CAR OFFICE HELD UP; LOOT $1,000 CASH

Four gunmen made a $1,000 haul early this morning in a robbery in the offices of the Chicago and West Towns Railway company, Harlem avenue and West 22d street, North Riverside.

They used Otto Krause, 5502 West 23d place, a conductor, as a tool in the holdup. Only employés are allowed on the company premises, so when Krause appeared to deposit his day's receipts the bandits sprang upon him with drawn guns. Three of them compelled Krause to knock on the locked office door and announce his name while the fourth man remained on the outside as a lookout.

With three guns poked against him Krause obeyed the bandits' orders. The locked door was opened by Lawrence Creadon, 220 Lawton road, Riverside.

Four armed men invaded the Liggett drug store at 400 West North avenue shortly before closing time last night. They forced Joseph Epstein, 1435 Thorndale avenue, the manager, to surrender the receipts, amounting to approximately $700.

GERMAN FLYER OUTLINES OCEAN AIR MAIL ROUTE

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, German aviator, who flew from Germany to Chicago across the northern circle route, came to New York tonight with the announcement that he was ready to submit proposals for an inter-continental air mail line to his German backers.

Piloted into Glenn Curtiss airport at 6:10 p. m. by Miss Hertha Mirow, who won her pilot's license in Hudson, O., a year ago, the Dornier Wal in which he made his trans-Atlantic flight, was berthed beside the DO-X, giant German seaplane.

The Von Gronau ship left Cleveland at 12 noon and passed two hours later over Niagara Falls. Previously the group had flown to the air meet from Chicago, where Von Gronau ended his ocean flight.

SUSPEND PASTOR WHO HELPED TRY BISHOP CANNON

Charge Is Preferred by Woman Secretary.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The Rev. William A. Shelton has been suspended from the pastorate of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal church pending his trial on charges reflecting on his character preferred by his former secretary, Miss Carrie A. Williams.

The character of the charges is a mystery. Miss Williams contents herself with the cryptic remark that "inasmuch as the charges warrant a trial before a church board, one naturally might assume that they concern church affairs."

Dr. Shelton declined to reveal their nature, asserting, however, that he is prepared to "prove them completely without foundation."

Disciples Accused Man's Pulpit.

The Rev. J. H. Balthis, presiding elder of the Washington district, who suspended Dr. Shelton's pulpit yesterday would add nothing to the following statement:

"Because of persistent rumors concerning the character of the Rev. William A. Shelton, pastor of the Mount Vernon Place M. E. church, South, Bishop E. D. Mouzon appointed an investigating committee of five preachers. This committee on Sept. 4 decided that in fairness to all parties concerned it would be wise to have a church trial."

Mount Vernon Place church is the most important church of the southern Methodist affiliation in Washington. It was built by contributions of southern Methodists throughout the country and is looked on as the national church of that denomination. Many of the foremost preachers of the denomination have served as pastors of this church.

Acquittal of Bishop Voted.

Dr. Shelton served in May, 1930, on the committee of the Episcopacy at the Methodist quadrennial conference of the church which voted to "pass the question" of Bishop Cannon after charges of gambling on the stock market had been filed against him. This committee first decided to challenge the bishop, but when he expressed sorrow an acquittal was voted.

Dr. Shelton came to Mount Vernon Place church last October from a professorship at Emory University, Atlanta. He formerly was president of Oklahoma Westelyan college and a member of the University of Chicago's oriental expedition for archaeological research in Egypt and Western Asia.

COUPLE ROBBED IN AUTO.

VETERAN POLICE OPERATOR DOES HIS STUFF AGAIN

Policemen walking beats in the Austin district heard a strange voice yesterday when they pulled their boxes to report to the station. It was that of Alfred Latcham, veteran police operator who answered the first alarm box pulled in the great Chicago fire in 1871. Latcham is 81 years old. He retired from the department fifteen years ago.

Latcham came into the station Sunday night completely exhausted. He identified himself, then declared that his nephew, George Maas, living at 5743 West North avenue, where he planned to spend the night, was on vacation at Crystal Lake. Lieut. Ollie Hoffman took him to a nearby hotel, while efforts were made to reach Maas.

Refreshed after a night's rest, the veteran operator returned to the station yesterday. He went to the switchboard. "Let me try that just for old time's sake," he said. Latcham sat down. "Hello, this is Murphy," said a voice over the wire. "All right, Murphy," Latcham said, and on the sheet he wrote, "Murphy polled box 242 at 9:30 o'clock." Latcham remained at the board during the rest of the day. Between calls he told his friends how glad he was to be there again.

Body Taken from Lake; Believed to Be War Vet

The body of an unidentified man was recovered from the lake yesterday just south of Navy pier. The man was about 50 years old and had been dead several days. A ring, engraved with the initials "A. P. F." indicated he was a veteran of the world war. Another ring bore the initials "F. O. E."

ENRIGHT INQUEST TODAY; PROBE OF UNION TO START

The inquest into the killing of Mortimer P. Enright, labor leader and school board electrician, will be held today at Hinsdale while Cook county authorities begin their investigation of school board contracts and the affairs of the electrical workers' union.

Members of the state's attorney's racket bureau announced that they will confer with President Lewis E. Myers of the board of education regarding contract graft. Bids on electrical work have been dictated by a so-called electrical survey bureau, according to the prosecutors, and Enright was said to have controlled this organization with Michael J. Boyle, business agent of local 134 of the electrician's union.

Requiem high mass was sung for the slain labor leader at St. Clement's church yesterday and he was buried in All Saints cemetery.

INQUEST ON WOMAN'S DEATH.

An inquest will be held today over Mrs. Marie McDonald, 54 years old, 1603 North Central avenue, who was fatally injured late Saturday night when she jumped or fell from the third floor dining room window of her home.

WHO'LL PAY NEW TAXES IF VOTED, MEANS A BATTLE

Congress to Fight Over Whom to Assess.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—If the congress which meets next December should decide that additional taxes are necessary to balance the national government budget there will be an earth-shaking tumult raised over who is to foot the bill.

SENATOR W. E. BORAH.

There will be the radicals led by Senators William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], and George W. Norris [Rep., [Neb.] contending that additional taxation be confined to increased surtaxes on incomes over $50,000 and to increased inheritance taxes.

There will be the conservatives expounding Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon's doctrine that increased surtaxes on the nation's capitalists will only result in driving capital into tax exempt investments instead of into industry and thereby retarding the recovery of prosperity.

Mellon for Increasing Taxpayers.

Mr. Mellon holds that the tax structure should be revised in such manner as to furnish a less fluctuating revenue to the government. With the income tax constituting the principal source of its revenue, the central government naturally was hard hit financially when income tax payers were hard hit by the stock market crash and the business depression.

Mr. Mellon would re-extend the income tax to some if not all of the two million former taxpayers on small incomes who are exempted by the present law and would impose a tax on gasoline, soft drinks and numerous luxuries.

The conservatives are already accusing the radicals of raising the battle cry of "soak the rich" while the radicals retort that Mr. Mellon and his followers are seeking to shield the rich from the operation of the principle of the capacity to pay, on which our tax system is founded.

Belong to School of Levelers.

The radicals belong to the school of levelers. They assert there is an undue concentration of wealth in this country the redistribution of which should be effected by means of higher taxes on large incomes and higher taxes on the estates of deceased millionaires.

"The economists and students of the subject," says Senator Borah, "advise us that 3 per cent of the people own 75 per cent of the wealth. Let us be a little more liberal. Let us say 4 per cent own 80 per cent of the wealth. The four per cent have the wealth."

Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], another radical, said he had it on the authority of economists that five per cent of the people own 95 per cent of the wealth.

"That means," he said, "that 6,000,000 persons out of 120,000,000 and 200 corporations out of 300,000 own substantially all of the productive wealth of America."

Conservatives to Fight.

Conservative legislators are preparing to combat these arguments. They have had recourse to the statisticians, who have returned the verdict that Senator Borah's statement of the concentration of wealth is about 80 per cent wrong. About 20 per cent of the population, according to the statisticians, instead of 3 per cent, according to Senator Borah, own 75 per cent of the wealth. Wealth, it is explained, is generally held by the head of the family and the number of family heads represent an estimated 20 per cent of the population.

The Borah statement has also been subject to the test of an expert analysis of the statistics of income issued by the treasury department. The analysis made this report:

"The treasury department shows that 4,034,703, or about 3.3 per cent of the population, made federal income tax returns in 1929. Net income represented by these returns totaled $34,519,296,977, which instead of being three-fourths of the national income, is about 30 per cent of the income of all individuals in the United States, as estimated by the national industrial conference board for 1929.

Some Exemptions Given.

"To be sure, income, as reported by statistics of income, represents net income after certain deductions, such as contributions to charity, taxes, etc., and does not include interest on tax exempt securities such as municipal bonds. On the other hand, since the income tax law regards profits on sale of assets as income, individuals with normally modest incomes may in certain years find themselves with extremely large ones for income tax purposes. Thus, if an individual who acquired stocks a decade or so ago sold them in the high stock market of 1929, income reported for that year would in reality include profits accruing over a period of years.

"But here again, we must remember, a high percentage of income tax payers have families. The family, for purpose of easy calculation, is generally averaged at five. Allowing, however, for the sake of conservatism, that in a number of instances more than one person in the family has an income, and reducing the multiple to three, we begin to see that this income is applied to, say, 12,104,103 individuals—husbands, wives, children, and dependent relatives. So that about 12,104,103 of the American people, or around 10 per cent of the total, represent about 30 per cent of the income of the nation.

"If one really wants to find out what the wealthiest 3 per cent of the population represents in income, and he makes proper allowances for children and dependents, he will find that according to the 1929 figures instead of 3 per cent having 75 per cent of national income, they had only 30 per cent of it."

GERMANY TO GIVE PLOTS OF GROUND TO 100,000 JOBLESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—One hundred thousand German jobless will be settled on land, each with a couple of acres and a three room dwelling, under a new plan to relieve unemployment. Discussion of the plan was commenced by the reich's cabinet today. It is aimed to rush the scheme so that all may be settled by next spring.

A cost of $60,000,000 is involved, largely financed from a rental tax. The government also expects to save about $47,000,000 on dole expenditures per year.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

MUTINOUS NAVY SURRENDERS ALL SHIPS TO CHILE

2,000 Rebel Seamen Lay Down Arms.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 7.—Chile's naval revolt ended today when the last ships of the mutinous fleet surrendered to the government. The government tonight announced that its vessels are headed for Port Tongoy and will be turned over to loyal officers.

According to a verbal announcement, rebel crews of the battleship Latorre and the armored cruiser General O'Higgins, the last two ships to hold out in the rebellion, released their officers from confinement this afternoon, and the latter are again commanding the vessels.

The complete surrender came after messages had been dropped on the warships from air force planes announcing that there was no chance for the mutiny to succeed. An official communique is expected to be issued as soon as the ships anchor at Port Tongoy and the rebels are safely put ashore and into cells.

Put Rebels Into Irons.

The officers, who had been held prisoners aboard the warships since the mutiny began last Monday, are reported to have ordered the more recalcitrant of the mutineers placed in irons during the trip to Port Tongoy.

Bombed into submission by 120 air force planes at Coquimbo yesterday, five destroyers steamed into Valparaiso at dawn today and formally surrendered. As soon as the flotilla had surrendered, Admiral Abel Campos, commanding officer of the fleet, who had been held prisoner by the mutineers, was put ashore with several other officers.

Work in overhauling the destroyers was started at once with a view of putting them into shape to fight the remaining rebel ships which at that time had not yet surrendered.

3,000 Mutineers Surrender.

According to the government, yesterday's engagement at Coquimbo in which the air force bombed the vessels and raked their decks with machine gun fire involved seven destroyers, five submarines, one transport, the General O'Higgins, the La Torre, and four smaller units. This fleet was manned by 3,000 mutineers. [Earlier dispatches, based on rumors in Santiago, had reported the General O'Higgins and two other vessels as sunk.]

Last evening's bombardment of the fleet lasted 23 minutes. In that time several hits were made. The O'Higgins was struck, a bomb starting a fire in the bow which was quickly extinguished by the crew. Two submarines were also disabled, the crews leaping into the water and swimming to shore, where they were arrested by carabineers.

A desperate attempt to prevent another attack from the air was made during the night when a detachment of rebels tried to disembark at Port Tongoy for an attack on the aviation base at Ovalle. Civil guards, who had been stationed there to prevent any of the crews from landing to obtain provisions, repulsed the attack and the sailors sped back to their ships.

One of the rebel force was captured and he told military forces that the majority of the rebels were anxious to call off the mutiny, but had been persuaded to hold out by two leaders, who, he said, were communists. According to later reports, the communists were thrown overboard by sailors when they realized that failure to surrender would probably end in death.

Planes Circle Over Ships.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VALPARAISO, Chile, Sept. 7.—[Censored.]—Thousands of relatives of Chile's rebel seamen assembled here today anxiously awaiting news of their fate, as a result of the government's announcement that the leaders will be executed. At dawn today eighty planes kept circling over the surrendered destroyer flotilla here as a warning to the crews and to prevent a new outbreak.

The government has received new assurances of loyalty by the land and air forces. The last of the communist agitators have been rounded up and arrested, authorities declared today. The general strike has collapsed, and the rail workers have returned to their posts in response to a military ultimatum.

POLICE CLASH WITH COMMUNIST MOB IN ECUADOR; THREE SLAIN

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Three men were killed and several were injured yesterday in a street fight between communists and police at Milagro.

Most of the police had been taken out of town to maintain order at a football game, and the communists took advantage of their absence to attack those who remained.

HUNT MISSING SCHOOL MAN AS POWERS' ALLY

Pittsburgher Named in Bluebeard's Letters.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—In an attempt to shed additional light upon the early history of Harry F. Powers, West Virginia Bluebeard, police today asked coöperation of Pittsburgh's police officials to learn the whereabouts of Charles F. Rogers, missing Pittsburgh school official and alleged "get rich quick" Wallingford.

Since Powers was taken into custody he has repeatedly said Mrs. Esta Buck Eicher, slain Park Ridge, Ill., widow, and her three children, were brought on their fatal ride to Fairmount by a man named Charles F. Rogers. Powers has insisted that Rogers was a suitor of Mrs. Eicher and was visiting at the Eicher home in Park Ridge when he [Powers] last saw her. Other times Powers has alleged that Mrs. Eicher with her children planned to move to Denver, Colo., when she became Rogers' bride.

Named in Powers' Letters.

In letters found in Powers' possession the name of Charles F. Rogers often appears. More than five years ago Powers was writing to his wife, then Luella Strother of Clarksburg, about Rogers, whom he met in the Oklahoma oil fields.

The Pittsburgher jumped a bail bond six months ago following his indictment for alleged bogus oil stock promotion. He was known to have lived in Oklahoma, where he was interested in numerous shady oil stock transactions.

Two theories are being advanced by local officers. One is that Powers and his friend Rogers operated together in duping women and that Rogers sickened of the plan when he learned that murder was part of Powers' methods. The other theory is that Rogers gained too intimate a knowledge of Powers' operations and was slain.

Find Key to Safety Box.

Carl Southern, city detective, tomorrow will open Powers' safety deposit box in a local bank to see if it contains any of the $14,000 in stocks, bonds, cash and jewelry which belonged to Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke of Northbore, Mass., another of Powers' victims. Her relatives last week started suit in Circuit court to recover the property. In the Powers home last night was found a key to the safety deposit box. Officers hold small hope that the box will yield much of value, believing that Powers removed or caused to have removed all valuables.

Mrs. Powers and her sister, Eve B. Strother, were under police guard at their home today. They have not been placed under arrest.

SEEKS NEW EVIDENCE.

Police Chief Harold W. Johnson of Park Ridge will call in a handwriting expert today in search of further evidence supporting his theory that Harry F. Powers, the Bluebeard of Clarksburg, W. Va., had a confederate in the murder plot which resulted in the deaths of Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children.

Chief Johnson recently wired Clarksburg authorities urging that they take Powers' wife, Luella, into custody for questioning in the murder case. He expects to find definite evidence in support of his theory soon, he said.

The handwriting expert, furnished by the Continental-Illinois bank, will examine a number of letters written by Mrs. Eicher before Powers took her to Clarksburg to slay her, and also letters sent back to Park Ridge from that town, ostensibly written by the widow. Chief Johnson believes the latter missives may have been written by some other person.

BULGAR TROOPS FIRE ON RIOTING REDS; TEN SLAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOFIA, Sept. 7.—Ten communists were killed and twenty were wounded in Bulgarian villages during young communists' day demonstrations today. Numerous disturbances were reported throughout the country and military forces were called out to end the disorders.

Many were arrested and a printing establishment where subversive pamphlets were printed was raided in the town of Sakakof. Soldiers were attacked by crowds in the Kazanlik region. The troops were forced to fire, killing ten.

In several towns the police were powerless to cope with the rioters. Communist deputies led several demonstrations.

Second Deputy to Go on Trial for Rubio Slaying

Ardmore, Okla., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The trial of Cecil Crosby, former deputy sheriff, on a charge of murder in connection with the death here last June of Emilio Cortes Rubio, kinsman of the Mexican president, has been set tentatively for Sept. 28 in Carter county District court. W. E. Guess, also a former deputy, was acquitted of the charge.

WARN MOTORISTS TO GUARD LIVES OF CITY'S PUPILS

700,000 Children Return to Classes Today.

With the opening of schools throughout the city today, motorists are asked by the Chicago Safety council to be especially careful while driving in the vicinity of school buildings and playgrounds. The throng of 700,000 boys and girls going to and from the public and parochial schools makes it imperative that drivers exercise the utmost caution, the council's bulletin warns.

In the street and at the curb near all schools are posted signs: "School—go slow." During the summer months these warnings too frequently lose their significance to motorists, officials of the safety council say, and the reopening of the schools makes a repetition of the warning necessary.

Most accidents to children occur at three periods of the day: between eight and nine o'clock in the morning, during the noon hour, and in midafternoon, the "rush" hours for school children.

"In the schools, the children have been and will continue to be impressed with the necessity for precaution at all times on the streets," said Supt. of Schools William J. Bogan. "Because of the danger, parents are urged to coöperate by keeping the idea of safety constantly before them at home.

"Much has been accomplished and more will be accomplished through the help of the safety council, the motor clubs and the several other interested organizations and individuals, but we are dealing with children and children sometimes become excited or, in the intensity of their play, forget. Without the coöperation of motorists our safety work must fall far short of its aim."

FALL FATAL TO WOMAN.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Emily Elizabeth Niles, 71, Grand Ledge, Mich., is dead of a skull fracture she received early Sunday morning when she fell down the steps at the home of her sister, Mrs. P. J. Learner. She was taken to Epworth hospital, where she died.

FORMER CHICAGOAN'S LOS ANGELES DEATH RANKS AS MYSTERY

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—After being missing nearly thirty-six hours, Albert Wallerstein, wealthy retired Chicago lumberman who came to Los Angeles about eight years ago, was found dead in mysterious circumstances.

John Kondon, a Japanese gardener, discovered Wallerstein's body, slumped against a garden fence. The body showed no marks of violence and police were investigating the possibility Wallerstein may have taken poison in despondency over stock market losses or a weak heart.

Wallerstein was reported missing yesterday by his wife, Mrs. Gussie Wallerstein, and his son, Robert, 20, with whom he made his home in the Gaylord apartments on Wilshire boulevard. Both widow and son say they do not believe Wallerstein took his own life.

NEW AUTO COURT OPENS TODAY TO CUT DEATH TOLL

Sonsteby Tells How It Will Operate.

Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court yesterday explained the system to be installed in the new Traffic court created as the first step in a campaign to check the automobile toll in lives, which exceeds 800 in Cook county so far this year.

JUDGE PADDEN.

The court, which will handle all violations within the city limits, including the park districts, has been designed to keep a record of motorists who repeatedly violate the traffic laws and to stop the "fixing" of arrest tickets. It will be open today in the Municipal building, 1121 South State street, with Judge Frank M. Padden on the bench.

Study for Nine Months.

Nine months of study of traffic courts in other cities preceded the formulation of the plans, Judge Sonsteby said. Representatives of the motor clubs, the police department, the various park commissions, the Association of Commerce and the safety commission collaborated with him, he said.

All speeders and those against whom more serious traffic charges are lodged must appear in the court, the chief justice said. There complete records of any past arrests and a detailed account of the violation will be placed before the judge.

To facilitate keeping the records the clerk of the Municipal court will henceforth issue the books in which the arrest slips are given to policemen. Each slip will be numbered in triplicate. One of the slips will go to the motorist and the other two, which contain much more detailed information than do the present tickets, will be turned in to the clerk's office. The information contained on the slips will be transcribed to cards, which will be placed in a permanent file, both by name and by license number. Other cards will be sent to court to be used by the judge.

Must Account for Tickets.

When each policeman has used up the slips in his book it is returned to the clerk's office, where the stubs showing the number of each ticket will be compared with the records. Each ticket will have to be accounted for, Judge Sonsteby declared.

"Keeping such a close check on each arrest," he said, "we believe that we can keep down this "fixing" business. If we find that certain policemen are handing out tickets without reason other than that their captains want them to we can stop that.

"The main thing," he said, "is that all this will be out in the open. Instead of being in ten different police courts scattered over the city all this will be in one court. When it really gets to working I think we will have a traffic court the rest of the country will use as a model."

Detect Falsity in Names.

With the complete records, the chief justice pointed out, even those motorists who give different names each time they are arrested will be found out through their license numbers.

"These men who repeatedly endanger the lives of others will go to jail," he said. "We can keep them out of their cars, get their licenses revoked."

1 Killed, 1 Badly Hurt in Pushmobile Race

BRITAIN TO UNITE ALL DETECTIVES IN SINGLE FORCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Heads of the provincial detective departments gathered in London today for what was meant to be a secret meeting to discuss plans for forming a national organization of plain clothes men to deal with British crime.

Under the present organization the local criminal investigation departments deal independently, occasionally calling in Scotland Yard when there is a big crime which cannot be solved by provincial talent. Some departments of the provinces, however, use modernized methods and equipment and have attained a high degree of efficiency.

It is proposed to make all provincial detective divisions branches of Scotland Yard. They may possibly be linked by radio.

FARMER TRAILS STOLEN CALF AND SEIZES SUSPECT

Otto Anderson, a farmer living near Wheeling, yesterday turned detective and tracked down a calf, stolen from his farm on Sunday night. He found the carcass trussed up for butchering in the secret abattoir of George Morfet, 39 years old, at 1706 South Dearborn street.

Morton Grove county police are holding Morfet on the suspicion that he is the cattle and chicken thief who has been raiding a number of farms in the regions north and northwest of the city.

When Anderson discovered that his calf had been stolen, he got the address of Morfet, who had had dealings with farmers around Wheeling. Without consulting the police, he went to Morfet's home. Anderson told the police he found Morfet preparing to quarter the calf in his secret slaughter house in the rear of the home. He seized the butcher and summoned the police. When the prisoner had been turned over to the police, Anderson swung the carcass of the calf into his automobile and drove home.

GIVEN RIDE BY HOODLUMS.

Jack Albin, 2363 East 70th street, reported to police yesterday that four men dragged him into their car on the south side, drove around with him, poured iodine into his face, and finally threw him into the street.

The utility of grade separations was demonstrated at Milwaukee avenue and Dempster street. Tabulators counted 7,000 cars an hour at this point. 11 INJURED IN CRASH INVOLVING 4 AUTOMOBILES

Holiday Toll Is Raised to Fifteen.

Eleven persons were injured, four of them critically, last night when a north bound automobile in Waukegan road sideswiped two approaching cars and crashed into a third one, just north of Techny.

This was the most spectacular highway accident of the Labor day weekend. The death toll for Chicagoans during the double holiday reached fifteen, seven of the victims dying Sunday and eight yesterday. The toll for Cook county since Jan. 1 was raised to 826.

Six of Family Hurt.

Six of the injured in the Techny crash were members of one family. They are Mr. and Mrs. Sidney A. Huguenin, 905 Valley road, Winnetka, and their children, Sara, 7 years old; Sidney Jr., 4; Virginia, 2½, and Harriet, 18 months. Harriet suffered a skull fracture and Sarah internal injuries. The other injury victims are: Robert Boyle, 26, of 1830 Archer avenue; his brother, Joseph; John and Mrs. Pearl Kasprzak, 2968 South 9th place, Milwaukee, and Frank Ratajczyk, 30, of 2972 South 9th avenue, Milwaukee. Joseph Boyle and Ratajczyk suffered possible skull fractures.

The injured were taken to the Evanston, St. Francis and Highland Park hospitals. Those not critically hurt suffered cuts, bruises and in several cases fractures.

Chief Roy Lee of Northbrook investigated the crash. He said that Robert Boyle was driving north, his car containing his brother and the Milwaukeeans. He tried to pass a machine and sideswiped the southbound auto of Alden Olson, 30, of 5212 Melrose street. The Boyle machine, Lee said, glanced off another machine behind Olson's and then hit the third car being driven south by Huguenin.

Boy Killed by Kin's Car.

In another accident, Leslie Blasius, 14 years old, 2033 South 13th avenue, Maywood, was killed by an automobile in which his father, Arthur W. Blasius, was a passenger and which was driven by his cousin, Miss Paula Fenster, 30 years old, 1103 Harlem avenue, Forest Park. The three had left the Blasius home for the Fenster home. Leslie chose to ride his bicycle instead of going in the automobile. The vehicle had been purchased for him as a birthday present last Saturday. The boy rode beside the automobile until they reached Roosevelt road, Forest Park. Then he pedaled ahead of the machine and before Miss Fenster could avoid an accident the car hit him.

Other deaths listed yesterday in Cook county were:

William Boehmler, 60 years old, 4225 Overhill avenue, Norwood Park township. Fatally injured when struck by an automobile at Overhill avenue at Irving Park boulevard. Conrad Wolff, 29 years old, 1107 East Maple street, Lombard, was the driver.

Ignatz Gabbes, 40 years old, 4237 South Artesian avenue. Fatally injured when he was struck by the automobile driven by Dr. Andrew Beasley, colred, of 4953 Calumet avenue, at 87th street and Western avenue. Dr. Beasley was held for the inquest by Gresham police.

Unidentified woman about 35 years old. Fatally injured, when she walked into the side of a car driven by Joseph Dzuminiski, 4722 South Elizabeth street, at Twenty-fourth street and Western avenue. She died on the way to St. Anthony's hospital.

John Brown, 35 years old, colored, 28 West 22d street. Fatally injured when he was knocked down by one automobile and run over by another, driven by a hit and run motorist, at 29th street and South Park way.

Tilly Terlecka, 5 years old, 1302 Holt street. Died in the Washington Boulevard hospital of injuries suffered Aug. 28 when she was struck by an automobile in front of 1618 West Chicago avenue. A. Metzger, 1146 West Austin avenue, was the driver.

Mrs. Mollie Towkowitz, 79 years old, 1912 Crystal street. Died at the St. Mary's hospital from injuries suffered Sunday when she was struck by an automobile at Damen and Potomac avenues. The driver was Gustave Grande, 2110 North Oakley avenue.

Walter Wearns, colored, 7 years old, 1330 Hastings street. Died at the county hospital from injuries sustained when he was struck by an automobile near his home on Sunday. The driver was Clarence Hawkins, colored, 1359 South Peoria street.

Joseph Mandel, 20, 4904 North Rockwell street, Chicago, was killed when his automobile knocked over a telephone pole and overturned in a ditch ten miles north of Manitowoc, Wis.

John T. Fiske, of Chicago, was killed yesterday on a highway near Detroit. His address was not learned. Police said he was struck by the car of a hit and run driver. Fiske's body was found beside his own machine.

Five Jailed for Spreading Rumors of Bank Scandal

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BREMEN, Sept. 7.—A woman and four men today received jail terms of four to six weeks for spreading a false rumor that one of the directors of the Municipal Savings bank had fled with millions of deposits. The rumor caused great alarm among the population and resulted in a run on the bank's reserves.

BURNS TO DEATH WHEN HE DRAINS AUTO CRANKCASE

Lawrence Huggins, 33 years old, of 1320 Juneway terrace, an employé of the Cadillac Motor Car company's garage, 1310 Ridge avenue, Evanston, was fatally burned last night when he was draining oil from the crankcase of an automobile. He died early this morning in St. Francis hospital, Evanston.

The automobile was hot from a long run when Huggins drove it on the greasing pit, and went down into the pit. Suddenly there was a burst of flames which enveloped him, ignited his clothing, and burned him from head to foot. Rescuers hurried him to the hospital.

The cause of the blast had not been determined early, but the police theory was that fumes from the car had escaped into the pit and were ignited either by the heat from an electric light bulb or by a spark, possibly from a defective wire leading to the light.

"ALFALFA BILL" DEMANDS A NEW DEAL IN 1932

Pleads for Credits for Nation's Producers.

on all raw materials produced on the farm, "including cotton and oil." Let the farmer have the same advantages from a tariff as manufacturers, he argued. He stands for a campaign to increase foreign trade, but he wanted the extensions made in Latin America rather than in European markets.

"We're too closely allied now with Europe and its wars and hatreds and intrigues," the governor complained. "May Almighty God forbid we ever have another war fought for Europe's selfish ends, taking our boys in supreme sacrifices."

Traces Labor's Advances.

He praised the strides taken by laboring men and went back to 1835 to tell of the six English workmen from Dorset, sent to an Australian prison camp for daring to ask their landed gentry for a wage increase. One of them, a preacher, fired England with a poem written in protest, and from this sort of oppression of labor, said Gov. Murray, has grown the freedom of the American workman.

"Why, I've called out the militia of my state twice for the benefit of the workmen," he said, and got another hand.

His Program on Taxation.

Writing still another plank in what some in the audience concluded was a presidential platform, Gov. Murray called for the assessment of taxes against the people according to their ability to pay and the services they derive.

"The poor man needs little from the government," declared Alfalfa Bill. "No thief covets his possessions. The police department protects the hoards of the rich. Why shouldn't the rich pay for the police department? We should apply all the other costs of government against the users of the government services in the same manner."

For Farmer and Worker.

Returning again and again to the plight of the American farmer, Gov. Murray said in one phase of the speech:

"Civilization begins and ends with the plow. When the plow turns at the end of the furrow with a profit, that works for civilization. You can't trust to big mergers or big monopolies to sprinkle prosperity about the country.

"When you give the farmer a reasonable profit, and when you give the laborer—even a ditch digger—enough money to keep his family—they will make the country prosperous. They will put the money into circulation.

"When I have talked about the horrors of another winter to come, of the revolution which surely stares the land of our fathers in the face if conditions do not improve, they call me an alarmist. But I'm not. The political flames that burn the hovels of the poor will eventually burn the mansions of the rich."

Alfalfa Bill scorned the political ministrations of the "business man." He took the American voters to task for giving their support to "the man who jollies us under the chin too much."

Warns of Political Deals.

"Remember," he said, "the man who promises most fulfills the least. When you hear of a business man candidate look carefully and you'll find some utility behind him—trading, trading for their own advantage.

"Well, friends, as far as I'm concerned, there's going to be no trading any more, because we're going to lick 'em! As far as my party is concerned, it's going to stick to platform promises, or it may become necessary to bolt the party."

Other speakers at the Labor day celebration included former Gov. Edwin F. Morrow of Kentucky and Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor. Many local labor leaders and politicians were introduced from the speakers' stand.

Gov. Murray left last night for Oklahoma.

100,000 IN CAPITAL SEE FIREMEN OF NINE STATES IN PARADE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—[Special.]—A Labor day crowd estimated at above 100,000 packed Pennsylvania avenue and other capital thoroughfares today to watch what was described as the largest and most colorful firemen's parade ever staged in this community. With ideal weather conditions prevailing, fire fighters of nine states and the District of Columbia participated in the spectacle.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, a dark horse Democratic presidential candidate, led the parade from Peace monument to the treasury and then watched it pass from the reviewing stand near the district building. It took the array of up-to-date and old fashioned fire fighting equipment three hours to cover the entire line of march.

The Maryland governor was cheered as the next President of the United States by a group of citizens as he walked down the flight of steps from the reviewing stand following the performance.

Outside of the big parade in the morning and firemen's contests during the balance of the day, Labor day passed quietly so far as the national capital was concerned.

AID FOR JOBLESS AND REST MARK HOOVER HOLIDAY

Luray, Va., Sept. 7.—(AP)—President Hoover partly observed Labor day today by discussing with a former cabinet member the problem of America's unemployed.

James R. Garfield of Cleveland, former secretary of the interior and now a member of the relief committee headed by Walter S. Gifford, conferred with the President on help for the jobless.

Boston City Employes to Go on 5 Day Week Jan. 1

Boston, Mass., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Boston municipal employes will go on a five day week beginning Jan. 1 next in an effort to start a five day week movement in communities throughout the country to relieve unemployment, Mayor Curley announced today in a Labor day speech. About 7,000 of the city's 20,000 employes will be included in the five day week, which will not include the 12,000 in the fire and police departments, the schools, city hospitals, and institutions.

"The Old Order Changeth, yielding place to new"

The Chicago Board of Trade in the Nineties. What a difference today, and what a difference in refrigerators too, now that you can have Electrolux.

The silence of Electrolux, its freedom from moving parts, makes this refrigerator the new outstanding kind

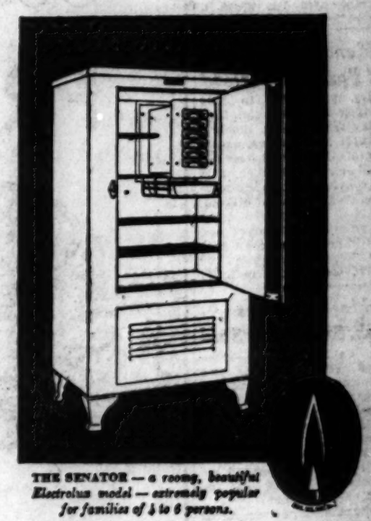
AN AUTOMATIC REFRIGERATOR that has no moving parts at all — that's Electrolux.

A tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water do all the work in this refrigerator. The gas flame is completely protected by an automatic shut-off. The refrigerant is hermetically sealed in rigid steel. There's no stopping and starting. The chilling action is continuous.

This is an entirely new kind of refrigerator. No sound as long as you have it. Costs less to use than any other kind—about five cents a day. And should it ever need adjustment, you get the prompt, efficient kind of service for which your gas company is famous.

Tried and proved by actual use in more than 175,000 homes. Specified by prominent architects and builders. Connections for gas and water are through concealed, flexible copper tubing, and are quickly made for you.

Eleven household models—3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity. Displayed at all showrooms listed below. Prices no higher, despite its unique advantages. Complete information by mail if you will write to us today or phone Wabash 6000.



THE SENATOR — a roomy, beautiful Electrolux model — extremely popular for families of 4 to 6 persons.

COSTS LESS TO OPERATE
Electrolux is the world's most economical refrigerator. It operates for about five cents a day — less than the cost of any other means of refrigeration.

Trade unionism utilized the golden jubilee of the American Federation of Labor yesterday to stage an impressive demonstration against unemployment. Bands, banners, flags, placards, and floats were used in a concerted appeal for jobs.

By the tens of thousands, rank on rank, a parade of the labor unions of Chicago moved down Michigan boulevard under a brilliant sun, each of its phalanxes headed by the stars and stripes and the insignia of its craft. An hour and a half was required for the procession to pass a given point in its progress toward Soldiers' Field and the subsequent activities there.

Bands Blare Cheery Note.

Ten, fifteen, sometimes twenty abreast, the marchers streamed on, and band after band passed, with determined optimism blaring forth, "Happy Days are Here Again." There was little of hilarity among the marchers. For the most part they moved with serious mein, eyes front.

Shouts, laughter and applause, however, rippled around and ahead of the various parts of the parade scoring the liquor laws. They were surprisingly frequent.

The first cheers were drawn by a large poster proclaiming "Give Us Beer and Employ a Million Workers." Another that started the cheers read, "To Return to Normal Conditions, Repeal the Eighteenth Amendment."

The union of egg inspectors brandished a placard asserting, "Prohibition Has Reduced the Consumption of Eggs," and a large float depicting a beer garden, with men seated at tables on which stood empty steins, likewise forth the slogan, "What This Country Needs Is a Stein of Real Beer."

Want Jobs, Not Charity.

Many there were in the line of march who have been out of work for months. How large a percentage it would be difficult to estimate. Yet solital sentiment was conspicuous by its absence. This throng of skilled and unskilled workers placed its problems before the rest of the world, not in protest, but in vigorous appeal.

"Give Us Work, Not Charity," appeared on one placard after another. "Plenty of Work Stops Depression," said a different version. "Labor Has Signed on the New Postoffice," announced succeeding posters, optimistically.

"Start a Building Program by Rebuilding the Slums," urged one sign carried by members of building trades, and another, in huge letters stretched across the side of a vast truck, advised "Build Now and Save." This float was sponsored by the union of technical engineers, architects and draftsmen.

Thousands of Marchers.

Shoulder to shoulder, the men of this army of labor tramped along. Kitchens by the hundreds. Painters by the thousands. Glaziers, plasterers, carpenters, painters, decorators; elevator operators in uniform, especially those of the Board of Trade, in snappy black suits striped with silver; sign painters, scenic and poster artists; electricians file on file; laundry employés, upholsterers, railway workers, playground teachers, postoffice clerks, typographers, printers and pressmen; gas union workers, boot and shoe unions, and row after row of meat cutters in white smocks and overseas caps; elevated railway employés, millinery workers, and platoons of window washers in the wake of a banner that read, "We Are Proud to Work; Give Us Employment."

One division of the line of march was composed of a fleet of automobiles, each topped with a large sign requesting the public to patronize only those theaters that employ members of the Chicago Moving Picture Machine Operators' union.

Horseshoers in Parade.

In contrast to the silently moving battalion of motor cars came a clatter and clangor as a big truck, drawn by a trio of splendid Percherons, their polished hoofs glinting, proclaimed the advance of the horseshoers' union. Blacksmiths' hammers rang on the anvils as the float proceeded, and applause drifted along with it as the atmosphere of a passing generation caught the attention of the spectators lining the sidewalks.

It had been estimated by officials of the various unions that the total of marchers would reach 40,000. The actual turnout is believed to have surpassed that number by a considerable margin.

MACHADO CALLS CUBAN LEADERS TO HIS PALACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Sept. 7. — "Sensational and important revelations will be made by President Machado to representatives of all phases of national life tomorrow," reads an urgent telegram sent tonight by Ricardo Herrera, the president's secretary, to newspaper editors, bankers, business and political leaders.

Many of these leaders are now en route to Havana to attend the "meeting of notables" scheduled for 5 p. m. tomorrow at the presidential palace.

All efforts to ascertain the chief executive's intended message were futile. Some reports indicate President Machado will speak on proposed constitutional reforms. Other reports indicate his declarations will be far more important and will affect all interests so urgently summoned.

Kills Himself with Gun Hidden in Wooden Leg

Decatur, Ill., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Using a gun which police believe he had concealed in his wooden leg, Benjamin Amber, 54, shot himself in the temple at the city jail here today. He is fatally wounded. Amber was a suspect in the killing of Roy Petersen, a factory watchman murdered last week. Amber wrote a denial of the crime on a handkerchief, but indicated that he knew who had killed Petersen.

Yank Goes to Prison for Trying to Defraud Bank

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 7. — Jack Gold, an American citizen, was found guilty of an attempt to defraud a Danish bank of $20,000 and was sentenced to two and one-half years in prison today. He will be deported upon the expiration of his sentence.

LEWIS CALLS HIGH WAGES BASIS OF U. S. PROSPERITY

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 7.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, said in a Labor day address today that national prosperity is dependent on high wages and regularity of employment. Addressing Des Moines workers he predicted a continuation of the present economic depression as a result of what he described as "a ruthless assault on the wage structure of American workers."

"There can be no permanent progress or prosperity until the economic axis of capitalism revolves on a sound bases of an equitable distribution of profits," he said. "Profits as a whole must be large enough to enable all human factors engaged in each industry to share the profits gained in sufficient amount to maintain relative purchasing power.

Necessary to Success.

"Had this essential basic principle, necessary to the success of industrial capitalism been observed, droughts, market crashes, mechanization of industry and various other revolutionary changes would not have destroyed the purchasing power of the masses.

"The earning power of the masses has been decreased so far below that necessary to sustain consuming requirments of our productive facilities that our people can not now earn sufficient money to buy back prosperity."

Mr. Lewis said the bituminous coal industry was as an outstanding example of what happens "when a single industry is thrown out of gear with the main forces of industrial enterprise." Wage cutting has reduced the coal workers to semi-serf labor relations, he said, and checked the consumption of products of other industries.

Green Pleads for Work.

Ottumwa, Ia., Sept. 5.— (AP) —William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, asserted today the right of labor to the same measure of security in work as the employer has security in profits.

Speaking at a Labor day picnic here, the leader of organized labor said the working man wants not the dole but the assurance of employment.

For the present, he advocated distribution of all the available work among the millions now unemployed. For the present, he proposed long time planning of public improvements projects, old age pension laws, regulation of child labor, higher standards of workmen's compensation laws, better educational opportunities, elimination of competition from convict made commodities, protection of women in industry, improved vocational training, and legislation for relief from the injunction in labor disputes.

"Labor is appealing for work assurance," said Green.

Green pledged labor's support to any proposition that would better the condition of agriculture, and concluded with a hope that a turn for the better is not distant.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE POLITICS OF THE WORLD COURT.

The obvious cleavage in the Permanent Court of International Relations revealed by the advisory opinion, or rather opinions, upon the Austro-German trade agreement was, of course, foreseen by those who understand the real character of that tribunal. The leading judges who found that the agreement violates the treaty of St. Germain and the Geneva protocol of 1922 are representatives of France, Poland, France's political satellite, Rumania, another French satellite, and Italy, whose government is opposed to anything likely to strengthen the hand of Germany in middle Europe, the region in which Italian ambition is most concerned. These, with the aid of Spain, which has reason to conciliate the French attitude at this time; Cuba, and two Latin American republics, Colombia and Salvador, made up a majority of one. Of contrary opinion are the representatives of Germany and Holland, Great Britain and Japan, China, Belgium, and the American jurist, Kellogg.

That this alignment represents disinterested judicial difference only the most gullible could believe. It is recognized in Europe, as the true character of the court is recognized, as a decision governed by important political interests. The appearance of Belgium in the minority causes frank surprise among European commentators, but there have been some interesting changes in diplomatic policy during the present financial crisis. The fact that the unexpected alignment was broken in one important instance does not obscure the significance of the main alignment. The division of the court perfectly represents the political cleavage of Europe, the majority opinion dominated by the French policy of restraining the restoration of German influence, and the minority opinion by the governments disposed to assist it within reasonable bounds.

This is a disclosure, while it causes no surprise in Europe, which should be helpful in the United States, where our adherence to the court has been urged on the ground that it is an independent and disinterested juridical body, which is to be depended upon to establish and develop a system of international law based upon and governed by juridical science and free from the influence of nationalist interests and policies.

No such illusion exists in Europe in responsible quarters. It is not, we are confident, even among American advocates of the court, the controlling consideration. Our leading advocates also favor our entrance into the league of nations, a political agency, and the fact that the court is the creature of the league and will on all important issues express the political viewpoints and interests of the constituent nationalities in legal formulæ naturally does not offend Americans who favor our entrance into the parent body.

But such opponents of the surrender of our political independence in exchange for a rôle in the league system as have not realized the character of the league's judicial department, and therefore have been inclined to favor our entrance into the court on the theory that it is a disinterested tribunal, governed only by juridical considerations, now have matter for second thought.

Objections to our entrance into the court on the ground that it is an adjunct and aspect of the league have been decried as demagogy. It was and is, however, founded on realities. Lawyers have generally favored the court, but on fallacious apologies. The family of civilized nations is not yet a world state, and we are not yet ready for a world executive, a world legislature, or a world court. However inspiring these conceptions may be, they are not satisfactorily represented by the league of nations system, and cannot be while Europe is what it is. To enter the world court is to enter that system with all it implies. Isolated we are not and never will be and never can be. We are, indeed, drawn irresistibly into new relations and complications with the old world, but that is not a reason for surrendering what measure of freedom we possess. It rather is a reason to guard and preserve it.

THE SPORTING CODE AND THE LOAN.

Now that parliament is in session it may be taken for granted that Mr. MacDonald's opponents will make much of the charge that American finance insisted upon a reduction of the dole as a condition of the emergency loan. They will seek to create the impression that a harsh policy has been forced upon a spineless government by foreigners. For political purposes this argument may prove of much value.

Some Americans are going to feel apologetic about the matter, as if the placing of such a condition was dishonorable, like hitting a man when he is down. There is not the slightest justification for any such attitude on the part of our bankers, our government, or our citizens. As long as the world has had lenders and borrowers the lender has had the last word in fixing the terms on which credit is to be granted. This is not to say that the lender is justified in placing humiliating or ruinous conditions, but there can be no doubt that in his own interest he is justified in placing conditions which will assure repayment.

Great Britain today is in much the position of an old and well established business house which has fallen into difficulties through errors of management. It has turned to the bankers for help and the bankers are insisting on certain changes in the conduct of the company's affairs. To call such a proceeding dishonorable, and an undue interference in the affairs of others, is to say, in effect, that the lender has no right to safeguard his loan as best he can.

Certainly the bankers of other countries, including Britain, are not accustomed to taking so altruistic a view of their responsibilities. It is customary for French bankers to lend upon receipt of political as well as financial assurances. The pre-war loans of France to Russia, which sealed the entente, and the post-war loans to the little entente, which have brought these nations into the French military scheme and held them there, are typical. Austria was obliged to forego her ambition for union with Germany by French financial pressure. When Britain recently was called to the assistance of Australia, as American finance is now assisting Britain, a balanced budget was made a prerequisite of aid, and that meant the sacrifice of just such social services as the dole.

The people of this country have more reason to fear that the terms of the loan to Britain are too easy than that they are too harsh. A great deal depends upon the outcome of the next parliamentary election. If Labor wins and the balancing of the budget becomes a secondary consideration in the policy of the next government, our bankers may regret their leniency.

PENAL REFORMS.

There is no doubt our penal system needs improvements, some of them fundamental and difficult to bring about. The most important is to stop sending to prison people who do not belong there. We have been making artificial crimes on a mass production scale. They clog the courts and pack the jails in obscene congestion. When we return to the conception of government held by our forbears, that government is an instrument of political order and not for the mechanical manufacture of mass morality according to the notions of what is moral held by any fraction of voters able to get a law passed, we shall free ourselves promptly from the most pressing of our prison problems.

The next most important phase of prison reform is the intelligent segregation of incorrigibles and the development of an efficient system of education and moral training for offenders judged by competent authority to be capable of reclamation.

This reform has been seriously retarded by two influences, one that of political pull, the other that of ill-advised humanitarianism. Politics has exploited for its own profit the pardon and parole laws which are intended to mitigate the rigidity of penalties and encourage reform in the wrongdoer. It has done much to discredit their intent and pervert their administration. The public is constantly reading of crimes committed by men who are at large because of these laws, although they are habitual offenders. That they are free indicates either the use of political influence or some very serious defects in the system, the laws themselves or their administration.

Why have not these familiar weaknesses of our treatment of even dangerous criminals long ago brought about reform? Partly, perhaps, because practical politics does not wish to lose the opportunities assured by a manageable situation, but chiefly because public sentiment in this country has a deplorable tendency to pity the culprit and forget his victim. There is professional humanitarianism which persistently favors relaxation of penalties for atrocious crimes, denies their value as restraint, and loses its sense of justice in theories of environment and the responsibility of society. But, apart from that, we suspect there is a hereditary sentiment in the American people in favor of any one under the discipline of government. We are descended from ancestors who were not of the governing classes and the significance of our change to self-government has not reached our emotional reactions. Whether this is far-fetched or not, public sentiment, although it has storms of indignation over spectacular crimes, quickly subsides and veers subconsciously toward the offender. To this result certain sensational newspaper policies have deliberately contributed.

No doubt we are not treating many offenders intelligently. There is urgent reason for separating the habitual and incorrigible from those who are reclaimable under favorable conditions. But this distinction should not be drawn by sentimentalism or by a scientific experimentalism in advance of its proofs. Doubt in case of all offenders guilty of violence should be determined in favor of public safety. Under the present system the tendency is too often the other way. There are too many criminals at large who are repeated in their offending and should be shut up and kept so. If we are incompetent in reconstruction methods we are even more inadequate in our treatment of incorrigibles.

Editorial of the Day

[Decatur Herald.]

This did not happen in Decatur, but in Chicago. It was related by a Decatur business man, a relative of whom was involved. And it does as well for Decatur as for Chicago.

Two banks merged, and a number of employés dismissed. The Decatur man's relative held a minor position in one. Jobs were scarce and his was dear. He sensed the possibility of losing it, and he did what any one would be likely to do in his position—he began to put in effect the most stringent personal economies. He changed his rooming place for one that was cheaper, laid aside the temptation to buy a new suit, even cut down on his eating, all on the theory that every penny must be saved. In addition he worried. It seems fair to suppose that worry affected his work.

One day his superior sent for him. "Here," thought the young man, "is where I'm told I'm through." He entered the office and faced the man at the desk. The official looked up. "I hope," he said, "that you understand we regard you as a permanent fixture here."

The young man had not understood. But he was glad to hear the news, so glad in fact he changed his manner of living completely; he expanded, he became a normal consumer.

The same thing is happening in a thousand places. People are nervous; alarmed when there is no occasion to be. Their superiors never have thought to tell them that they were secure; hence economies and self-denial; and hence less business for merchants, less demand for manufactured goods; fewer carloadings on the railroads, and less work for trainmen and shopmen and so on until the circle is complete.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

DEETOORS.

Now, about this here thing of deetoors, as they're usually called. They've been holding up new road building in Illinois, so we haven't got the deetoor question before us as they have down east. In New York you can look at the map and pick out the nice, pretty roads all you want to, but when you travel you go on deetoors. And to the great army of enthusiastic but untrained road workers who are now turned loose on the highway a deetoor means a path that leads across cornfields, swamps, along the sides of steep hills with a forty-five per cent slope, and over rocks, sand, and deep tar. We taught our machine to jump gullies, climb trees, and straddle over barbed wire fencing, but she broke her heart, to say nothing of her rear axle, when she tried to navigate a sea of rocks in New York state. Somebody ought to tell the busy roadmakers that an automobile has its limitations. It's a wonderful machine and all that, but it's hard to teach it to stand up and walk on its hind legs and snap sugar off its nose. We always gave three ringing cheers when we saw the glad sign "Men Working," but old seven ninety-nine would give a hollow groan away down in her carburetor and mutter, "Here's where I get a stiff swat on the snoot."

And she always did. If they keep on making deetoors the only solution of the thing will be an automobile fitted with airplane wings, so that it can fly from one piece of good road to the next, if any.

THE WORDLESS SONGS.

The heart has choice of words when it is sad,
Or bitter or exalted. It can sing
In language that expresses everything.
But phrases adequate cannot be had
For simple happiness. So when the heart
Is placid, poetry can play no part;
For happiness sings little wordless songs.
And that is why a poet prates of strife,
Or joy, or sorrow—not the peace of life!

WINIFRED STACKVILLE STONER II., now twenty-nine and who is reported in the public press as having just left her third, was renowned at the age of six, when she wrote a book, as a child genius. And a few years later, with her hair still in pigtails, it was proudly proclaimed that Winifred could speak twelve languages. But apparently Winifred never learned to say "No" in any of them and hiked up to the altar as fast as anybody suggested the idea.

THE MOST SELF-CONSCIOUS looking person in the world is a large fat man in the rumble seat of a roadster trying not to look self-conscious.

CONGRESSMEN live in Washington and wear silk hats and live happy, carefree lives. But think of the worrying they have to do right now trying to decide whether they'll get more votes by being wet or dry.

THE REPORTERS on the ship bringing Gandhi to London say that in preparation for the round table conference he is reading the proceedings of the first conference, but that they invariably put him to sleep. We've noticed that in reading the reports of all the conferences held in Washington a dozen times a day lately and even oftener. We should love to read all about them, but fall asleep after perusing the first few lines. Something should be done to conference reports to make 'em a little snappier. Maybe a few comical stories should be woven in, such as "The conference to buy patent rubber ham sandwiches for the starving natives of Zamboanga was opened yesterday by the secretary of state with the remark that the starving natives of Zamboanga reminded him of the story of Pat and Mike, who had never seen a mosquito." A little human interest like that woven into the report of a conference might keep the readers awake until they got as far as the third paragraph. Anyhow, it's worth trying.

GERMANY has gone quite wild over houses of steel and glass and she's building 'em all over the place. Very good; then Germany must say no more harsh things about that so dear France. For those who dwell in glass houses, etc., etc., etc.

ALFALFA BILL MURRAY of Oklahoma considers himself as a possible candidate for President next year. But it could never be. Alfalfa Bill wears suspenders and snaps 'em as he talks. My dear, what would the foreign diplomats think in Washington of a President who wore suspenders to hold up his pants? We must think of the foreign diplomats first, of course.

AN EXCEPTION.

I've played the game with many men,
I shall not deny it;
Doctors, lawyers, merchants, chiefs,
I've been game to try it.

One love in a span of years
Is nothing but baloney;
I'm afraid I was not made
Loving one man only.

I've written verses by the score,
Pretending that the true one
Had left me sad and desolate—
I've always met a new one.

Rhyming words have been an aid,
Oh can it be prophetic
That you're the only man for whom
I cannot wax poetic?

ARE YOUR CHILDREN CAPABLE?

I HAVE before me a directory of this city issued fifty years ago. I have been running through its advertising pages as well as the list of names and places. I am impressed by the names that have disappeared. In most cases the outstanding business concerns of half a century ago have disappeared—some by one route and some by another. In that day it was the custom to designate a business by the names of its owners.

In the majority of instances there are no descendants of those originating owners either in control of such businesses as have survived, or given in the directories as associated with the business, or even as a part of the community.

The thought that this stimulates is that a man may have great business foresight but, for one reason or another, he may not provide for the continuance of his own line of descent. His success certainly has convinced him that he is a superior man—a leader among his fellows. He should have enough egotism to think that his progeny should be superior to the progeny of less capable men.

He claims with pride that his business is one of the rocks on which his city or his state rests and, to that degree at least, he is a public benefactor. If he is willing to build one of those foundations for the city's welfare, he might also give some consideration to perpetuating his superior stock for the sake of the state as well as that of his business.

And yet we find little evidence that the powerful men have taken thought of their own family eugenics as a part of the responsibilities of position and power. The families of the Presidents lend themselves rather easily to investigation of the subject. Suppose we limit ourselves to those born more than one hundred years ago, since that plan has the advantages of being remote enough not to offend; by giving some time for descendants to show their capacities; and the group is large enough to make a study of some value.

Those born one hundred years ago, or more, include all from Washington to Cleveland. First, we are struck by the considerable number who had no children. Next, by the number who had children but no boys to carry on the name. The list runs from Washington to Van Buren—almost fifty years with no boys except in the families of the Adamses. Among the descendants of the earlier Presidents there are none who bear the family names except Adams and Harrison until we reach Gen. Grant.

About a century and a quarter ago Thomas Lincoln married and started his family. In that family was Abraham Lincoln. But today there is no descendant bearing the name of Lincoln. About the same time Robert S. Todd married and started his family. In that family there were sixteen children, one of whom became the wife of Abraham Lincoln. Today there are a few descendants of Robert Todd, but among them there is no one bearing the name Todd.

It may be that no President has ever thought of it as being a part of his duty to beget superior children, and to train them to carry on when he left off. It is in accordance with experience elsewhere that among the descendants of superior men who have served as President there would have been many superior people whose services society needed.

In this the Presidents are used merely as illustrations. What is said of them applies to the superior people in other walks of life.

CAUSE OF RICKETS.

Mrs. A. L. DeW. writes:

1. What is the cause of rickets?
2. Would a child of one so afflicted at infancy inherit this disorder?

REPLY.

1. Rickets is a disease of bone making cartilage, and young bone, which results from a deficiency of vitamin D. Back of this deficiency is a lack of good quality sunlight.

2. No. Rickets is not inheritable. A few babies have congenital rickets, but that is not inherited.

PIGMENTATION.

Mrs. M. F. writes: What is the cause of pigmentation of the skin, and what can be done for it?

REPLY.

If you ask what is the immediate cause of normal pigmentation of the skin, the answer is: The deposit of certain colored chemicals in certain cells of the deeper parts of the skin. If you ask what are the exciting causes of abnormal pigmentation, the answer must be incomplete.

Excess light is the cause of tanning and of some kind of freckles. Certain parts of the light ray act on the pigment cells of the skin. A skin fungus akin to ringworm causes some patches. Tuberculosis of the adrenals causes the pigmentation of Addison's disease.

PROBATING ESTATE.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1928 my sister died leaving a husband and two children, aged 15 and 13. In 1930 my sister's husband wrote that the property in California had been probated and for me to attend the probating of the property in Chicago. 1. I instructed a lawyer to probate the property, and he filed a partition suit. 2. Property was not sold. 3. I discharged the lawyer from further services to save further expense, as children were not of age. The lawyer charged me $121 for his services. 4. Who should pay this bill? 5. What would be the best way to collect the part I advanced to the lawyer? G. S.

1. If you mean that he disobeyed your instructions then he may not be entitled to collect for this reason.
2. You do not state the reason for this.
3. The fact that there were minors would not prevent a partition sale.
4. The lawyer would be entitled to collect from you if he had properly performed the services for which he was employed. Your right to enforce contribution from the California parties would depend on the understanding with them.
5. We do not have sufficient facts to advise you further.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LUNCH WAGON REMOVED.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—We make complaint about a lunch car that is standing in the middle of our section of houses. This lunch car stands there twenty-four hours daily. We did not know the streets could be blocked by any one permanently. As taxpayers we attempted to have the permit revoked, but were unsuccessful. Loud talking all through the night and fumes from charcoal barbecue cooking annoy us. Litter of all kinds is thrown in the gutter, drawing flies and making conditions otherwise unsanitary. Can you tell us what action to take to have this car moved and thus ridding the neighborhood of a nuisance? A. J.

The owner of the lunch wagon obtained permit No. 79,344, issued by the bureau of compensation, which expires on Sept. 1, 1931. He conducted this business up until Aug. 25, at which time he put his wagon in storage, stating that he has discontinued business at the above location and that he is not going to operate there any more. Crews have visited the location several times during their night tour of duty and report that the wagon has not been there. The investigation will be continued to avoid any cause for further complaint from this source.

Acting Commissioner of Police.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 8, 1915.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—[By Floyd Gibbons.]—An order which practically established a martial law zone along the Texas shore of the Rio Grande was sent out by Maj. Gen. Frederick Funston at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex. It is believed the order emanated from Washington. It places the military authorities in command over all bodies of civilians in the river zone. This applies to Texas rangers, sheriffs, and special deputies, and the vigilance committee organized among the ranchmen. The military authorities discovered more evidence of a conspiracy among the Mexicans to invade Texas. The evidence is a circular letter appealing to Mexicans to "rise in favor of Carranza and of independence because at the rate we are going here we will soon be living as the slaves of the Americans." A promise was made to those answering the call that "money will be provided if they still live at the end of the battles."

LONDON.—A German air raid was made on eastern counties of England. The official statement says: "It is known that there have been some fires and some casualties, but particulars are not available."

PARIS.—In a message to President Poincare, Emperor Nicholas of Russia announces that he has placed himself in command of all the armies of Russia. Military circles here take the announcement to mean that the czar means to spend practically all his time at the front encouraging his troops and arousing the spirits of his people in Petrograd.

VIENNA.—A defeat of the Russians over a front of about 25 miles in the vicinity of Brody, eastern Galicia, is announced by the war office.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 8, 1901.

BUFFALO.—President McKinley, while holding his own, is approaching a crisis, and perhaps tomorrow will decide what the effects of the shots fired by Leon Czolgosz will be. That no turn for the worse has come is a hopeful sign, but the physicians, except Dr. P. M. Rixey, the President's personal attendant, refuse to make any predictions until further developments. Dr. Rixey gave it as his opinion that the President will recover. He and Dr. Mynter are keeping vigil at the bedside of Mr. McKinley tonight, but the other physicians have left the John G. Milburne home, where the President was taken after he was shot on the Pan-American exposition grounds. Vice President Roosevelt arrived in the city from Vermont and went straight to the Milburne home, where he remained for half an hour, and then went to the Buffalo club, which to all intents and purposes has become the seat of the United States government. Secretaries Root, Gage, and Wilson, as well as Attorney General Knox and Postmaster General Smith, are making their headquarters there.

BUFFALO.—Czolgosz is proud of his deed and claims it as his own. He declares that there was no plot to kill the President and that he alone planned the shooting. A copy of a radical address delivered by Emma Goldman in Cleveland on May 6 was found in his pockets.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 8, 1881.

LONG BRANCH, N. J.—At midnight President Garfield was resting quietly. His temperature was only a little above normal and his pulse down to 108. Contradictory reports come from the sick room, but his physicians say that he held his own during the day. They hope for a decided improvement today. One of the discouraging reports was that the President nearly strangled in an effort to expel some puss that collected in his throat. It was one of the warmest days ever experienced in Long Branch, with the thermometer ranging between 90 and 100. The salt sea breezes for which the President traveled over 200 miles have completely died away. Secretary Blaine's bulletin to Minister Lowell in London is depressing.

KANSAS CITY.—The Chicago and Alton passenger train from Chicago was stopped and robbed by bandits three miles east of Independence. The train was flagged and 10 or 12 men entered the coaches and robbed the express and baggage cars and all the passengers except those in the rear coach. Some fifteen women in the Pullmans were relieved of their rings, watches and money to the total value of about $2,500. The scene of the robbery is only a few miles from Glendale, where the Alton train was robbed two years ago by Jesse James and his gang when they secured nearly $16,000. Today's bandits claimed to be of the James gang, but that is doubted by some officials in Kansas City. A report from Independence, however, says there is no possible doubt that the leader was Jesse James. Express Messenger Fox, who resisted, was so terribly beaten that it is not believed he can recover. After the robbery the bandits rode off into the woods and posses are scouring the country in every direction in an attempt to capture them.

BANK AUDITS.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Bank examiners are not sufficient in number and have not enough time at their disposal to make anything like an adequate investigation of bank affairs; while salary limitations and other unfavorable conditions incline to prevent, in many instances, the attraction of individuals of sufficiently high caliber to their ranks.

Still, it does not seem to occur to the depositors and stockholders of most banks that an independent audit by a qualified firm of accountants is not only desirable but necessary. A properly conducted periodical investigation of this nature will not only reveal or prevent embezzlements but will tend to forestall bank failures by calling attention to unsatisfactory conditions.

Such accountants or auditors should be elected by the stockholders at each annual meeting, and should be responsible to them alone. It is not desirable that the auditors should be obligated for their appointment to bank directors or other officials whose activities they are in duty bound to investigate.

JOHN E. SMART, C. P. A., A. C. A.

NOT TO MENTION THE PERSPIRATION.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Being a blacksmith, McCutcheon's cartoon about new uses for steel was of absorbing interest to me. It should be the means of increasing a demand for steel products without injuring the woodworkers. All through history innovations have been frowned upon, but once adopted they became a necessity and never failed to bring prosperity after the demand had been established. Take, for example, the early reign of King Edward III. of England. Knights had worn chain mail for centuries and considered it the ultimate in defensive armor. Then some enterprising armorers, led by Peder Pedersen, master armorer of Hastings, startled the world of chivalry by forging suits of solid steel. The fogies opposed this new form of defense as "indefensible" for over a decade. But just before the battle of Crecy a wave of enthusiasm for plate armor swept over England, with the result that prosperity ruled for some years.

Permit this suggestion, fantastic, perhaps, but worth trying: Despite the depression there are many wealthy people in our U. S. A. possessing hundreds of millions of dollars, yet spending little. They will start spending if something is offered that appeals to their imaginations. So let us revive the honorable trade of armor making and forge full suits of steel for the well-to-do. Let every man of means purchase a panoply of plate, which he can wear on important occasions, such as at public banquets, in parades, etc. It will also furnish protection for public men, police officers, etc., driving in their autos. A shield of light steel worn on the left arm would add to one's invulnerability. And then—watch the dollars flow!

JOHN REYNOLDS.

FAIR AND UNPREJUDICED.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—It is to be regretted that Mr. McCutcheon's cartoon relative to steel houses was misinterpreted, and I am impressed with the correct analysis of his motives as handled in your editorial columns. It is fair, unprejudiced and broadminded.

Personally, I am and always have been an admirer of Mr. McCutcheon; by a few strokes of his pen he portrays facts, tastes and fancies with such clarity that the ideas to be conveyed are immediately made apparent and grasped.

He shows himself to be a great scholar, handling social, economic and political problems with clear vision and fearlessness, and because of this it is quite apparent that predatory interests might make him an unfair target.

FARES.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Several years ago, when the rapid transit company was endeavoring to increase its fare to 10 cents straight, many promises were made to the public concerning improved service, etc. However, since the fare was raised it appears that fewer cars are being run, that there is little, if any, new equipment, and that there has been a decrease in the number of trainmen employed. Prices generally are coming down. Why not "L" fares?

"L" RIDER.

FROM A MAIL-ORDER BRIDE.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Just a few lines in regard to the correspondence clubs. I happen to be one woman who met my husband through just such a club, and will say that I am the happiest or one of the happiest women in the world today and the mother of three darling children and have a wonderful husband.

I lived in Texas, and five years ago just for fun, my girl friend and I joined a club and received some very interesting letters. Will say, best sons very well educated people that, like I, were lonesome, too.

So became interested in a Chicago gentleman and after we exchanged references, which every member is advised to do, we met, married, and never regretted doing so.

I think the clubs are wonderful, and like everything else, every now and then one will find a snake in the grass every day, in the home, hotels and wayside. They don't put the hotels out of business. My advice is, if you are lonesome join a club, and if the party cannot furnish first class references and stand the most rigid investigation, then he is not worthy of any consideration.

From a club member who will always recommend a friendship club. And would like to hear from some of the thousands of other members who, like myself, were made happy through a club. They have made millions happy and nothing was said until this terrible tragedy, and now they talk only about the sad end of it. So let's talk about the good they have done as well as the misfortunes they met.

Please do not publish my name, as my husband would get sore, but as far as I am concerned it would not bother me.

MRS. M.

FOR A CLEAN STAGE.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—It was with interest that I read in this morning's Tribune to the effect that Mayor Cermak had warned the manager of the Rialto that his show must "clean up or close up." I immediately sent our mayor a letter of congratulation for what he had said. I think that every citizen who has a heart the welfare of his city should back up the mayor in his effort to reform the stage.

I am no "blue nosed reformer." I am a patron of what the theater in general has to offer in the way of good, clean amusement. But, like any sensible person, I balk at indecent, immoral, and debasing shows which are so often foisted on the public under the general head of "high class entertainment." In this the movies are equally to blame.

REV. FRANCIS GROSS.

GOVERNMENT FINANCE.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—To the average man it has been a cause for wonder what kind of laws we have that permit the secretary of the treasury to issue the so-called "short term treasury certificates" for millions of dollars, from time to time, apparently at his own sweet will, until there is outstanding at the present time the enormous amount of over two billion five hundred million dollars ($2,543,969,000) of these certificates, and to which he now proposes to add $200,000,000 more, making a total of almost three billions of dollars borrowed in this manner. But wonder turns to amazement (or worse) when we see Mr. Mellon proposes to issue $800,000,000 of long term bonds on which the people will have to pay interest for the next 18 to 24 years, especially as he has already sold two long term bond issues this year—one in March, for $800,000,000, and one in June, for $800,000,000, or a total of $2,200,000,000 in long term bonds. This added to the short term notes, makes the enormous amount of over five billion dollars borrowed by Mellon, with the people or their representatives never having a word to say. Talk about your Mussolini! And they are so worried in England about a difference of something like $600,000,000 in their budget that they have a change of government. They should send for Mr. Mellon. We should be glad to get rid of him.

LEAGUE INVITES MEXICO, BARRED 12 YEARS, TO JOIN

Seek to Heal Insult to Her Pride.

BULLETIN.

GENEVA, Sept. 8.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—Mexico was unanimously invited by the assembly today to join the league of nations, following addresses of endorsement by Lord Cecil and Foreign Minister Curtis. Lord Cecil said that this would rectify an error made twelve years ago when the organization of the league was formed.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 7.—The league of nations today moved to open wide its portals to Mexico, thus rubbing salve on twelve years of insult to the pride of the southern neighbor of the United States.

A resolution urging that a formal invitation be sent to the Mexican government to sign the league covenant was presented within a few minutes of the opening of the twelfth assembly this morning. It was signed by the delegates of Germany, Spain, France, Great Britain, Italy and Japan.

The resolution was couched in such terms as to make the Mexicans overlook the fact that the late President Woodrow Wilson forgot them when the league was founded twelve years ago. It proposed that Mexico be invited to honor the league with her collaboration, "as it should have been invited in the beginning."

Expect Mexico to Accept.

Tomorrow the resolution will be voted on and will certainly be approved. Acceptance by Mexico is likewise considered a foregone conclusion, since today's move was the result of several months of diplomatic negotiations. And, if the Mexican government ratifies the adhesion soon enough, it will virtually be assured of being elected a member of the league council next week to replace Guatemala. It is doubtful, however, if the necessary formalities can be concluded in time.

This afternoon Mexico's unofficial observer at Geneva explained the situation.

"Mexico is a proud nation," he said. "Mexico was excluded from the league. Mexico was never asked to join the league. Mexico never agreed to accept if she was asked. Now we have received a spontaneous invitation, and it is up to the government to accept or to refuse."

Asked the reason for the sudden decision of the league, the observer replied:

"Well, I guess they found the policy of exclusion didn't pay. It was all a misunderstanding anyway, due to the stubbornness of certain gentlemen."

He looked meaningly at President Wilson's photograph hanging across the room as he said this. It was Wilson and Lord Cecil who opposed asking Mexico to join when the league was formed.

The twelve year feud started by this slight is reported to have been patched by Salvador de Madariaga, Spanish ambassador at Washington and a former functionary of the league while he was holding the Oxford chair at the University of Mexico last winter. He pointed out that Mexico has long been coöperating with the league, being represented on the opium, disarmament, whaling, and other committees.

Hope to Strengthen League.

The invitation to Mexico is the latest move in the program to restore and increase the league's prestige. Another recent move was the attempt to persuade Russia to come in by way of the economic committee. Peace overtures have been opened in Brasil through the founding of a leprosy institute at Rio de Janeiro under the auspices of the league, and negotiations are under way to bring Argentina into active participation at Geneva.

While the invitation to Mexico did much to cheer up an otherwise gloomy session, a new cause for depression turned up tonight when it was learned that the Russians are leaving tomorrow, not at all certain whether they will ever come back. Maxim Litvinov, Russian commissar of foreign affairs, is said to have declared that he will not return for the meeting of the European commission at the close of the assembly unless his economic nonaggression pact or some other fundamental question is to be discussed, as he is fed up on the wrangling over the appointment of committees.

BROOKLYN BASEBALL MAGNATE'S DAUGHTER FILES DIVORCE SUIT

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anna Marie Ebbets Booth, youngest daughter of the late Charles H. Ebbets, who put Brooklyn on the baseball map, has filed suit in Brooklyn Supreme court for a divorce.

Her husband is Frank H. Booth, a civil engineer, head of a construction concern, who holds a captain's commission for his work in constructing various mobilization camps when the United States entered the world war.

Thus ends a romance that began 24 years ago at St. Saviour's Roman Catholic church. Frank Booth, then working for his father, had charge of the construction work of the new church.

Miss Ebbets was among the many interested in the progress of the new church building and was introduced to the young engineer by mutual friends.

It was in the completed church on Lincoln's birthday, 1907, that their marriage took place. The event attracted wide interest.

PROTECT YOUR CHILD from the menace of dirty handkerchiefs

When school starts give them KLEENEX disposable tissues

SCHOOL starts soon—start now to guard against colds and other epidemics!

One protection you can give your child is Kleenex disposable tissues instead of handkerchiefs.

Kleenex tissues are soft, dainty squares to use and destroy. Absolutely safe, sanitary. Compare the cleanly Kleenex way with the old-time handkerchief, which tests show may contain literally millions of germs!

Children particularly need Kleenex because they are so careless and because they contract nose and throat infections so readily. Supply your child today with Kleenex . . . teach him to use each tissue once and then destroy.

Children prefer Kleenex

Children prefer Kleenex, once they try it. Made of cellulose, it's softer than any handkerchief. And nearly twice as absorbent—thus preventing irritation. Each tissue that touches the face is fresh, clean, completely sanitary.

And with Kleenex there's never any trouble over lost or stained handkerchiefs. It costs even less than laundering alone.

Many uses

There's nothing like Kleenex for saving your time and temper a dozen times a day. For wiping spectacles; for dusting or polishing; for applying medicines; for minor bandages; for wiping razor blades . . . these are but a few of the many important uses for Kleenex. And don't forget that Kleenex is declared the safest, most efficient way of removing face creams by those experienced in skin care. Its superior absorbency is needed to remove all impurities from the pores. All drug, dry goods and department stores sell Kleenex.

DISEASE GERMS

Bacteriological tests show that handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain the following organisms: Staphylococci (pus germs), Streptococci, Pneumococci and Catarrhales.

HOW NEW INDIA WILL RULE SELF— WITH AN "IF"

Gandhi-Irwin Agreement Is Revealed.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—In order to avoid breaking the appointment set for the formal reopening of the India round table conference, those members of the federal structure committee who have arrived at London met this afternoon at St. James palace and went through the motions of reconstituting the conference.

It was Hamlet without his ghost in the absence of Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, now en route to London, and the delegates noted that. After an hour of complimentary speeches they adjourned until Monday next, when it is hoped the holy man in person will be there and real business can be done.

The new meeting opened with a short welcome speech by Lord Sankey, chairman of the committee, who was followed by Prime Minister MacDonald, chairman of the conference. Mr. MacDonald assured them that the political changes in England in no way affected the work of the conference. Lord Sankey, he pointed out, still is chairman of the most important committee, while he, himself, is chairman of the whole conference and prime minister, and still desperately anxious for its success.

Plan of Proposed Rule Revealed.

Details of how the new federal government of India will be framed and how it will function, according to the agreement reached between Gandhi and Lord Irwin, former viceroy, were revealed today.

A viceroy, a two-chambered legislature and a cabinet will form the chief executive body of the new federal government. This government, so far as imperial matters are concerned, will have the status of a self-governing dominion with the same freedom, power and responsibilities that Canada, South Africa, or Australia possess, along with the definite right of secession if it so desires.

The principle will be accepted that India, henceforth, will be a partner in the British commonwealth of nations of her own free will and choice, and not because it has been conquered. India will, when it is ready and wishes to do so, appoint her own representatives in either the other dominions or foreign countries where India's interests are involved. But India, for its interests will be guarded by British high commissioners or representatives in those countries.

Indian May Become Premier.

As long as the transitional stage endures, the appointment of the viceroy will rest entirely with the British government on behalf of the king emperor. When this period expires the appointment will be made on the recommendation of the prime minister of the federal Indian government, and it is not unlikely that the name of an Indian will be suggested. Thus it is considered that a prince, a Moslem and a Hindu will be alternatively suggested for the viceroyalty. This provision will come into force only when the necessity of safeguarding special British interests has ceased.

The viceroy will be in sole charge of what have been regarded as crown subjects—namely: defense and foreign relations. The powers of the viceroy will be subject to a further proviso that in general cases he will act only on the advice of a body, committee or board, consisting of representatives of responsible interests in India as well as Britain. In cases of grave emergency he will exercise his reserve power on his own responsibility.

He will also be the king's representative in all relations with the Indian states which do not come under the federal constitution. The special relationship existing between the Indian princes and the crown remains direct contact between the viceroy and the princes. All relations based on treaty rights, not affected by the covenant between the princes and the federal government, are maintained through the viceroy. He will also be responsible for the foreign relations of India with Persia, Afghanistan, Tibet, Nepal, and other countries on its borders.

Cabinet's Authority Large.

The main executive authority of the federal government will rest in the cabinet consisting of representatives of the princes and the people, who will command a majority in the two houses of the legislature. The cabinet will be headed by a prime minister, who will be the leader of the majority party. The cabinet will initiate all federal legislation and will present the annual budget. It is removable only by a joint vote of nonconfidence in both houses.

The legislature will consist of representatives of the constitutional units of the federation, the Indian states and British India. Both will be represented in both houses, but in different proportions. In the lower house the states will possess no more than 25 per cent of the total strength. The elections from British India to the lower house will be direct, and the states' representatives will be partly elected by the people and partly nominated. The upper chamber will have a larger number of representatives of the princes.

The provincial governments will be completely autonomous, with their own legislative councils and cabinets.

Included are loose pillow back, English overstuffed models, solid mahogany frame suites, French period styles and many others, all in the choicest and smartest fabrics.

Revell Home News

"WHAT a pity," say I, "that Americans talk so much about the great importance of the home ... and then in times like these are so misguided when it comes to choosing furnishings for that home. The markets are flooded with furniture that is being promoted for price alone ... or what we choose to call 'eye attractions' ... furniture that is built to sell at a low price without any thought for what goes to make good furniture. And, believe me, there is a distinction! I believe that people are tired of the type of furniture being sold at a price and are realizing more and more that quality furniture cannot be bought at a cheap price!"

LOOKING for something different in a rug . . . then here's a marvel! There's a clearance of Hamdah rugs on the third floor—these colorful Indias embroidered rugs made of wool and felt . . . and the prices are devastatingly low. For instance, a 6x9 is now only $4.75!

INTERESTING message from the U. S. Department of Commerce book on "Furniture, Its Selection and Use": "Since most structural detail is hidden from view, the integrity of the dealer is more than merely an advantage—it is a necessity." We agree heartily!

PSS-T! Stand close while I whisper this one! There's the richest 2-piece living suite on the 8th floor I just have to tell you about. It's the only one and regular $415 value now unbelievably low priced at $299! Solid walnut frame covered in silk damask.

B.A.R.R. That's the usual cry these chilly, brisk mornings but it won't be among those who are the proud possessors of a real Kenwood blanket! The new 1931 styles are in and the color combinations are perfectly delightful! There's one number that will take your eye. 72x84, pure wool, and only $7.50.

What the eye sees not the heart may grieve

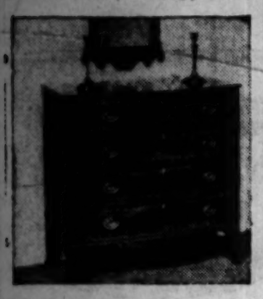
THESE two piecrust tables look identical—at first glance. Both, appear to be accurate copies of a Chippendale original. But one is more than a copy of mere design and form. For its top one wide piece of mahogany, with the piecrust edge actually carved out by hand...instead of being made of narrow strips glued together with applied mouldings as is the case with its commercially built counterpart. And the tripod legs are dovetailed into the pedestal . . . instead of doweled.

This difference between mass-manufactured furniture and Danersk furniture is the difference between furniture that depreciates with use and furniture that matures and improves with age.

Perhaps few of your guests are likely to detect inner details like these in your furniture—the real connoisseurs, of course, will. But, the fact remains, you will always be aware whether your furniture is superficial "stage setting" or work of solid merit—and, after all, your own satisfaction is the important thing to consider.

The beauty and worth of Danersk Furniture is more than skin deep; for it contains no hidden short cuts. We give Danersk craftsmen the finest modern equipment, for Danersk is no believer in handicraft for handicraft's sake. They are given ample time to create the inner worth of joinery and construction, as faithfully as they create the outer form. No modern maker can offer furniture of Danersk quality for less than Danersk prices without cheapening its structure.

George Rutherford uses no dowels when he builds a Piecrust Table. Neither did Chippendale. The same district of Scotland that once produced Duncan Phyfe gave George Rutherford to us. He, too, is a master carver. He respects the tradition that the sturdy craftsmen of his family and neighborhood drilled into him with his three R's. Like all Danersk craftsmen he works with a hasteless deliberateness that is amazingly efficient.



Only the best Cuban and San Domingo Mahogany has gone into the collection of bedroom furniture of which this Sudbury Bureau is representative. Its unmistakable richness and depth are particularly gratifying. Exquisite details of inlay add interest to the even contours of this ancient form.

We shall be proud to have you study this collection or any of the hundreds of pieces on display in our spacious showrooms. You will not be importuned to buy.

All possible savings in present costs of labor and materials are passed on to the purchaser in our prices.

SCHOOLS VICTIM OF SHORT SALES, GREIN CHARGES

Sawdust Company Is Sued by City Sealer.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

City Sealer Joe Grein announced yesterday that he has started suit against the American Sawdust company on charges of short weighting the public schools on deliveries of sawdust for sweeping. The suits, Mr. Grein said, charge short weight, delivery of false weight certificates, and failure to present a ticket before delivery of a load. The three schools named and the specific charges made by Mr. Grein are as follows:

Volta school, Argyle street and Springfield avenue, ticket presented was for 1,500 pounds of sawdust, but the delivery was 440 pounds.

Clinton school, Glenlake and Fairfield avenues, ticket presented called for 1,000 pounds, but 740 pounds were delivered.

Field school, Greenleaf and Ashland avenues, ticket presented called for 1,000 pounds, but 660 pounds were delivered.

Complaint by School Engineer.

These alleged discoveries came as a result of a complaint filed with Mr. Grein by John Howatt, chief engineer of the school board, about ten days ago.

Such cases as this, officials say, are among the reasons why many property owners are not paying their taxes. Some of these property owners have charged in court that much of the tax revenue is wasted. The Association of Real Estate Taxpayers and about $2,000 others have charged in suits that taxes are unjustly and inequitably assessed.

The credit of most of the local governments has been impaired. They are unable to obtain temporary loans, and more than 22,000 public employes are waiting for $12,964,620 in back salaries.

Heavy Tax Delinquency.

Many property owners do not have the money with which to pay taxes, while others believe they are being cheated and are protesting against payment. The situation on the 1929 taxes, which were due last May 15, is that $84,538,887 is unpaid. This is more than twice as much as remained unpaid on the 1928 taxes. The 1928 tax delinquency was $38,159,975.

There are indications that the public is unable or refuses to pay more than has already been paid. One is that the amount of taxes paid on the 1928 bill is approximately the same as that paid on the 1929 assessments.

Deducting forfeitures, Cook county's tax bill for 1928 totaled $219,574,594. Of that sum the property owners paid about $176,200,000. Later the tax buyers paid a little more than $5,000,000 additional taxes, making the total collections $181,414,619.

1929 Payment Almost the Same.

For 1929 the county's tax bill was increased nearly 20 per cent to $260,544,670. Of this amount the property owners have paid $176,005,783—nearly the exact sum paid on the 1928 taxes. For 1929 the tax sale has not started in earnest. It is expected the tax buyers will increase the total collections somewhat, but not as much as last year.

If $176,000,000 is all the public can or will pay in taxes—as the collections for the last two years indicate—it is certain the local governments will pile up deficits at the present rate of spending. Their budgets were passed on the theory that the public will pay $234,400,000 on the 1929 tax bill.

The savings announced by the local governments aggregate $8,000,000 by liberal estimates. On this basis it seems probable that the governments are running at a spending rate of $226,000,000 with only $176,000,000 in taxes paid. That is an indicated shortage of $50,000,000 for all the local governments in the county.

Revenue Board Meets Tonight.

This evening the governor's revenue commission, headed by Joseph K. Brittain, will again discuss behind closed doors its proposals for the permanent financial relief of the local governments. One of the major suggestions is a state income tax. Some claim this will just be another tax, while members of the commission urge that it will be a substitute tax for some of the burden on real estate. The text of the plan has not been made public.

Pacific Ocean Fish Find Water Is Getting Warmer

La Jolla, Cal., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Even the fish are having a hot time this year. Prof. George F. McEwen of the University of California's Scripps institution of oceanography said today a new record for temperature had been made in the Pacific ocean. The institution has kept records only since 1916, but in all that time the temperature of the water has never before reached the mark of 78.4 degrees. Tropical fish have been migrating northward since the water became warmer.

FRANCE TESTING PLANE FOR FLIGHT TO STRATOSPHERE

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 7.—French military aviation officials in charge of tests of the new Farman plane for flights into the stratosphere revealed today that it would be six weeks before any high altitude flights would be attempted. The present experiments are being confined to testing devices to make it possible for the plane to fly at great heights.

The French government, it is learned, appropriated nearly $1,000,000 for development of this branch of aviation by the Farman company. The company designed an all metal plane with an adjustable four bladed propeller. It has to be tilted upward when the plane is on the ground.

The motor is equipped with two superchargers, one charging the other. The cabin, during flights, will be hermetically closed, and the same atmospheric pressure will be maintained automatically inside as the plane rises by a pump system. The craft is powered with a Farman water cooled V-shaped engine. Special physical qualifications will be necessary, according to Maurice Farman, for pilots to function normally at a height of three and one-half miles, at which the plane is expected to develop speeds of from 300 to 470 miles an hour.

KILLED AS AUTO TURNS OVER.

HUSBAND DENIES GUILT IN GUN DEATH OF BRIDE

Alfred Holstein, 24 years old, of Tomahawk, Wis., held at the North Damen avenue police station for the inquest on Thursday into the death of his bride of four weeks, Cledith, 23 years old, who died here last Friday of a gunshot wound inflicted in Wisconsin, continued yesterday to assert his innocence.

Mrs. Holstein came to Chicago to her mother, Mrs. Lillian Brogan, 2422 Cullom avenue, suffering from a gunshot wound in her chest. At the time she told Mrs. Brogan the wound was self-inflicted, but when her condition grew worse she changed her story and said her husband had shot her. She died in the Grant hospital.

Holstein was arrested when he came here to attend her funeral. He told the police his wife had been drinking and that she shot herself while he and several other guests were in the house on Aug. 9.

MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY FINDS SCOTLAND HAVEN

GLAGOW, Scotland, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Peter Russell, "a man without a country" who has been shuttling back and forth across the Atlantic since last June, seems to have found a haven of rescue at last.

British and American immigration authorities declined to permit him to enter either country while they debated his nationality. When he arrived here today on the steamer Artigas, he learned that he had been proven to be a Scotsman and was at liberty to go anywhere in Great Britain. He headed for Fife, where his home is.

Russell's troubles began when he missed his ship at Cork last April. He stowed away on another bound for Boston, and was refused entry there because of conflicting information about his place of birth. He was deported, but the British ruled that he was not a subject of King George and he was sent back.

THIRD OF COUNTY REALTY GOES ON SALE LIST TODAY

Small Property Owners Hit by Tax Action.

More than three billions of dollars worth of real estate owned by [illegible] individuals—one third of the real estate in Cook county—will be placed on the books for sale by County Treasurer McDonough today because of non-payment of 1929 taxes, delinquent since last May.

TREASURER McDONOUGH [Wallace Photo.]

The total of delinquent [illegible] is $49,229,[illegible] out of a total bill of $215,000,760. However, property owning only $15,170,000 taxes will be placed on the auctioneers' block.

The remainder of the property is protected from sale by court injunctions or stays granted pending the hearing of protests awaiting trial in court.

Tax Buyers Not Interested.

Professional tax buyers already have said that they were not in the market for new property, and that they intend to buy the tax liens only on those parcels on which they have acquired liens in past years in order to protect them. It is estimated that they will buy no more than $1,000,000 worth of the total bill. This means that there will be $48,000,000 worth of uncollected taxes after the sale.

Treasurer McDonough said he would no longer postpone the sale. Under the law the property must be put on auction in July. Because he wished to give the last opportunity to taxpayers this has been compiled with technically although no more than three or four parcels of land have been sold each day.

"Much as I would prefer to postpone the period before the sale," McDonough said yesterday, "I find that I am unable to do so. The book of attendant upon the sale will not allow any force. Like other necessary things, will have to be temporarily negle To wait any longer would be just his."

Owners Unable to Pay, They Say.

The treasurer said he was convinced that the major reason why the taxes were not paid was that the small taxpayer was without money. The rich and the uninformed were the only ones, he said, who have not made

THIRD OF COUNTY REALTY GOES ON SALE LIST TODAY

Small Property Owners Hit by Tax Action.

More than three billions of dollars worth of real estate owned by 396,534 individuals — one-third of the real estate in Cook county — will be placed on the books for sale by County Treasurer McDonough today because of nonpayment of 1929 taxes, delinquent since last May 15.

TREASURER McDONOUGH. [Palmer Photo.]

The total of delinquent 1929 taxes is $69,229,942 out of a total tax bill of $215,057,760. However, property owing only $15,170,062 in taxes will be placed on the auctioneers' block. The remainder of the property is protected from sale by court injunction or stays granted pending the hearing of protests awaiting trial in court.

Tax Buyers Not Interested.

Professional tax buyers already have said that they were not in the market for new property, and that they intend to buy the tax liens only on those parcels on which they have bought liens in past years in order to protect them. It is estimated that they will buy no more than $5,000,000 worth of the total bill. This means that there will be $65,000,000 worth of uncollected taxes after the sale.

Treasurer McDonough said he could no longer postpone the sale. Under the law the property must be placed on auction in July. Because he wished to give the last opportunity to the taxpayers this has been compiled with officially although no more than three or four parcels of land have been sold each day.

"Much as I would prefer to prolong the period before the sale," McDonough said yesterday, "I find that I am unable to do so. The book work incident upon the sale will so tie up my force that other necessary jobs will have to be temporarily neglected. It will not, however, would be impossible."

Offers Plan to Pay, View.

The treasurer said he was convinced that the major reason why the taxes were not paid was that the small taxpayer was without money. The poor and the uninformed were the only ones, he said, who have not made any effort to avert the sales. Others whose property is now delinquent have sought the protection of the courts.

He quoted tables taken from the country town books and the city town books on property which he is permitted to sell. On 146,914 parcels from the country towns, on which $4,243,095 is owed, the average bill is $28.88. In the city towns on 117,702 parcels, involving $10,926,897 in taxes, the average bill was $92.83.

Cites Average of Protected Property.

On property in both city and country towns protected in the courts a total of $54,059,560 is owed. The average bill for the 132,108 parcels involved is $409.21. In addition to these millions of 1929 taxes, $21,000,000 worth of taxes for 1927 and 1928 also are pending in the county courts, Mr. McDonough said.

The actual sale will be conducted in the county treasurer's office by an auctioneer. Usually such sales are poorly attended, because only professional tax buyers are interested.

MISSING FARMER SOUGHT.

Yankton, S. D., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Police were aiding relatives today in a search for John Bolling, 46, Clearwater, Neb., farmer, who disappeared Friday at a family visit here.

BOMB TERRORIST OF ITALY BLOWN UP BY OWN BOMB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 7.—Domenico Bovone, 28 year old Genoan, said by police to be the author of a series of 16 bomb explosions in Italian cities this summer, was blown up by his own infernal machines today. Some high explosive bombs with which he had been experimenting in his own home went off with a terrific explosion, killing Bovone's mother and badly mutilating him.

An investigation revealed much material for fabricating bombs, and sequestered correspondence showed that Bovone was in touch with enemies of the Fascist regime in foreign countries, and that he was the probable author of terroristic bomb explosions in Genoa, Turin, and Bologna in which several people lost their lives.

Arrests of accomplices is expected. Bovone will be dealt with summarily as soon as he is able to leave the hospital.

70 Towns Inundated by Yellow River.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Another great flood disaster was inflicted today upon China, already suffering from the most tremendous inundation of its modern times. With at least 250,000 already dead and 50,000,000 said by the government to face starvation in the coming winter, the Yellow river overflowed its banks in northern Honan province.

Reports that the latest disaster had caused huge loss of life were partly confirmed. Press dispatches said 700 were drowned in the Mengtsing district of Honan when seventy villages were flooded and 20,000 persons made homeless.

Fear for Mission Depots.

The Yellow river, long known as "China's sorrow," rose to dangerous heights for 400 miles of its meandering course across Honan and Shantung provinces. Anxiety was felt for the safety of several mission stations which did not reply to telegraphed inquiries.

Indicating the widespread character of China's floods, reports of "incalculable casualties" came from Yunnan province in the far southeastern interior. The mighty Yangtze river was said to have covered the entire northeastern area of the province.

Hundreds of miles down its course, the Yangtze burst several dikes at Sinti. Eighty thousand persons clung to remaining levees, awaiting food and medicines by boats dispatched from Hankow, 75 miles northeast.

100,000 Feared Dead.

These latest calamities augmented the frightful distress in northern Kiangsu province and the vast Yangtze valley. With Grand canal floods increased in Kiangsu province, more than 100,000 persons were believed dead. The surviving populace in the large, densely populated area struggled to reach nearby cities to escape death by starvation, exposure and disease in the lake which covered many villages and towns.

The situation in the Yangtze tricities of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang, where 250,000 died in August, was reported improved. Pontoon bridges had been erected over flood streets and sidewalks were raised temporarily to permit travel on foot. Sampans had been the only means of transportation in the cities for several weeks.

Communists became menacing in the sister cities, and troops from Nanking were dispatched to reinforce government forces.

ROYALTY HERE

Prince Louis Ferdinand of Prussia.

Louis Ferdinand Hohenzollern, the 24 year old son of the former Crown Prince of Germany, was reported last night to be in Chicago to meet the movie actress, Lily Damita, who is due to arrive here this morning. The report of his presence here came from Detroit, where the prince is employed by the Ford Motor company.

Mlle. Damita is on the way back to Hollywood after a holiday in Paris. She is reported to have a traveling companion on the train, Sydney A. Smith, New York broker who was recently divorced by the daughter of Grantland Rice, sports writer.

On April 30, 1930, the prince, who at that time was in Hollywood, announced that he was going to marry Mlle. Damita.

Los Angeles Poison Liquor Kills Four, Fells 8 Others

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Eight celebrants of Los Angeles fiesta week holiday were given emergency treatment for drinking poison liquor and denatured alcohol, according to records at police hospital today. Three men died last Thursday and one woman Friday from poison liquor.

ROBBED OF FARES, CONDUCTOR GETS HIS MONEY BACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 7.—Mexico City put on a real life movie this morning just before daylight. The Colonia street car, making its way through the heart of the capital, stopped to take on passengers. Two men entered. One unhitched the trolley pole, leaving the car in darkness, while the other detached the fare box.

Both jumped into a waiting auto and Conductor Loreto jumped on the back of their machine. As the car sped through the dimly lighted streets the conductor shouted to police at the top of his voice.

One robber knocked Loreto off the car, but the police had been warned and the race began. On their dash for liberty the robbers threw out the fare box and Loreto, who had continued running after them, picked up the box and brought it to his car. The police chase ended at San Fernando cemetery, where the bandits were captured.

DIES AFTER TAKING POISON.

Worry over illness caused John Donlon, 47 years old, 2909 West Pershing road, to swallow poison last Friday in an attempt to end his life. Police took him to the county hospital, where he died Sunday.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

MANILA, Sept. 7.—Increased independence agitation is credited here as the reason for three recent cases of large withdrawals of American capital from Philippine enterprises. An apartment building operation, for which plans had been laid and ground purchased, was suddenly stopped because of the withdrawal of $250,000 by the American promoter and builder.

An extensive gasoline and automobile distributing project, financed by Philippine and American capital, was halted at the last moment by an important backer, who gave independence agitation as the reason. Finally, a large order of industrial and agricultural machinery, awaiting shipment from the United States to an American importer in Manila, was canceled.

Credit in Manila is fairly tight, but there is no shortage of funds, the banks reporting abundant surpluses. A large balance of trade for the first six months brought at least $25,000,000 to the islands, but purchases now are so slow that the American trade commissioner has remarked there appears to be a virtual buying strike.

This way preserves the ELASTICITY* ..that makes stockings fit and wear

DO YOU KNOW why new stockings fit with such alluring smoothness every contour of ankle and leg?

But when elasticity is lost—the stretched threads can't spring back. Then you get bunches over the heel—wrinkly ankles—crooked seams. Runs start this way, too—the silk threads break, instead of giving, under strain.

*The LUX Way

Wash after EACH wearing. Perspiration left in the stocking will actually rot the silk.

Don't rub with cake soap. It destroys the elasticity. With Lux there is no rubbing. Even stubborn spots come out if you gently press in a few dry Lux diamonds.

Wash this 2-minute way:

1. 1 teaspoon of Lux diamonds for each pair of stockings.
2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze gentle suds through stockings, rinse well. Anything safe in water is just as safe in Lux.

Try Lux FREE. Try this wonderful care for your stockings, at our expense. Just send us your name and address, and by return mail you will receive a full-sized package of Lux free. Write today to Lever Brothers Co., Dept. XG-1, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

60 ECONOMISTS SEEK A REMEDY FOR FARM ILLS

Parley Hopes to Agree on Single Policy.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A three day conference of sixty nationally known rural economists and farm organization leaders opened behind closed doors at the University of Chicago yesterday. From the conference, in the opinion of several who were interviewed, is expected to issue an economic policy for American agriculture, or as near to a single policy as can be evolved from the widely divergent opinions of those taking part.

An effort is being made by the federal government to get a line on the workings of its present program of stimulating cooperative marketing and recent stabilization efforts on commodity prices, judging from the fact that a delegation of officials from Washington is attending the conference.

Federal Experts Attend.

Seven experts from the federal department of agriculture, together with others from the federal department of the interior, the federal farm board, and the federal farm loan board, are exchanging views with officials of the farm bureau, the farmers' union, state agricultural college deans, the United States Chamber of Commerce, business editors, and economists of privately endowed institutions.

A resolution for strict secrecy was adopted at the opening of the sessions and announced by Edward A. Duddy of the University of Chicago school of commerce and administration, under whose auspices the conference was called. This, it was understood, was done at the request of the government's representatives and also because the delegates were promised they might speak as individuals without committing their constituencies.

Consider World Outlook.

Following an opening session, over which Dr. J. D. Black of Harvard university's department of economics presided, the scope of the problem in determining a national agrarian policy along economic lines was defined. There followed a discussion of the international outlook in relation to the pending policy, directed by Dr. E. G. Nourse, director of Brookings institution, Washington, D. C.

Dr. Nourse reported extensive studies by his organization had resulted in the conclusion that the farm board's policy of discouraging production of such crops as wheat and cotton was not only economically detrimental to agriculture, but had little if any likelihood of being put into effect. Upward revision of farm tariffs would likewise be ineffective, he declared.

Utilizing of farm land resources was discussed last night, with Dr. L. C. Gray of the federal bureau of agricultural economics presiding. Dr. B. H. Hibbard, economist of the University of Wisconsin, then discussed "taxation policy in relation to a land use program."

Contrasting views on "what's to be done about the farm problem" were presented by John A. Simpson, president of the Farmers' Educational and Coöperative union, with strong membership in the southwest and northwest, and by Charles E. Hearst of Des Moines, Ia., vice president of the American Farm Bureau federation.

Simpson's group has been antagonistic to the farm board since its first stabilization attempts, while the farm bureau has recently reiterated its stand for an "equalization fee" to help the government's price boosting efforts.

Little immediate encouragement for farmers, particularly those depending upon cotton and wheat, was held out by economists interviewed between sessions. They also intimated the department of agriculture was seriously studying a plan to divide the United States into regions for the specialized production of farm products.

Study Population Trends.

Today the conference is to look into the trends of population and consumption, with Dr. O. E. Baker of the federal farm economics bureau presiding. Dr. Carl C. Taylor of North Carolina State college will direct a discussion of standards of living on the farm as an objective of the much sought economic policy.

Other subjects to be presented include the new proprietorship in agriculture by Dr. C. L. Holmes, federal farm economist; monetary policy and use of credit by Dr. Henry Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer, Des Moines; and a marketing and price policy for agriculture by Dr. Jacob Viner, economist of the University of Chicago.

MAC MILLAN RETURNS FROM 3 MONTHS' AIR EXPEDITION IN ARCTIC

Rockland, Me., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A three months' aerial expedition to the bleak Labrador coast and inland territory today was completed with the arrival here of Commander Donald B. MacMillan in his plane Viking.

D. B. MAC MILLAN. [A. P. Photo.]

MacMillan's eighth trip into the Arctic, but the first by air, recorded among its accomplishments the mapping of 1,500 square miles of uncharted country, the aerial exploration of some 50,000 square miles of northern terrain, and the establishment of dental clinics in a number of Eskimo communities.

Charles Rocheville, pilot; Edward Hoffman, and J. A. Newcomb, photographer, accompanied MacMillan on the last leg of the return flight from Chance Harbor, N. B., after having previously flown from Battle Harbor, Labrador.

MacMillan said $10,000 worth of dental supplies were utilized during the three months' trip, and under the direction of Dr. Adelbert Fernald, professor of orthodontic research, Harvard university, clinics were established in Nain, Hopedale, Habron, and Makkonk. The latter point, a Moravian mission, will carry on the work throughout the year, he said.

GERMANY AFTER 16,500,000 BU. OF U. S. WHEAT?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—New interest in possible sales of wheat to Germany by the federal farm board was stimulated today through receipt of unofficial reports that Germany has sent a special agent to negotiate the purchase of 500,000 tons, or 18,500,000 bushels of hard winter wheat.

Carl Williams, acting chairman of the farm board in the absence of Chairman James C. Stone, received the report while at his office and indicated that he would move immediately to ascertain its correctness.

According to the report received here, the German minister of agriculture has sent a special emissary to negotiate the purchase of the wheat from the federal farm board, which holds wheat estimated at 200 million bushels through the agency of its wheat stabilization corporation. That amount is believed to have remained after the trade of 25,000,000 bushels to Brazil in exchange for 1,050,000 bags of coffee and the recently announced credit sale to China of 15,000,000 bushels.

Particular interest was aroused at the farm board by the report that the German agent, when he arrives, may offer to buy the wheat on three year credit terms, paying 50 per cent more than the delivery price at Chicago, with interest paid on the credit at the rate of 4½ per cent.

The farm board is studying numerous offers made on behalf of other countries or suggested as applying to them through which it would trade wheat for their surplus commodities.

CRITICIZED IN GERMANY.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—One of the heads of the central agricultural chamber is reported to be in the United States to discuss with the farm board a credit transaction for importing 500,000 tons of American hard winter wheat. It was said the negotiations are authorized by the federal minister of agriculture. Leo Hirsch of the official German commission on grain imports is said to be now in the United States. The proposed transaction has met with criticism from agricultural quarters. It is contended that the high price would in effect make it a credit at 20 per cent. A pure consumption credit, it is said, is a contradiction of Chancellor Bruening's policy.

AUTO HITS TWO WRECKED CARS; 3 DEAD, 5 HURT

Woodbridge, N. J., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Two men were killed, a third fatally injured, and five others hurt early today when an automobile crashed into two others which had collided head-on a few minutes before on state highway route 25, near Hage. The two cars were completely demolished in the second impact. The dead were Michael Di Gavanni, 28 years old, and Frank Murello, 29, both of Newark, and James Branagan, 39, of Jersey City.

3 Dead, 2 Dying, 5 Hurt.

Topsfield, Mass., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Three persons were killed, two are dying and five others hurt, as the result of an automobile accident on the Newburyport turnpike early today. The dead are Chester Powell and Gwendolyn Donovan of Malden and William Meehan of Boston.

KILLS SELF WITH SHOTGUN.

Rochelle, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Clarence Furman, 44, killed himself with a shotgun in the woodshed of his home here at 6:45 this morning. Ill health probably was his motive.

U. S. IS LAGGING IN CONSTRUCTION OF OCEAN LINERS

Germany, England, France and Italy Busy.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—Special.]—A little more than a year ago ship construction was a lively topic. America was slated to lead the world on the seven seas.

W. I. GLOVER.
[(C) Harris & Ewing]

"Chapeaux off to the gallant Europa from Germany," said W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general, during a prophetic moment, "but slip them back quietly to be ready to take them off again, for the United States will soon wrest the 'blue pennant' from the present queen and put it back where it belongs at the masthead of an American built ship . . . one of the outstanding achievements of President Hoover's term will be the restoration of the American merchant marine to its proper place with the fleets of the world."

Germans Own Sea Queens.

Today tonnage under construction in American yards is at a new low ebb. Thirty-one yards were at work on 124 hulls or 354,635 tons Sept. 1. The bulbous bowed Bremen and Europa of the North German Lloyd line are still the rulers of the Atlantic. England is completing a giant Cunarder to accommodate 5,000 passengers. France has a 70,000 gross tonnage ship to be launched in 1932 and Italy is constructing 34 new vessels, one of 50,000 tons.

The United States has given up its dream of a home-made super liner and is contenting itself with two ships of 30,000 tons each, the first constructed for trans-Atlantic liner service in American shipwards in almost 30 years.

A canvass of shipping circles has revealed varied explanations of America's trend downward in ship building. Foremost was the fact that it costs approximately 60 per cent more to construct ships here than it does abroad, due to differences in wage scales. Another was that the construction of super liners was an art more or less controlled by foreign designers. The world depression in shipping was advanced as a reason, but no explanation was available as to why that should hold up the big ships here and not abroad.

Predict Ship Would Lose.

Shipping men said that a 30 knot, 50,000 ton liner built in this country at a cost of $30,000,000 or even less would be a commercial loss, even with the mail contract from the United States government.

In design, the engineers of Hamburg station where models of all German liners are towed are recognized as leaders in their specialty. As a consequence the two new German ships maintain the fastest express service on the high seas and are carrying heavy pay loads. The British have been watching and their ships are beginning to incorporate the latest German practices of construction. The Cunard company has taken a leaf from the German book in their new ships.

The French are following in design, but have turned boldly to turbo-electric drive for their greyhounds to be. Little has been revealed about the new Italian liners. Certain of the German innovations have been experimented with by the United States Lines, Inc. The propellors on the Leviathan have been altered and the 30,000 ton liners will adopt innovations in interior construction. They will not, however, have bulbous bows.

Ships Have Bulbous Bows.

The bulbous underwater bow which makes the Bremen's face so unusual is even more pronounced on her sister ship, the Europa. The builders have complete faith in the new departure as a method of decreasing the amount of dead water and speed resistance. Both ships are built deep in the water.

Except for the superstructure, the German liners resemble gigantic battle cruisers. Their sterns are exactly like the cruiser type, with lines dropping straight to the water. They would make good fighting ships.

Work on the new $30,000,000 Cunarder on the Clyde has progressed to where it is expected that the liner will be launched in February. It will weigh 73,000 gross tons and be too large to pass through the Panama canal.

VATICAN INSISTS POPE WON POINTS IN ITALIAN PACT

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The existence of a written memorandum of secret conversations leading to the recent accord between the government and the Vatican was revealed today by the papal organ, Osservatore Romano, in an editorial intended to show that Pope Pius really achieved the objects he sought in the accord.

Answering newspaper criticism that the position of the church was weakened by apparent concessions by the pontiff, the editorial said it would be "absurd" to suppose the pope sacrificed any of his traditional position regarding "Christian education of youth and the Catholic Action."

The public, the editorial said, based its judgment on the official communique, "in which one cannot go into particulars."

NEW HIGH SPEED BULLET MAY BE TANK DEFENSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Bullet velocities more than twice as great as those attained with the regular service rifles utilized by the major military powers have been attained with a special rifle and ammunition developed by a German engineer, according to claims made by the inventor, in an article to be published in the September number of Army Ordnance, a service publication.

In this article H. Gerlich, the inventor, asserts that further application of his new principle will make possible the development of higher velocities not only for rifle bullets, but also for projectiles fired by pistols, anti-aircraft weapons, artillery, and even long range artillery such as the German gun which fired on Paris from a distance of 70 miles.

Armor Plate Pierced.

The inventor claimed that in official tests conducted on the grounds of the German testing station for small arms at Berlin stream lined bullets fired from his special rifle, a Halger-Ultra .230 caliber weapon, attained velocities of 5,300 foot seconds, compared with the 2,700 foot second velocities developed by the standard .30 caliber service rifle.

He stated that in these official tests bullets fired from his new weapon had torn through armor plate one-half an inch thick at 50 meters and dented thicker armor plating to a depth of five-eighths of an inch.

H. Gerlich failed to give any hints as to how he develops such high velocity. He indicated, however that the results he attains may be realized by the use of existing small arms and special bullets. His tests were conducted with a special rifle and special cartridges. He said his results were obtained with commercial nitro-cellulose propellants.

Tank Gun Long Sought

Army officials who have looked into the claims made by the German inventor evinced keen interest in his work, but declined to comment officially on its possible effect on modern gunnery or modern battle tactics. It was admitted however, that if a small caliber rapid fire rifle could be developed with the armor penetrating power claimed for Gerlich's weapon, it would have an important effect on tank developments.

Army officials have been attempting to develop anti-tank guns for several years. Tests thus far have failed to develop a small caliber rapid fire gun with sufficient striking energy to send bullets through tank armor plate.

Convincing Evidence that the Chevrolet Six costs less for gas, less for oil, less for upkeep

In every part of the country, under every driving condition, Chevrolet owners are proving that the Chevrolet Six is the most economical car you can buy. Here are a few letters out of thousands received from owners, giving actual facts and figures. Combined with Chevrolet's low prices and many quality features, this testimony definitely points to the Chevrolet Six as the Great American Value.

"Lower cost per mile each year"

Starting with one Chevrolet roadster in 1926, adding 21 in 1927, our fleet of Chevrolets has grown to a total of 110 coupes. The cost of operating has been very satisfactory, each year showing a lower cost per mile than the previous year.

C. C. Massie, President
Northrup, King & Co.
Minneapolis, Minn.

"Lower cost per mile"

Your slogan "For Economical Transportation" is indeed a very true one, for our Chevrolet trucks and passenger cars have given us lower operating costs per mile than we have ever had before in either type of service.

D. N. Johnson, President
Dixie Oil Corporation
Moline, Ill.

"I am satisfied"

I recently completed a 4300 mile trip. I used 239 gallons of gas for an average of 18 miles per gallon, and 20 quarts of oil. I averaged better than 500 miles per day with no physical strain whatsoever. To say that I am satisfied from the standpoint of low cost of operation as well as mechanical performance, would be putting it mildly.

Peter J. Cantone
Tulsa, Okla.

"No one could ask for more"

On a trip between Syracuse and Raleigh, North Carolina in a new Chevrolet special sedan we covered 1720 miles, using eighty-four gallons of gasoline or an average of 20.8 to the gallon. Certainly no one could ask for more in smoothness of driving, ease of handling and control and the utmost of convenience, comfort and economy in its operation.

Geraldine C. Fitzgerald
Syracuse, New York

"22 miles to the gallon"

In a little over three months I have driven my Chevrolet coach eight thousand seven hundred miles at no expense whatever and I am getting better than twenty-two miles to the gallon. I had a 1929 coach and drove it sixty-two thousand miles with no major repairs.

John Bartholomew
Sheriff of Newton County
Kentland, Ind.

"I was not surprised"

I recently won $75 by driving a stock Chevrolet Six 30.2 miles on a gallon of gasoline. I was not surprised at this result, because our own Chevrolet Six has been driven over 25,000 miles and still gives better than 21 miles per gallon. We have had the valves ground only once. We, of course, drive much faster than the speed driven during the contest.

Mrs. L. W. Ebenshade
Mansfield, Ohio

"3c a mile for 66,000 miles"

During the first year I drove this six-cylinder Chevrolet coach 66,000 miles and during this period I kept an accurate record of co ts. The average cost per mile including depreciation, repairs, tires, oil and gas was three cents per mile for the entire 66,000 miles.

Wilbur Connell
Wholesale Newspaper Distributor
Orlando, Florida

"16,281 miles—no repair expense"

I have driven 16,281 miles over roads of all kinds and I could ask for no greater performance than I get from my car. The engine has had no adjustments nor has the carbon been removed, and I feel confident that the car will run another 3,000 or 5,000 miles before either is needed.

F. M. Frey
John Melady & Co.
Two Broadway, New York, N. Y.

"Unusual economy"

I am especially pleased with the unusual economy, low maintenance expense and smoothness of operation.
The operating expense on the new Chevrolet is astoundingly small. Our cars average from 18 to 25 miles per gallon. The oil consumption is positively nil compared with other high speed motors.

Wm. Taggart
Greenville, Miss.

"Powerful and economical"

I have been operating a 1930 Chevrolet for the past eight months and have found same to be a powerful car and economical to operate. I average from twenty to twenty-five miles per gallon. The fact that this is my fifth Chevrolet speaks well for my personal opinion of this make of car.

Russell T. Twiss
Seattle, Wash.

"No hooey!"

I get an average of eighteen miles per gallon of gas—and I get it. No hooey! I change oil every thousand miles without adding any to the original charge. My repair bills are low—in fact, since October, 1930, the only expense I've had on my last car is valve grinding.

Leo J. Fell
"The Northwestern Mutual Man"
Yankton, S. Dak.

"Over 100,000 miles"

Our 1930 Chevrolet has carried, daily, over 1,000 pounds of paper over a mountain road, averaging twenty (20) miles on a gallon of gas. The brakes were relined once at past 81,000 miles. This car . . . when traded in had over 100,000 miles to its credit, never missed a single trip and was never pulled in for repairs.

Neal Logan
Bristol Pub. Corp., Bristol, Va.-Tenn.

"Between 55 and 70 m.p.h."

Hundreds of miles of mountain driving were necessary on this 3000 mile tour and not once did I change gears, nor did the motor become overheated. I drove at 55 to 70 miles per hour, and averaged over 20 miles to a gallon of gas. I drained oil every 500 miles and it was never necessary to add oil between drainings.

Ray E. Simmons
City Comptroller
Springfield, Ill.

"As economical as any car could be"

I have tried out the gasoline mileage and have been able to get from twenty to twenty-one miles per gallon. I also find that I can drive a thousand miles on six quarts of oil. This shows that the Chevrolet car is as economical as any car could be to operate.

Myron H. Hale
Kenosha, Wisc.

"$10.00 would cover repairs"

On the 26th of May, my Chevrolet coach was six months old; the speedometer reading was 19,031 miles. I did not keep a record on repair cost but believe a $10.00 bill would cover repairs made on my car. My territory takes in practically four states, including the "panhandle" section of Texas, and a car to stand up under the strain put on it certainly has to be a real automobile.

Oliver V. Ortmeyer
Little Rock, Ark.

"Not one cent for repairs"

I have driven this car twenty-one thousand miles and have not had one cent of expense for mechanical repairs during that time.

W. E. Hooper
Smith Center, Kansas

"Less than 3c per mile"

I have driven this sedan 63,000 miles and it is giving me good service yet and runs good. I have operated this car for less than three cents per mile. I never have to add any oil, and get better than 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline.

C. C. Woodruff
Creston, Iowa

"Have had no expense"

I have 14,000 miles on my Chevrolet and as for economy I have had better than 20 miles to the gallon. Have had no expense. Performance is wonderful in the mountains as well as on the level.

Paul L. Funke
Nebraska City, Nebr.

"One valve grind in 31,000 miles"

I have driven my Chevrolet Six 31,000 miles, using it every day. The total expense has been one valve grinding job, brakes relined once, and a set of tires. I might mention that I used the original tires for 25,000 miles. I have averaged better than 20 miles to the gallon.

C. M. Gortner
Rock Island, Ill.

"Record I am proud of—"

My six-cylinder Chevrolet coupe has made a record I am proud of. Mileage, 44,084; average better than 20 miles per gallon of gasoline; 1,500 miles per change of oil with none added between times; first set of tires averaged 33,000 miles each; engine pan never removed.

F. G. Clark, President
Clarkspeed Truck Company
Pontiac, Michigan

"Spent nothing for repairs"

I have been driving one of your Chevrolet Sixes for some time, and I have been considerably impressed with the economy of operation and maintenance; as a matter of fact I have not spent any money at all for repairs. My costs of operation have been limited entirely to gas and oil.

Russell E. Gardner, Jr.
Reinhardt & Gardner
St. Louis, Mo.

"Through rain, hail, mud and cyclonic winds"

My sedan has traveled 21,000 miles to date with but a nominal repair expense, over roads of New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, Utah and Colorado, through rain, hail, mud and cyclonic winds—averaging about 21¾ miles per gallon.

Arthur J. Davies
Denver, Colorado

"96 miles for 58c"

I just drove 96 miles on four gallons of low test gasoline for fifty-eight cents. That's what I call economical transportation.

G. B. Bunker
The Radio Doctor
Beloit, Wisc.

"Regardless of hard driving"

I have driven my Chevrolet 33,000 miles and have continuously averaged better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline and change my oil every 500 miles, never adding new oil to the old. My drivers and myself use this car harder than the average but it has only cost me $12.00 for repair.

R. R. Bobbitt
Star Cleaners
Palestine, Texas

"Wonderful mileage!"

The operation cost of my 1930 Chevrolet is very small, the gas mileage averaging above 20 miles to the gallon. We use no oil except the change at thousand mile intervals and the tires, if kept properly inflated, give wonderful mileage.

Willis A. Charlton, Mgr.
Hester Dairy
San Jose, Calif.

"Through Texas and New Mexico"

After driving my Chevrolet Six 370 miles around town, I took it on a 4500-mile trip through Texas and Mexico, over every conceivable road and weather condition. We averaged better than 21 miles to the gallon of gasoline, changed oil 3 times and did not add any in between.

Jack Bernstamm
Miami, Florida

"10,000 miles in 8 weeks"

The ten Chevrolet sedans that we purchased from you on May 20th, 1931, have all averaged more than ten thousand miles. We have yet to expend our first dollar for cost of maintenance other than gas, oil and grease.
These cars have been running twenty-four hours per day seven days a week.

Eugene J. Hoerdt, Pres.
John J. Cronin, Inc.
Albany, N. Y.

"Have never spent a cent for repairs"

After driving a 1929 Chevrolet Six for 25,000 miles over all kinds of roads, I was so well satisfied that I bought another Chevrolet Six coupe in 1930, and to date have put on 22,025 miles and have never spent a cent for repairs in the line of parts as yet.

STRESS G. O. P. SOLIDARITY IN DENEEN RALLY

Ex-Senator Lists Works of His Group.

The Deneen Republican group held its first important roundup yesterday in preparation for next year's campaign. Its leaders, including the former senator, spoke to a large crowd at Riverview park during the afternoon, each stressing party solidarity. Ex-Senator Deneen enumerated the important legislation accomplished during his political career.

Most of the present or past officeholders identified with the group made short speeches. These included State's Attorney Swanson, National Committeeman Roy O. West, United States Attorney Johnson, former Ald. Arthur F. Albert, Ald. John A. Massen, and Judge David Matchett.

"This organization has held together for thirty-three years," declared Mr. Deneen. "No other political organization in our state has a record equal to ours in length of time or services rendered. It will not be amiss to call the roll of important legislation in which our organization has had the political leadership.

Deneen Lists Achievements.

Then the speaker listed achievements among which were included compulsory state-wide primary and the presidential preference primary law, leadership in the hard road movement, sponsorship of civil service in the state charitable institutions, waterway aid, and help in labor legislation.

"Appropriations and the tax rate have never been so low" as when his group was in power in Springfield, Mr. Deneen said.

For Chicago, he added, the group has promoted the Municipal court system and the extension of the small parks in the city.

"I have referred to these measures," he said, "because so many voters think that the political contests are made between rival factions and amount to nothing save the selection of candidates by the faction which wins. I will submit this record as a refutation to such ill-informed charges, and ask whether any other organization without our state, or, for that matter, in any state, during the last thirty-three years has made a better record of service and success in legislation and administration." Mr. Deneen also defended the Hoover administration.

West Pleads G. O. P. Cause.

"We are Republicans," said Mr. West. "We believe in the party and its history and we urge that united party effort which will restore the party to power; but we advocate its reinstatement in authority upon the premise that our candidates shall have such records—whether public or private—as shall exemplify the party's tradition for good government."

Former Ald. Albert said that the Republican party is charged with the obligation of "presenting to the electorate as nominees the most capable and trustworthy candidates available."

DISCUSS BUTLER AS G. O. P. HEAD NEXT CAMPAIGN

Boston, Mass., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Boston Post says that former United States Senator William M. Butler of Massachusetts has been approached by close friends of President Hoover regarding the chairmanship of the Republican national committee during the 1932 campaign. Butler was chairman of the national committee during the administration of Calvin Coolidge, whose campaign he directed.

The Post says that Mr. Butler recently passed a week-end at the Rapidan camp and recommended the selection of Charles D. Hilles of New York.

Capital Talks About Phipps.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Lawrence C. Phipps, former senator from Colorado, is now being talked of in some Washington circles as a possible successor for Chairman Simeon D. Fess of the Republican national campaign committee. The committee meets in December to choose a convention city and a date for its convention next June. Senators who favor Phipps urged his wealth as a factor to head a committee which will have to raise a considerable campaign fund. Mr. Phipps has a pretentious home in Washington.

SUIT CONTESTING STATE WAGE CUT ARGUED SEPT. 16

Ten Millions for Highway Jobs at Stake.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—A taxpayer's suit challenging the constitutionality of the prevailing wage act was set today by Circuit Judge Briggle for a hearing on Sept. 16, so that an appeal can be decided by the October term of the Illinois Supreme court.

This is the wage act which delayed $10,000,000 worth of state highway construction for two months this summer.

"The suit is of such great public moment," the judge was told by Attorney A. M. Fitzgerald, counsel for the petitioner, "that the Supreme court should receive the earliest possible opportunity to wipe this wage law from the statutes of Illinois. It is a vicious piece of legislation, sponsored in bad faith, and inimical to the interests of labor as well as the taxpayers at large."

Assistant Attorney General J. J. Neiger, representing the state officials who are defendants in the suit, announced he would cooperate in obtaining a prompt ruling on the constitutionality of the act.

Pick East St. Louis Case.

The petition asks that the state officials be enjoined from awarding a contract under the provisions of the wage act for paving eight miles of route 157 in Madison county near East St. Louis. The bids were to be opened tomorrow. The case was brought into court today on a motion for a temporary restraining order, but the assistant attorney general told the court the department of public works would hold up the project, without a temporary writ being issued, pending the final outcome of the suit.

The act, sponsored by a group of union labor officials and a group of paving contractors, provides that political bodies, in awarding construction contracts, shall specify the minimum wage to be paid by the contractors, and that this wage shall be not lower than the rate prevailing for similar work in the vicinity of the job.

Held "Artificial" Help.

In the suit, brought in the name of Harry A. Mayhew of Springfield, it is contended that the law is unconstitutional because, among other reasons, an artificial bolster to wages on public construction cheats the taxpayers who pay the bill, curtails the volume of public construction and the number of men employed thereon, and deprives a laborer from selling his services at his own figure.

"A particularly objectionable provision of the act," said Attorney Fitzgerald, outside of court, "is that it permits any ten taxpayers, responsible or otherwise, to block a public improvement by filing a protest against the wage rate fixed by the state. This makes the law a powerful instrument of obstruction, and I have reason to suspect that subtle influences of communism were active in the passage of the bill."

Open Bids Today.

The highway department tomorrow is to open bids on projects totalling $3,435,000, but, it was pointed out, the morning mail might further delay this construction if any ten taxpayers in the state have written a protest over the week-end. The letting includes $1,953,000 worth of work in the metropolitan area which has been held up since July on the protest of ten taxpayers of Little Egypt who did not show enough interest in their protest to appear in Springfield when a hearing was called by the arbitration board last week.

With another letting scheduled for Sept. 15, there is $10,440,000 worth of road work, furnishing employment this fall to 6,650 men, which will be awarded unless eleventh hour protests are filed.

A protest of union labor officials, headed by R. G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, delayed the downstate projects after July, but no new petition is expected from this source since the arbitration board last week decided the union case by raising the downstate labor rate approximately twenty per cent, incidentally increasing the cost of paving approximately eight per cent.

FORD COMMERCIAL CARS SERVE NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY

1488 Ford commercial cars serve not only the New York Telephone Company but its millions of subscribers as well. Because, through swift, unfailing operation they contribute to that prompt telephone service so vital to the smooth conduct of daily life.

In almost every field of business Ford trucks and light commercial cars are helping to keep up standards and keep down costs of service. They are low in price, and records kept by many Ford fleet owners show remarkably low figures for operation and maintenance. Because of this, hundreds of truck users are standardizing on Ford units. The New York Telephone Company is but one of the many buyers that are influenced by actual experience with the Ford.

More than forty standard Ford types are now available in a choice of thirty-eight different color combinations. It is no longer necessary for you to have a special body built. Simply call on the local Ford dealer and he will furnish a complete unit—a strong, good-looking, business-building unit—exactly fitted to your needs. PHILADELPHIA'S BILLION DOLLAR MARKET NEARLY EVERYBODY READS are checking rates

IT'S a sign of the times—and a healthy sign—that executives are taking a long look at their advertising lists.

Sharp pencils are checking rates; keen minds are weighing markets. And some well-planned campaigns should come out of it all.

Its advertising cost is the lowest in years, the lowest of any great newspaper in America: $1.16 per milline*; 65c an agate line.

Its circulation climbed to a new high level of 560,855 net paid daily in 1930. Six months of 1931 outstripped that mark with 566,876. All without premium or contest.

Its coverage—ninety-one per cent. of Philadelphia homes—sets a record for metropolitan cities.

For you manufacturers who are working on reduced margins, you who are concerned over increased selling expense—the cost and coverage of The Evening Bulletin in Philadelphia will produce profitable sales, today.

*Milline is a term denoting the cost of a line of advertising (one-fourteenth of an inch) printed in one million copies of any publication. It gives a basis upon which to compare the cost of publications with different rates and circulations. It is computed by dividing the circulation into the rate, multiplied by one million.

Amazing "Kidney Laxative" Drives Out Poisons New Way

At last a method has been found to drive out the body poisons which are in the blood, and which so often cause or aggravate serious body ailments. Millions of people who try to reach these poisons choose the wrong method—they use cathartics and physics to drive them out. But these acid wastes are actually in the blood—they can be driven off only through the kidneys.

To get at these dangerous acids quickly and easily doctors often now prescribe Sleepy Water—a natural unfiltered mineral water which is delightful to drink. Doctors call it a "kidney laxative." Sleepy Water contains natural alkalines which neutralize the acid which so often causes terrible suffering in cases of rheumatism, while the kidneys, which are soothed and gently activated, carry them off. These same acid body wastes cause or aggravate 29 serious common chronic diseases, including diabetes, arthritis, neuritis, and Bright's Disease.

Write or phone today for facts about Sleepy Water. You can try Sleepy Water in your own home today—it will show you, in 30 minutes, how quickly and thoroughly it acts to eliminate these body poisons. Just ask for information about the 30-minute test. Chewaukla Mineral Springs Co., Dept. L-10, 3330 Jackson Blvd., Tel. Kedzie 1228, Chicago. North Shore Branch: Phone Greenleaf 8058.

WIFE OF IOWA'S MYSTERY MAN CONFESSES PLOT

Says He Faked Death to Get Insurance.

Perry, Ia., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The solution of the case of John M. Smith, one time candidate for the Iowa governorship, took a rapid forward step today with the announcement that Mrs. Smith in a signed statement said the pair had discussed a plan by which the husband was to disappear and she was to collect $60,000 in life insurance.

In the affidavit, released in part by County Attorney George Sackett, Mrs. Smith declared the insecticide manufacturer left Perry Feb. 3, and that night she was told he had been killed in his burning truck. She said she was told the body found in his blazing truck was in no condition for her to see.

Charred Corpse Still Mystery.

The statement was said by state agents to have cleared up several angles of the involved case, which includes a hunt for Smith in several states, his bigamous marriage to Pauline Shaw, 18, in Elgin, Kas., March 11, and a narrow escape from deputies when he sought to see Mrs. Smith here late in March.

Mrs. Smith did not mention the most baffling element in the mystery, that of the origin of the charred corpse found in the truck, which was buried as Smith's and later when insurance companies demanded an exhumation proved to be embalmed and not his.

"My husband took out a large amount of life insurance," Mrs. Smith's statement read. "I talked to him about it, and he said I might benefit some day.

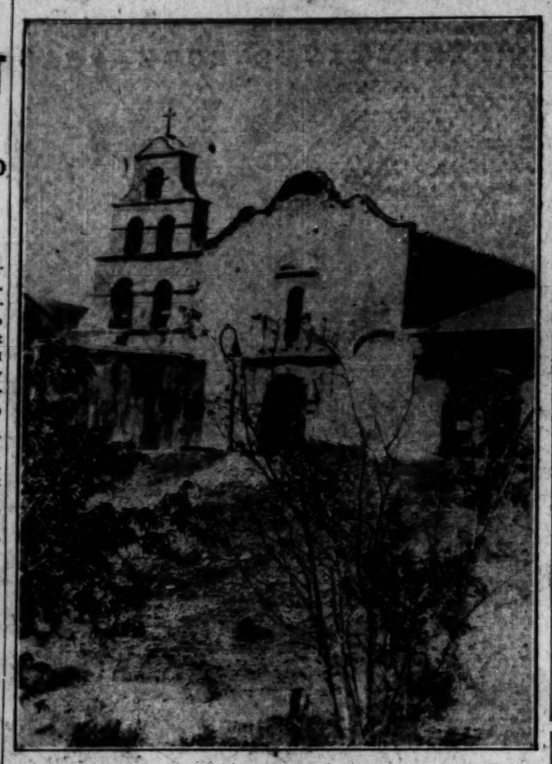
"Under our plan I was to collect the insurance or accept it when the insurance company paid it to me and then meet John when he got into communication with me, which might be from one to two years."

Tells of Secret Meeting.

The statement then told of the only meeting she said took place between the disappearance and July 3, when Smith was brought from the Clarinda insane hospital, where he was committed June 30. He had been found near a Garner, Ia., roadside, bound with wire June 23.

"I received a note asking me to meet a certain party near Fremont, Neb., on the 19th day of June, 1931. I drove to Fremont with my son and met my husband, John Smith, on the road near Fremont and spent the afternoon with him. He told me that he would come back and take care of me."

Mission of 1769 to Be Rededicated



With Cardinal Hayes and Catholic bishops and archbishops from 40 dioceses attending, the historic mission of San Diego de Alcala at San Diego, established by the Franciscans in 1769, will be rededicated Sept. 13. Burned in 1776, it was restored, and was the scene of the conversion of thousands of Indians. (Acme Photo.)

Quake Rocks Baluchistan; Thousands Flee City

QUETTA, Baluchistan, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Baluchistan was shaken during the night by two severe earth shocks and thousands of residents in this city are leaving by train and automobile. Comparatively little damage was done here, but it was feared that some of the smaller towns and villages which were damaged by shocks last night might have suffered more heavily.

FOUND DEAD IN AUTO.

HOME GIRL GOES OUT WITH TOUGH; RAPED AND SLAIN

Nude Body Found in Home of Gangster.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—A girl of good family, who yielded to the tempting glamor of the underworld and kept a tryst with a flashy small time gangster, was attacked and strangled to death at dawn in a Greenwich Village apartment today.

Catherine Cronin, 20, who lived with her widowed mother and two sisters on West 12th street, was the girl whose nude body was discovered by the mother of her underworld companion.

The flashy shiek, Jack Hartigan, 24, disappeared shortly after the murder and an order for his arrest was broadcast. An autopsy revealed that death was caused by strangulation.

Shortly before the crime was enacted in the Hartigan apartment, Catherine, her sister Blanche, 22, and four men were taxicabbing about town. At 5 a. m. the joy ride ended when the car swerved to the sidewalk and demolished a fire hydrant at 70th street and Broadway.

About 6 a. m. neighbors of the Hartigans heard fresh sounds of revelry—the party having commenced at the Perry street address earlier in the evening. Suddenly a piercing shriek was heard, and then silence.

Mrs. Bridget Hartigan, who occupied the apartment with Jack and another son, Patrick, 22, had also taken part in the whoopee and was sleeping soundly when her son returned with Catherine.

She didn't wake until 8:15 a. m., when she entered the second bedroom of the three room apartment and found Catherine's body.

"I don't know how she got back here after leaving the first time," Mrs. Hartigan said. "I never heard anybody come in."

Mrs. Hartigan, her son Pat, and the other occupants of the taxicab were held for questioning.

Ring Lardner in Hospital with General Breakdown

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Ring Lardner, humorist, today was reported "resting comfortably" in Doctors' hospital, where he is undergoing treatment following a general breakdown. Members of his family said he would remain in the hospital for several weeks, and that he had been "worn out by too much work."

W. C. Whitney's Grandchild to Wed for the Third Time

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—It was announced today that the Hon. Mrs. Olive Cecilia Wilson-Filmer, granddaughter of the late William C. Whitney, American multimillionaire, will be married to Sir Adrian Baillie, baronet, who is in the British diplomatic service, and formerly was stationed at Washington, D. C. Mrs. Filmer is the elder daughter of Lord Queensborough and the former Pauline Whitney. She inherited an income of $250,000 annually when she was 17. She married the Hon. C. J. F. Win when she was 20, divorced him six years later and married Mr. Filmer. That union was dissolved last December.

PHYSICAL CULTURE MAGAZINE NEEDS A NEW NAME!

The mission of PHYSICAL CULTURE has been to make people stronger, healthier and happier. And there is absolutely no change in these commendable purposes.

But we are now publishing articles and stories of some of the best and most renowned authors. We are spending a huge sum of money every month for the editorial contents of PHYSICAL CULTURE and we are reducing the price to 10c.

What can we name this new magazine, which is replete with interesting stories, but which also definitely instructs you in the building of that supreme vitality that makes one feel as rich as Croesus, regardless of his financial status.

We are offering prizes totaling $10,000 for a new name which will definitely indicate to the public the character of this magazine as it is now being published.

Excerpt from Editorial in October issue.

Bernarr Macfadden

RULES OF THE CONTEST

1. Physical Culture Magazine will distribute $10,000 in cash prizes for the best new name available for the magazine. Each name submitted must be accompanied by a slogan of not over 10 words explaining the meaning of the name.

2. This contest is open to everyone everywhere—men, women, boys and girls, except employees of the Publishers of Physical Culture Magazine and members of their families.

3. It is not necessary to purchase the magazine to take part in the contest but it will help if you read a copy. You can ask to see it at any public library or borrow a copy from a friend. For the convenience of those who wish it, we are printing on page 14 of the October issue, now on sale, complete details of the contest together with an entry blank on which you can write your entry. This blank is for convenience only. If you prefer you can send in your entry on a sheet of ordinary paper. Print your name and address plainly and put sufficient postage on your letter. Entries with insufficient postage will not be accepted. We cannot correspond with anyone on this contest, nor can we return any suggestions submitted.

4. The Contest opens September 4th, and closes at midnight, November 4th, 1931.

5. Literary ability or style are not essential in writing the slogan which will be judged on the basis of how forcefully and appealingly it explains the meaning of the new name you suggest.

6. The winners will be announced in the earliest possible issue of Physical Culture consistent with careful judging.

7. You may send in as many entries as you desire, but no contestant may win more than one prize. Each entry must be on a separate sheet of paper and bear contestant's full name and address.

8. In case of ties each tying contestant will receive the full amount of the prize tied for.

9. The awarding of any prize in this contest makes the entire entry the property of the publishers to use in whatever manner they see fit.

10. By entering this contest you agree to accept the decision of the judges as final.

11. Address all communications to Contest Committee, Physical Culture Magazine, P. O. Box 210, Station N, New York, N. Y.

THE PRIZES

FIRST PRIZE	$5,000
SECOND PRIZE	$1,500
THIRD PRIZE	$500
FORTY	$25.00 PRIZES
TWO HUNDRED	$10.00 PRIZES
TOTAL PRIZES	$10,000

HOW TO GET A PRIZE!

Anybody can win in this Contest, even though they have never read PHYSICAL CULTURE Magazine. But of course, the more you learn about the magazine, the better chance you have of winning. It would be a smart move to read a copy of PHYSICAL CULTURE Magazine—the October issue is now on the newsstands. In it you are sure to find many hints, many ideas, many stories which will suggest a new name to you. Thoughts will come to you as you read the wonderful fiction written by world-famous authors; the inspiring articles of successful men and women; the authoritative advice on beauty and health—the brilliant, entertaining contents of a magazine that is new and different today.

Full Details in October Issue

On pages 14 and 15 of the October issue of PHYSICAL CULTURE Magazine you will find full details of the Contest together with much helpful information. A special entry blank will also be found on page 15 which will be very convenient for you in trying for a prize. Act now. Get your thinking machinery to work and go after your share of this $10,000 in a big way. Read the October issue today.

She Window Shops Thru Her Newspaper!

NEXT TO A TRIP DOWNTOWN, a normal, up-to-the-minute woman loves a trip thru her newspaper.

Here she can window shop to her heart's content. Here she can plan her own needs and the needs of her home—and fit her budget to meet those needs.

American women are thinking shoppers. They have learned from childhood days to look for their buying news in their daily newspaper.

Why then, try to sell the hundreds of thousands of women in any major market by round-about methods when you have a direct path to their interest in their leading newspaper?

Take the Cleveland Trade Empire for example—that rich market so desirable in Northern Ohio.

Where do your sales stand in this aggressive territory with its three million progressive citizens who look so insistently to Cleveland for their mercantile, commercial and cultural leadership?

Seventy per cent of this great trade empire buys 95% of its goods in Cleveland.

And there is a reason. In the 135 cities and towns of more than a 1,000 population concentrated in the 31 counties that make up the Cleveland Trade Empire, the Cleveland Plain Dealer is the only morning newspaper delivered on the doorstep.

No wonder this great daily newspaper exerts such an influence. No wonder Cleveland maintains its unique position as the trade capital of Northern Ohio.

What a responsive market to enter thru a well planned advertising campaign. The Plain Dealer alone will capture this Trade Empire for you, not in a half hearted way but with a vigorous coverage that assures maximum sales at minimum sales cost.

Hundreds of national advertisers know this to be actual fact. By concentrating in the Plain Dealer they have won a concentrated market throughout all of the Cleveland Trade Empire.

In this year when errorless selling is so important, make sure that you have the Plain Dealer analysis to guide you. A request—by letter or wire—will place it on your desk at once.

The Cleveland Trade Empire 3,000,000 buying population.

A market of 131 cities and towns that use the same newspaper as their daily purchasing guide. The only morning newspaper in the North Ohio market. A market far above the average in individual wealth. That is the Cleveland Trade Empire—the empire that daily responds to the buying messages in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. You can put this energetic market on your sales map as one integral unit, when you reach it thru the open door of its dominating newspaper—the Plain Dealer.

IRELAND PLANS TO DEAL WITH DISLOYAL GROUP

Free State Parliament to Curb Opponents.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Sept. 7.—All indications point to another brush with the disloyal elements in the Irish Free State.

Government sources do not deny that such an eventuality is threatened, and preparations are being made to have parliament, when it meets in October, pass legislation to give the authorities the necessary powers to handle the situation.

The position is that the disgruntled minority, which has all along been in direct opposition to the Free State government, has now grown in audacity and is showing itself in a manner such as no responsible government could tolerate.

Says Britain Rules.

This minority alleges that the Free State government is really the British government; that, in any case, it operates by virtue of powers conferred on it by Great Britain; moreover that it is a party to the partition of the country, northern Ireland being a separate entity, controlled by a separate government. This, they claim, is not what the campaign of 1919-'21 was fought for.

This element in the country asserted itself after the treaty of 1921 was signed and provoked the civil war. That war, which cost the country many millions of dollars, failed, but the defeated party never surrendered. Their arms were "dumped" in secret hiding places, and so have since remained a menace to the peace of the country. In recent months there has been a recrudescence of activity. Bodies of armed youths, under the aegis of the "Irish Republican army," have been drilling in various counties.

Civic Guards on the Job.

The civic guards, the police force, who are themselves unarmed, have attempted to interfere, and in some cases prosecutions have followed against the secret drillers. In one case recently, a civic guard officer was murdered, apparently as a direct consequence of his active participation in one of these prosecutions. In another case, a young man who had given evidence in court in a similar connection, was taken out and cruelly murdered.

Several of the secret "dumps" of arms and ammunition have been discovered by the authorities, and it is significant that the weekly newspaper which represents the anti-government movement behind this continued activity admitted that the losses of equipment had been considerable, but boasted that there were still plenty of arms and ammunition available.

In the circumstances it is not surprising that the government has at last decided to take strong action, and to put an end once and for all to a menace which, if allowed to continue, must seriously obstruct the progress of the nation.

What to Do?

What steps will the government take? What forces will it use? These are questions which are being asked. The police force is an unarmed body. The army, however, remains in reserve, well trained, fully equipped and loyal. Both these arms are to be used in the projected attack upon the seditious element. They will be made complimentary to each other. The guards will first be given extended powers in the matter of arrest and detention of persons found illegally drilling. They will be backed by the army when resistance is offered.

The civil courts have been handicapped because of threats to jurors. Men who have been asked to sit in cases of treason and sedition have been intimidated, and in one or two instances, jurors who have performed their duties conscientiously have been murdered. It is now intended that in certain cases which may be described as political or treason cases, trial by jury will be abolished. Powers will be given to intern suspected persons without trial, and a special tribunal will be set up composed of persons of legal training to try certain offenses, and in extreme cases the tribunal will be empowered to inflict capital punishment.

Opposition to Resist.

When these proposals are brought before the parliament it may be expected that the opposition, led by Mr. de Valera, will offer strong resistance. A good deal will be heard of the curtailment of the liberty of the subject. On the other hand, Mr. de Valera will, no doubt, be asked to declare where he and his party stand as regards the seditious agitation which is known to exist, and whose objective is unquestionably the subversion of the state.

GOES TO SCHOOL

CROWN PRINCE OF PERSIA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Persia, Sept. 7.—The incongruous situation of a Russian warship conveying a young future monarch was presented today, when the fourteen-year-old crown prince of Persia set out to Lausanne, Switzerland, where he will attend school.

The soviet war commissar loaned the warship to Riza Khan Pahlevi, Persian shah, who bade his son goodby at the port of Pahlavi. The shah is the first Persian king who believes it necessary to give his successor a western education.

A soviet general and a staff of 16 high officers, as well as a detachment of soldiers, will escort the prince from Pahlavi to the Polish frontier. As a further mark of respect to Persian royalty, all Persian prisoners in Russia are being liberated when the prince lands on soviet soil.

4 YEAR OLD BOY WANDERS WEEK IN AUSTRALIAN BUSH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 7.—Jimmy Shields, aged 4, son of a far western settler in New South Wales, strayed "from home last Monday. Search parties scoured the bush country fruitlessly for several days and hope of finding him was abandoned. Today Jimmy arrived at a station hut. He showed no serious effects of his adventure. He had wandered 28 miles through wild speargrass country, chewing grass plants and sleeping on clumps of scrub. Health authorities attribute his survival of the rigors of the weather and hunger to his vitality, due to living almost continually in sunshine and on an abundant milk and fruit diet.

Moslems Call New Boycott on Italy in Jerusalem

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, Sept. 7.—An anti-Italian boycott by Moslem countries, which originated three months ago as a protest against alleged atrocities by Italians in Tripoli, has broken out again in Jerusalem at the behest of the supreme Moslem council. Italian authorities deny the atrocity allegations and today invited Shaukat Ali, Indian Moslem leader, to visit Tripoli to make a personal investigation.

For Pyorrhea
For Gingivitis
(bleeding gums)
For Cleaner, Whiter Teeth!

Here we have it—the solution of the problem that has been puzzling dental science for generations. Here we have it—at last—the right way, the one right way to clean the mouth and to keep it clean.

Learn the new and scientific method. The use of the principle of osmosis for mouth hygiene. Ask any doctor, any dentist, any teacher of physics or chemistry, and he will explain the law of osmosis, how it is applied in mouth hygiene. It is simply this:

By getting into the mouth the right combination of salts in solution, this solution draws out from the crypts of the tissues in the mouth the non-salty solution within those tissues. This salt solution is not an antiseptic, it does nothing to tax the tissues; it simply draws out the fluids. Thus the mouth is flushed. Thus, with the fluids, the germs are expelled. Thus the tissues are made clean. No disease can grow amid healthy tissue!

Ora-Noid Mouth Powder

The gargle, the tooth powder, the tissue restorer, the mouth cleaner all in one. No more tooth paste needed, no more antiseptics. Here is a revolutionary discovery for healthy teeth, gums, mouth and throat. And scientifically established. The discovery lies in the application of a known, accepted principle to mouth hygiene.

Do not neglect your teeth and mouth another day. If you have bleeding gums, or any form of pyorrhea; if your mouth is healthy and you want to keep your teeth cleaner, whiter, better—come in, go to any Walgreen store, ask any clerk there to give you a circular (no charge, of course) explaining the law of osmosis and the uses of

Ora-Noid Mouth Powder

Walgreen's unhesitatingly recommend Ora-Noid Mouth Powder on a binding money back guarantee.

Get a $1 can, and if you do not find that it does all that is claimed for it, your money is cheerfully refunded.

If you want first to read a circular (no charge) explaining the law of osmosis and the uses of Ora-Noid, then drop in at any Walgreen store, ask any clerk there and he will explain this important matter and will give you a copy of the circular.

PLYMOUTH'S vibrationless ride is a scientific fact, not a conjuror's trick.

Words alone cannot convey to you the sensational character of this achievement. To appreciate it fully, you must take the wheel.

Feel for yourself the thrill of accelerating from a standstill to 40 miles an hour in 9.7 seconds — without a trace of vibration. Drive up to 50 miles an hour in second gear. Romp through the gear shifts without touching the clutch. Free Wheel in any speed. Flash up to 65 or 70 miles an hour.

But you must drive a New Plymouth to appreciate its brilliant performance. In justice to yourself, don't buy any motor car until you know what the New Plymouth offers.

Drive in to your nearest De Soto, Chrysler or Dodge dealer for an appraisal of the car you now own. Don't phone. Don't guess at its value. Know for certain. Also, let the dealer explain to you how you can buy this great Plymouth car on monthly payments you can easily afford to meet.

Liberty Limited Is Third.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Hygro, the speed sensation from Illinois, is the best 2 year old on the eastern half of the American turf today.

The son of Epinard, former French champion, and Ruddy Light, almost a freak of his mighty chestnut color, demonstrated his greatness before a crowd of 25,000 holiday visitors at Lincoln Fields yesterday when he won the $5,000 added Joliet stakes.

At the end of six furlongs he was pulled up and going easily, a length in front of Burning Blaze, owned by the Rosh brothers of Chicago. Six lengths back of the two leaders came the expensive Liberty Limited from the three D stock farm stable of Texas.

No Excuses to Offer.

When the three famous juvenile colts from the west fought it out for all they were worth. Burning Blaze has the rich Post and Paddock stakes at Arlington to his credit. Hygro now has the Hawthorne Juvenile stakes and the Joliet in his trophy collection, and both times has beaten Burning Blaze. Liberty Limited ran third in all three of these encounters.

It was one of the few 2 year old stakes run here this year out of which no winners were to be offered, for the field was small and they were away to an even start. Hygro immediately went to the lead and Burning Blaze, showing more early speed than usual, was second. Liberty Limited, with Gilbert riding in front of him, was racing fifth and improving his position gradually.

Hygro Four Length Lead.

A hurdle about went up from the crowd: "Look at Hygro run!" He must have heard it over on the far turn as he began to round the bend leading into the stretch. He pulled out with a lead of four lengths, but Burning Blaze was keeping at his task in such bulldoggish fashion it was evident that if he ran in the stretch in his encounter as he had in his other engagements he might catch the flyer speeding along in front of him.

Burning Blaze challenged in resolute fashion at the head of the stretch, but the faster he ran the faster Hygro went. In midstretch Hygro still was three lengths in front. Then realizing Burning Blaze was whipped Jockey Jones took a tight hold on Hygro's head and had him pulled up at the finish. The tired Burning Blaze made up some ground when Hygro began to take things easy.

Hygro ran his six furlongs in 1:11 1-5. This was two fifths of a second slower than his time for the same distance when he won the Hawthorne Juvenile. But he was just finding himself over at Hawthorne and ran at his best clip from start to finish. In the Joliet yesterday he had his confidence and when he realised he had no duel behind him he took things easy in the final stages.

Hygro at Short Price.

With nearly everybody in the crowd betting on him, Hygro was the odds favorite and paid $3.48 to win, $2.92 to place and $2.40 to show. Burning Blaze was at $4.56 to place and $3.14 to show, and the show price on Liberty Limited was $2.56.

Hygro and Burning Blaze each carried 130 pounds. Liberty Limited had up 118 pounds. The others were in much lighter.

While the stake race brought great joy to the favorite players the Tollers [illegible], which was the companion feature on the holiday program, brought much grief to them.

Justinian, with Jockey Charley Allen giving him one of his best rides, was the winner over Cheers and Jimmy, both of which had been heavily backed. And Lady Fingers, another with an army of supporters, finished back in the ruck of the [illegible].

Slower than Hygro.

Justinian, paying $17.96 in the mutuels, got up after a furious drive in the stretch just in time to score. But the 6 year old from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable had to be a powerful horse to win and had to have just the sort of a ground saving ride Allen gave him to score his triumph. He ran his three-quarters in 1:14.

A few minutes earlier Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Angry also scored in a six furlong dash in 1:12 1-5. This was nearly a full second over Hygro's time, and both the older horses carried much less weight than Hygro.

Don Disqualified for Beating Gun; Wood Wins Harmsworth

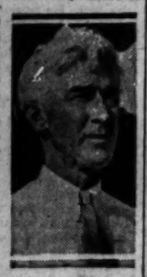
Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The jinx that has hounded every effort of foreign challengers to recapture the Harmsworth speedboat trophy from Gar Wood eliminated Kaye Don of England today.

His challenging craft, Miss England II., fastest speedboat in the world, lay at the bottom of the river tonight, having turned over on a curve two miles from the start. Don and his crew escaped unhurt.



GAR WOOD.

As if this ill luck were not enough, it was announced almost as the craft foundered that Don had beaten the starting gun by seven seconds and automatically eliminated himself from further competition in this year's event.

Wood's Second Entry Wins.

At the same time it was announced that Gar Wood, driving his Miss America IX., also had beaten the gun to be disqualified. Wood led Don across the start, having crossed it two seconds ahead of the British challenger. Wood's second entry in defense of the trophy, Miss America VIII., left alone in the race, finished the 30 mile course leisurely for an average speed of 60.872.

The race was marred by another mishap, when a loading dock on the Detroit side of the river, crowded with men, women and children watching the races, collapsed, throwing many of them into the water. All were rescued.

In winning yesterday's heat Don had established a new world's competitive speedboat record by averaging 89.913 miles an hour for the 30 mile course.

Don and his two mechanics, Dick Garner and Roy Platford, received only a severe ducking when their boat turned over. Don and Wood were roaring around the lower part of the course, swinging for the second turn, with Wood in the lead when Miss England II. got into Miss America IX.'s wash. It tipped over on its side, came upright and settled down by the stern as it filled with water.

Don Refuses Postponement.

An hour before the race word came to the judge's stand that Gar Wood had discovered a leak in his gasoline tank and had requested a postponement for 45 minutes. Race officials announced that Don refused the request on the ground it would necessitate his returning to his boatwell to again warm up 35 gallons of lubricating oil. He said that if Wood had but one boat in the race he gladly would have agreed to the postponement, but felt that with two boats entered against him and one of them in good shape the race should start on time.

In yesterday's start Don beat the veteran Wood across, but was a fraction of a second behind the gun. Today both boats approached the starting line at full tilt, Wood with his throttle wide open nearly a quarter of a mile away. Seemingly fearful that Wood would get the jump, Don also opened up. Both were well beyond the start at the sound of the gun.

Safely back in the wake of the two speeding boats came the slower Miss America VIII. to cross the starting line well after the gun. Miss America VIII., driven by George Wood, finished the race as an exhibition for the more than 250,000 persons who lined the edges of the course. Prior to the regatta Gar Wood had announced that he would not let Don beat him to the start and that he was prepared even to disqualify Miss America IX., if necessary to prevent such a happening.

Wood Regrets Ending.

So sure was Don regarded as winner today that the bronze Harmsworth trophy had been brought down to the racing committee's pier to be presented to him. The mishap today necessitated abandonment of plans Don had made to take Miss England II. to Toronto on Thursday or Friday for an attempt to increase its world record of 110.223 miles an hour on a straightaway course.

Wood, after the race, expressed regret that the race did not go the full distance.

"I'm mighty sorry it had to end that way," he said. "I felt more confident that I would win today's heat than I did at the start of yesterday's run, when Don beat me. I told William Sturm (Don's manager) that the British boat would be jeopardized if it followed in my wake as I followed in his yesterday, and apparently that's just what happened. It's too bad."

Wood also said he had made new alignments to the steel brace which he used to intensify the curve of Miss America IX.'s hull.

"It's the Luck of the Game," Says Don After Race

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7.—(AP)—"It's the luck of the game," was the comment of Kaye Don tonight over the double disaster of his disqualification for crossing the starting line too soon and the swamping of the hydroplane with which he had hoped to take the Harmsworth trophy back to England.

"We got into somebody's wash on the turn and over we went," was his description of the accident which would have eliminated him as a contender had he not already been disqualified.

The holder of the world straightaway water speed record added that he would "like very much" to race in next year's Harmsworth renewal.

W. F. Sturm, Don's manager, added to the statement of his pricipal, the comment that "Gar Wood evidently knows lots of the tricks in the racing game. No one could race for 17 years without learning most of them."

ROOT, HARTNETT CUBS' BATTERY FOR SOX GAME

Charity Battle Tomorrow at Comiskey Park.

Charley Root, the standby of the Cub staff, assisted by Gabby Hartnett, will be on the job tomorrow when the north siders visit Comiskey park to give the White Sox a battle in behalf of Gov. Emmerson's unemployment fund.

Manager Hornsby gave Root the pitching assignment yesterday when it became evident that the status of Pat Malone, the original nominee, might remain unsettled for several days.

From the Sox temporary camp at Cleveland the word continues that Donie Bush thinks Urban Red Faber, 43 years of age last Saturday, is the best possibility for a south side triumph. Vic Frazier is the other possible choice.

Cub Rookies Stay in Lineup.

Although Hornsby has no intention of making it easy for the Sox, he is going to employ about the same youngsters who have been in the lineup recently. The Boy Scout combination—Adair and Herman—will work around second. Mike Kreevich, the new outfielder who arrived yesterday, will be started in left, provided Barton continues to be absent. Kreevich will perform in right and Dan Taylor will look after the left field affairs.

An interesting feature of the battle, regardless of how it ends, will be the use of both American and National league balls, the latter differing from the former in that its cover is slightly thicker. Each will be in play four and one-half innings. The National ball, supposedly a bit less lively than the American league's, provides, because of the stiffer hide, a better grip for the pitcher. Anyway that is the theory, but a few tests such as the one tomorrow might prove otherwise. The same experiment was recently made in an exhibition down east and no difference was noticed by the players.

Gates Open at 9 A. M.

So as to be prepared to take care of the expected capacity crowd, the gates at Comiskey park, the Sox's home, will be unlatched at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. This will give the $1.00 customers who care to come early the choice of many seats as good as those occupied by the customers in the boxes. The game starts at 2:30, a half hour earlier than usual, so that the Sox won't have to worry about catching an early train for New York.

WITTMER DEFIES SURGEONS; PUTS PRINCETON FIRST

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Al Wittmer, head coach of football at Princeton university, is so determined to be present at the opening of football practice in his first year as varsity Tiger mentor that he flatly rejected the advice of his personal physician tonight to undergo an operation for acute appendicitis.

At his own request he will be taken in an ambulance to White River Junction, Vt., and will be taken aboard a train to return to Princeton.

Hurlingham Player Hurt; Change U. S. Polo Schedule

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Because of an injury sustained by John Miles, No. 1, the Hurlingham polo team of Argentina will not play in the opening match of the open polo championship of the United States at International field, Meadowbrook club, Wednesday, according to an announcement made yesterday by the United States Polo association.

Instead of the original schedule, which had Hurlingham listed to clash with Sands Point, the championship will get under way with the Hurlingham Junior Sands Point.

BEING CHAMP IS GREAT; OUIMET RECEIVES AUTO

Newton, Mass., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Francis Ouimet was given a $2,000 automobile today by his fellow members of the Woodlawn Golf club at an official celebration of Ouimet's victory in the national amateur golf championship last week at Chicago.

Charles Shaw, chairman of the celebration committee, who presented the auto to Ouimet, said, "It is for our love and admiration for you, Francis, not for your title."

French Tennis Team to Play at Mexico City

PARIS, France, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The French tennis team now competing in the United States championships has accepted an invitation to play at Mexico City Oct. 12. At least three of the team—Jacques Brugnon, Christian Boussus and Marcel Bernard—will go to the Mexican capital. Henri Cochet also has been invited but may not make the trip from Paris.

Londos Victor Over M'Millen in Two Hours

Labor day evening meant labor for Jim Londos and Jim McMillen—two hours of it—before the Greek heavyweight was able to beat the former University of Illinois athlete at Soldiers' field. The state athletic commission's time limit ended the match.

With McMillen giving him as much roughing as he received, Londos, recognized in some states as the champion wrestler of the world, won the referee's decision by getting a fall in one hour 36 minutes and 55 seconds. After a rest period they went at it again with McMillen the more aggressive, and then the bell clanged at the two hour mark, sending a crowd of 7,200 home.

The receipts were announced as $11,204.60, but only 6,504 contributed. When the match was made Londos, it was said, was to be given a $35,000 guarantee.

McMillen Escapes Spin.

McMillen derived a deal of satisfaction from the result even if he was whipped. He refused to be a victim of the airplane spin, the maneuver which usually ends the ambitions of Londos' opponents. The ex-Illini several times appeared ripe for this ride, but he always managed to wiggle free and start an offensive of his own.

While devoting himself to a defense for the airplane ride McMillen fell into a trap more punishing. The fall came when Londos clamped on a neck lock, a form of strangulation, and bore his burly foe's shoulders to the mat.

Sox Save Stuff for Cubs; Lose to Indians, 6-2, 5-2

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 7.—The Chicago White Sox this afternoon continued to conserve their strength and baseball resources for Wednesday's big charity game with the Cubs. They took two fine beatings from the Indians, the first by a score of 6 to 2 and the second by a 5 to 2 count.

In each game the Sox scored two runs in the first inning and then curled up for the remainder of the contest. In the first game Tommy Thomas was nicked for 14 hits for 20 bases while the Sox were making four singles, but was ahead until the sixth inning and in a tie until he exploded in the eighth.

Grant Bowler pitched the second game, his first major league start, and held the enemy to seven hits, but was ruined by some sour support in each scoring inning. Of the seven runs made by both teams in the second game, only one, by Morgan in the sixth was earned.

Connally Stops Old Mates.

In the first game, old Sarge Connally, for many years a Comiskey employé, held the Sox to those four rousing singles, which was just one more than the total propelled personally by Willie Kamm, another Sox graduate. Also Willie scored as many runs as the total acquired by the whole Chicago outfit. And, incidentally, when Kamm hit his third single he wound up a two day batting orgy which gave him a total of 10 hits in 12 times at bat.

The collapse of the Sox was viewed by 17,000 persons who seemed very happy about everything and some of them said they would be out tomorrow to see the double header which was made necessary by darkness which halted a game in Chicago last week. Lyons and Weiland will perform for the Sox.

Of course the Sox wanted to win today, but the crack we made a while ago about conserving for the Cub game shouldn't be placed in the bologna file. Manager Bush left both Frazier and Faber in Chicago so he would not be tempted to use either one in the series here. He has not decided whether Victor or Urban will start Wednesday.

FIRST GAME

As per their custom, the Sox stepped right out and got a lead for Thomas, but the trouble was they completed their offensive chores with the two runs they made in the first inning.

Blue started the game with a walk and Sullivan followed with one of the Sox' four hits, a single off the right field wall, which put Blue on third. The bases were full with none out after Connally fumbled Watwood's [illegible] ball, forcing Blue, and Sullivan scored while Fonseca was tapping into a double play. Hodapp threw out Appling.

The score became 2 to 1 in the fourth. With one down Kamm knocked the second of his three hits and Connally walked. Burnett furnished the second out with a fly to Fonseca, but Porter singled to right, scoring Kamm.

The Indians tied the score after two were out in the sixth. Myatt opened with a single, paused while Kamm

World Series to Start Oct. 1 in St. Louis or N. Y.

Baseball Commissioner Landis announced yesterday following a meeting of American and National league executives that the world series will begin Oct. 1 either in St. Louis or New York.

In the event the Cardinals win the National league pennant, the first two games with the Athletics will be played in St. Louis Thursday and Friday, Oct. 1 and 2. Saturday and Sunday will be open dates, the teams traveling to Philadelphia. The series will be resumed at the home grounds of the Athletics Monday, Oct. 5, and continued Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 6 and 7.

If more than five games are necessary, the players will return to St. Louis for the sixth game Oct. 9, and the seventh, Oct. 10.

Should the Giants gain the pennant, the first two games will be played in New York on the same opening dates, and the third game staged in Philadelphia Saturday, Oct. 3, with an off day Sunday and resumption of play in the Quaker City Monday.

Present at the meeting were William Harridge, president of the American league; John Heydler, president of the National league; Robert Schroeder, secretary of the Philadelphia Americans; Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Nationals; and W. O. De Witt, treasurer of the Cardinals. No other American league club was represented.

All of the games will be called at 1:30 p. m. in the city in which they are played.

If any game is called off on account of rain or for other reasons the rest of the schedule will be postponed one day and the called game played on the grounds originally scheduled.

The admission prices will be $6.50, including tax, for box seats; $5.50 for reserved seats; $3 for general admission, and $1 for bleacher seats.

MORNING GAME

The run that ruined Smith's excellent performance against Derringer in the morning battle began with one out in the seventh. Adams poked a grounder between third and short. Adair picked it up, but not soon enough to get it to first ahead of the Spark Plug. Adams stole second. If he had waited a moment he could have reached the post with less expenditure of energy because of a pass to Watkins. Adair then made his costly blunder. Frisch grounded directly to second and the double play was made to order, but after stepping on the bag to force Watkins, Adair pegged low and the ball rolled to the St. Louis dugout. Adams meanwhile had scored from second.

Kreevich Stops Too Soon.

Among the chances overlooked by the Cubs in their efforts to explode some trouble under Derringer was Kreevich's error of omission in the first inning. The newcomer opened the pre-luncheon attack with his first big league hit—a single to right. After watching both Herman and Cuyler strike out, Kreevich decided to get bold. He stole second. English bounced a slow one to Adams and beat the throw to first by a whisker. Kreevich tore around third and when half way home decided English was going to be out. When Kreevich discovered that it would be a good idea to keep on running, Mancuso had the ball and tossed it to Adams, who tagged the bewildered youngster.

The other costly mistake on the part of the Chicagoans happened in the fifth when Dan Taylor led off with the second of his two singles off Derringer. He went to second on Grimm's sacrifice. Adair looped a low drive into short left and Taylor should have observed without loss of time that Hafey wasn't going to catch the ball. Because of his hesitancy Taylor, instead of scoring easily, was forced to halt at third. He stood there while Hartnett fanned and Smith popped to Gelbert.

AFTERNOON GAME

The Cardinals began to cook up three runs for themselves in the second inning of the afternoon game, when Bottomley singled to right and went to third on Hafey's double off the left field bricks. A pass to Martin filled the bases with none out. Despite this situation Bush might have emerged with little trouble if his support hadn't failed. Wilson bounced to Adair, whose toss to Herman forced Martin. In trying for a double play Herman threw past Grimm and the error permitted Hafey to follow Bottomley over the plate. Wilson went to second on the wild throw and

NINE BEATINGS IN ROW ERASE LAST FLAG HOPE

Rookies' Slips Doom Smith, Bush.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

One thing the Cubs don't have to worry about any longer is their pennant chances. They went out of the race to mathematical certainty yesterday and also slipped to fourth place by toiling without profit in the morning and afternoon Labor day exercises with the St. Louis champions. Before luncheon the Cubs lost, 1 to 0, for their eighth straight defeat before 17,000, and in the afternoon stumbled into No. 9 by an 8 to 3 margin while 26,000 were watching.

In each instance, the testing out of youngsters, which just now is the main Cub purpose, proved an extravagant process. Strange tricks to which rookies usually are addicted permitted Paul Derringer to win his sixteenth of the year over Bob Smith in the morning. The argument also stretched Derringer's string of scoreless innings to 29. In the afternoon various slips by younger members of the Hornsby troupe prevented Guy Bush from giving slippery Burleigh Grimes at least the semblance of a stubborn battle.

If the Cubs are that charitable against the White Sox tomorrow it will be just too bad.

Kreevich Introduced to Fans.

Mike Kreevich, fresh in from Des Moines, was introduced as the Bruins right fielder both in the morning and afternoon and the sudden ascension to big time employment probably embarrassed him temporarily. He produced two hits off Derringer, but also fanned twice. He also whiffed twice and made no hits while Grimes was operating. His largest mistake, however, was in taking it for granted that the side had been retired. It cost the Cubs a run off Derringer. In the same battle Dan Taylor overlooked a chance to score. And the run that beat Smith was the climax of a morning of bad throwing by Jimm Adair.

Just so that everything would be even among the members of the north side freshman class Billy Herman and Rollie Hemsley innocently conspired to make things easy for Grimes in the matinée. Herman cut loose with a peg that started Bush on the slide and Hemsley was guilty of two passed balls, both leading to runs. And Dan Taylor, after getting a hand for a home run slap, added to his morning misfortunes by not hanging on to a fly ball.

CANTLON SPEEDS 109 M. P. H.; WINS ALTOONA RACE

Blowout Forces Cummings Into Second Place.

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Shorty Cantlon, Detroit, drove to victory in the last ten minutes of the 100 mile Labor day race today, winning the $500 first prize and 120 American Automobile association championship points. He covered the course in 54 minutes 43 seconds, an average of 109 miles an hour.

A break of racing luck in the form of a blown tire on the car of Bill Cummings, Indianapolis, enabled Cantlon to gain the decision. Cantlon, after setting the pace for the first 25 miles, was passed by Cummings, who held nearly a half mile lead for the next 65 miles.

With only ten miles to go, Cummings' tire blew out on the back stretch and he limped into the pit where a quick change enabled him to hold second place against Chet Miller, Philadelphia.

Bost Suffers Broken Ankle.

Paul Bost, Charlotte, N. C., held steadily onto third place until he suffered a broken ankle on his 60th mile when a large splinter crashed through his car from the track and struck his foot. He brought the machine safely into the pit and was carried to the hospital while Jimmy Gleason, Philadelphia, relieved him and finished fifth. Milton Jones, Cleveland, ran fourth.

Lou Schneider, Los Angeles, winner of the Memorial day race at Indianapolis, was sixth in his season debut on a board track. The place netted him 50 points, which combined with 22.5 points gathered in the 25 mile sprints, increasing his season rating to 712.5 points. Fred Frame, second in the national standing with 540 points, was left beyond reach of the 1931 title when his car burned out a bearing in the first sprint. There are only 126 points yet at stake. They will be decided next Saturday at Syracuse.

Shaw, Moore Forced Out.

In addition to Frame and Gleason, Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, and Lou Moore, Chicago, were eliminated from the feature event by mechanical trouble in the sprints.

Deacon Litz, Dubois, Pa., finished in seventh position; Sam Ross, Ann Arbor, Mich., eighth; Al Aspen, Philadelphia, ninth, and Bill Denver, Audubon, Pa., tenth.

Levinsky and O'Kelly Spend Holiday in Ring

Yesterday was no holiday for King Levinsky, the ex-Maxwell street fish peddler, and Con O'Kelly, Irish heavyweight champion. They were in gymnasiums, adding the final touches to their training for tomorrow night's ten round battle at White City.

Levinsky devoted most of his time to perfecting a right uppercut. O'Kelly, who put up a good fight against Tuffy Griffith on the last White City card, boxed several rounds with Edward Wills.

Supporting the card will be Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., welterweight, who has scored several victories in Chicago during the last few months. Stuhley will meet Al Wolgast of Cadillac, Mich., in a six round bout.

Other six round matches will bring together Baxter Calmes, Oklahoma heavyweight, and Nick Taft; Dick Sisk and Jackie Davis; and George Neron and Pete Wistort.

WILSON WATCHES CUBS PLAY; SAYS HE'S ON VACATION

Hack Wilson, principal in the act entitled, "From Home Run King to Exile in One Season," has no plans for the immediate future.

"I'm just taking a vacation and enjoying it," was his reply yesterday when asked if he had any opinions about his suspension by the Cubs for the balance of the season. He was a spectator at both Cub-Cardinal games.

"Maybe I popped off a bit too much Saturday night," he added. But he claimed he was innocent of the charge that at the same time he had violated training regulations. The club has record of a half dozen such charges against him, some dating back to the spring training trip.

It also was learned from a Cub official yesterday that the club is definitely through with the home run hero of 1930. He has been told to remove his belongings from the clubhouse.

Says He Might Start Comeback.

Hack, dolled out in new light gray suit with a hat in harmony, was in jovial mood and when mention was made of the future remarked that he "might be able to return to the minors and start a comeback."

Wilson's popping off [as he termed it] occurred as the team was leaving Cincinnati Saturday night. He remarked within hearing of several mates that all the officials of the Cubs could go where there are no snowballs. This speech, as much as the fact that he was suspected of having played a bit before reaching the train, brought on his dismissal.

Pat Malone, companion of Hack on the above mentioned evening, was fined $500. He is on the bench and may not appear again until an additional matter is settled. The giant right hander, without warning or provocation, slugged two Chicago newspaper men. This happened when Hack was getting ready to deliver the oration that cost him suspension from the club.

Malone Launches Sudden Assault.

Malone, in passing from one of the Cub Pullmans to another, encountered Wilson and three newspaper men in the car vestibule. Wilson, who once was able to laugh off anything written about him, was complaining that the newspapers were making it tough for him. As soon as Malone reached the group he let lose a series of rights to the chins of two of the writers, who had no chance to defend themselves. Wilson made no attempt, either by word or act, to halt the assault.

Malone, a few minutes later, tried to excuse his act by declaring that he had singled out the two men because they had been "on him." The contention of the club officials is that Wilson had goaded Malone into displaying his punching ability. For this reason the club thus far has let the big pitcher off with only the $500 fine, which is one-thirtieth of his season's salary.

DECIDE PLAYOFF TODAY.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Dale Gear, president of the Western league and club owners will meet here tomorrow to make plans for the playoff between Wichita, which won the first half of the schedule, and Des Moines, which holds a five and one-half game lead over St. Joseph for the second half.

Cubs Lose to Cards, 1-0, 8-3; Skid to Fourth in Flag Race scored on Gelbert's single to center.

The Cubs also produced three hits in their half of the inning, but no errors or passes were involved, so only two scored. Dan Taylor contributed half the total when with one out he blasted his homer into the open space behind the right field flag pole. After Grimm tapped to Gelbert Adair doubled down the right field line and scored on a single to center by Hemsley.

Muff, Passed Ball Aid Cards.

Bush gave Watkins a pass in the fifth and the Cards used it to promote a run. The runner went to second on an infield out and home on Bottomley's single past Herman. Two Cards slipped over the plate in the sixth, but happenings over which Bush had no control were mainly responsible. Martin walked, went to second on a passed ball, and home on a single by Gelbert. The latter scored on D. Taylor's muff of an ordinary fly off Adams' bat. The damage against Bush was completed in the seventh when Watkins doubled and worked around to the plate on a sacrifice and a fly ball.

A run picked up by the Cubs in the eighth didn't mean anything except a thrill for the crowd. After Herman had blinked at a third strike Cuyler slipped a drive down the left field line and sprinted as far as third. He scored on English's single to Bottomley. Then D. Taylor bounced a single past Frisch to put English on third, but a possible uprising of consequence was stopped when Grimm tapped to Grimes for a double play.

The Cardinals didn't cause any trouble for Welch in the eighth, but in the ninth scored once after being tempted by a Cub mistake. Grimes led off with a single through short and was forced by Adams. Sparky moved along to second on a passed ball and scored on Frisch's hit to left.

SOX SAVE POWER FOR CUBS; LOSE PAIR TO INDIANS

fanned, went to second on Connally's sacrifice and scored on Burnett's double.

The Sox got the bases full in the seventh to no avail. Grube singled with one down and was forced by Thomas. Blue knocked the fourth and last single off Connally, and Thomas stopped at second. Then Sullivan walked, filling the bases, but Watwood tapped to Connally.

In the eighth the Indians pounded Tommy in a great, big way. The inning, which netted four runs, included Kamm's third single, Connally's second sacrifice, Burnett's second double, Averill's second double, which missed being a home run by a construction freak atop the right field screen, a walk to Morgan and a triple by Vosmik.

SECOND GAME

The Sox duplicated the first inning of the first by making two runs in the opening session of the sundown number. Sullivan singled with one down, but Jolley filed to Vosmik. Sullivan reached second and Fothergill first on Kam's low throw. Norman then doubled to right center, scoring Sullivan and Fothergill.

In the Indians' half of the first Burnett singled to center and ran on to third when the ball got away from Norman. Porter fanned, and then Burnett was waved home on a balk. Averill singled and Morgan walked, but Vosmik filed to Jolley and Hodapp filed to Fothergill.

Sullivan's second amazing demonstration of fielding inefficiency of the afternoon led to the tying of the score in the fourth. Vosmik opened with a single. Then Hodapp sent a nice easy bouncer toward Sullivan, and Billy, with a wide open double play staring him in the face, simply slapped at the ball. He pursued it to its resting place in short left field and while he was trying to pick it up off the grass, Vosmik ran on to third, whence he scored on Sewell's long fly to Fothergill.

Double Play That's Different.

The Sox seemed in a fair way to do something in the sixth until Umpire Geisel awarded the Indians a double play which they apparently didn't make. Fothergill started off with a single to center and stopped at second on Norman's third successive hit. Appling then grounded to Kamm, who was playing in close. Kamm threw to Hodapp to force Norman at second and the umpire announced Fothergill had been doubled because he hadn't stayed on the base line in running to third. Kerr filed to Porter.

The Chicago defense blew up in the Indian sixth. Morgan opened with a single and took second on Vosmik's sacrifice. Hodapp singled to score Morgan with the first earned run of the game. Two more unearned runs followed as a result of errors by Grube and Kerr.

FRISCH PLAYS 2 GAMES WITH BROKEN THUMB

Frankie Frisch, veteran second baseman of the Cardinals, played through both Labor day games against the Cubs despite a broken thumb on his left hand. The bone was fractured in Boston about two weeks ago. It returned after the injury had healed but in the Sunday game at Cincinnati there was a reoccurrence of the break when he stabbed a line drive. He played at his own request yesterday but would have withdrawn from either game if the Cards had felt their lead was secure.

MUNCIE BOWLER DIES.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Eugene Sea, 37 years old, widely known in bowling circles, died of quinsy here yesterday. He came from Pittsburgh several years ago.

YOU'LL DRIVE FARTHER IN A DE SOTO SIX

Whether it's a vacation tour or just a one-day outing, you will drive a De Soto Six farther—and at a faster pace—than any other car you ever owned.

There is a quality in De Soto performance that makes you want to go on, and on, and on. There is a comfort and restfulness that enables you to do 300, 350, even 400 miles a day without fatigue.

You can maintain high speeds without effort hour after hour. You can climb steep hills without feeling that you are overtaxing your car. The big, smooth 72-horsepower engine, De Soto's perfected Free Wheeling optional at only $20 extra, the Easy-Shift Transmission with Silent Second, the self-equalizing internal hydraulic brakes, the steering ease, the low center of gravity made possible by a new double-drop frame—all these are factors in sustaining with ease whatever pace you prefer to travel.

The De Soto Six is as comfortable to ride in as it is easy and fascinating to drive. Long, flexible springs controlled by four hydraulic shock absorbers and deep upholstery with luxury-type spring cushions insure a restful journey whether in the driver's seat or the tonneau.

The total absence of sideway and the manner in which the car clings to the road also contribute to bodily comfort and a carefree mind.

The all-steel body, fused and flash-welded into one solid piece is another great asset, for it insures the utmost safety in the event of an emergency. And it is permanently silent.

Naturally, a car that has so much in its favor on the open road is equally fine for city traffic, where quick acceleration, steering ease and good brakes are requisites of satisfactory performance.

The finest motoring weather of the year is just ahead. Let us demonstrate a De Soto to you.

GIANTS CONQUER PHILS TWICE ON GREAT PITCHING

Hubbell Wins 1st, 6 to 0; Parmelee 2d, 2 to 1.

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Fine pitching performances by Carl Hubbell and Roy Parmelee gave the New York Giants both games of today's double header with the Phillies, 6 to 0 and 2 to 1.

Hubbell blanked the Phils with three hits and struck out nine in the opener while Parmelee let them down with four hits in the second game. Allen's single with the bases full in the sixth inning sent both of the Giants' runs across the plate.

In the first game the Giants concentrated their attack in the fifth inning, scoring five runs with the help of Mel Ott's 29th home run of the season, and Young's triple with two on. Scores:

PIRATES WIN TWO.

In the morning game French was touched for ten hits, but only one unearned run. Thevenow, Pittsburgh shortstop, fractured his left ankle in the first inning and will be out of the game for the rest of the season.

Rixey weakened in the eighth inning of the afternoon contest after a wild throw by Sukeforth and three runs followed, which gave Pittsburgh the game. Scores:

Bill Tilden Wins Match with Emmett Pare, 6-2, 8-6

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Big Bill Tilden treated a small crowd of amateurs to some excellent tennis at the Germantown Cricket club today in the first half of a holiday program by defeating Emmett Pare, of Chicago, 6-2, 8-6.

MOON MULLINS—A WARM WELCOME

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Hack Wilson, the most valuable player in the National league last season, has been suspended for the balance of the year. That is equivalent to good-by, for William Wrigley, who has a thing or two to say about the Cubs, has made known that he doesn't want Hack in the ranks when the club starts for Catalina next spring.

WILLIAM WRIGLEY

Wilson probably has done more to lend color and atmosphere to baseball in Chicago than any player of the last decade. Thousands have been thrilled by his long drives, his timely wallops, his fight, and his leadership. His employers appreciated his efforts. He was rewarded with one of the highest salaries in baseball.

There is nothing ordinary about Wilson. He's one of those home run or nothing fellows. So it is not altogether surprising that he is passing out only a few moments after reaching the peak of his fame. He always is doing the unusual.

Persons on the inside are not surprised that Hack has been set down for the season and his earnings stopped. They are convinced he had it coming. He was drawing a big salary to knock home runs and drive in runs. He has been doing neither this season. Despite this, he probably would still be getting a full pay envelope if Wrigley, Hornsby and Veeck were not agreed that he has contributed to his predicament by violating training rules.

Wilson is not the first Cub player to be sent away for failure to observe club discipline. Remember Grover Alexander?

Only one day remains before the Cubs and Sox settle arguments about their comparative strength. The winner will be accepted as Chicago's champion until the city series rolls around to make it official. Meanwhile the fans are bombarding this department with their opinions. Here's a letter from Dan Jannella, 524 North Cicero avenue:

"Those contributors who pan the Cubs for their deals with Boston certainly show their ignorance. The Cubs bought Hornsby for one reason—to win a pennant—and you know what happened after he joined them in 1929. If the Cubs management made a mistake what do you call the Cissell deal? And one thing more—if Hornsby was through two years ago, as one of your contributors said, no Sox player should have been on the field for the last five years. I can't wait until Wednesday to have the Cubs show up those south siders."

R. I. H. pinch hits for Hornsby with the following:

"When John Rogers talks about the Braves going places with half a team of ball players traded to them by Wrigley for Rogers Hornsby it seems that the discussion about which club, the Cubs or Sox, spends the most for players is settled.

"Mr. Rogers, however, fails to state just where the Braves have gone as compared to the Cubs since they acquired Hornsby. A pennant in 1929 with Hornsby. A second place club in 1928 and 1930 without him but as strong in every other position.

"Look up the playing record of Hornsby in 1929 and reflect upon the statements of Joe McCarthy, Charlie Grimm, and Hack Wilson as to why they won the pennant in 1929 and did not win in 1928 and 1930.

"The Cubs management won a pennant by this exchange of players and is satisfied. If in addition it strengthened another ball club, so much the better for baseball."

Roy C. Dixon of Harrisburg, Ill., makes a plea for tolerance in the Chicago baseball warfare with this communication:

"Why all this quarreling among Cubs and Sox fans? Isn't Chicago big enough for two teams?

"I have been for the Cubs for 22 years, win, lose or draw and I am still for them. I am sure Hornsby will give them a real club as soon as he can get the man he wants to replace the worn out ones he inherited from McCarthy.

"Hornsby has had to go through most of the season with two ordinary pitchers, two infielders, one outfielder and two fair catchers. As for the Sox, they have had more than their share of tough luck. It isn't any wonder they are in the second division.

"Why not be reasonable and give both managers a chance. I am sure they will deliver."

NOTED YACHTSMAN DIES.

Oxford, Md., Sept. 7.—(AP)—J. Graham Johnson, internationally known yachtsman, died today of a heart attack a few minutes after finishing a star class yacht race in the harbor here. He died in the arms of his brother, C. Lowndes Johnson, as a speedboat rushed them to the wharf.

KARN WINS TITLE AT BRIDGE; GETS CUP HE DONATED

Deal, N. J., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Willard S. Karn of New York tonight won by the narrow margin of half a match point the first annual individual masters' contract bridge championship held over the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Hal Sims here. The victory gave Karn custody for a year of the gold cup which he himself had donated for the event.

Playing with each of the 24 other entrants in turn, Karn amassed 278½ match points on the 100 boards played during the three day tournament. He barely nosed out Richard L. Frey of New York, who accumulated 278 match points. Oswald Jacoby was third with 267 match points.

Halpin Is Fourth.

Robert W. Halpin of Chicago, who had led through the first two sessions, wound up in fourth place with 262 match points and Baron Waldemar von Zedtwitz was next with 258½. Burton E. Linderman was sixth with 254 match points. Capt. Fred G. French of Philadelphia was seventh with 252½, and Nathan Kelly, president of the Boston Chess club, was eighth with 248.

As it turned out later, Frey lost the championship on the next to the last hand he played on which he had a difficult decision to make. He held the singleton trey of spades, three hearts to the jack, five diamonds to the ace, king, queen, and four clubs to the king nine.

Lack of Confidence Costly.

After his partner had passed he opened the bidding third hand with one diamond. His partner thereupon bid two no trump and Frey, after long hesitation, passed. Three no trump was made and had Frey dared to bid it he would have won the championship.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

CHARITY BASEBALL.

FRIEND ARCH: Well, Arch, I suppose you'll want me to go out to the charity baseball game tomorrow at Comiskey park between the Cubs and White Sox. Now, what I want to know is whether or not you want me to put the buck and a half for a ticket on my expense account, because every one pays to get in, even the owners and players and umpires. Of course, I could have bought a ticket for a dollar for I don't need a box seat in the press stand, but that would be kind of cheap, considering the charity, so I paid $1.50.

CHAS. COMISKEY.

Now, so far as I'm concerned, I'd rather not put this buck and a half on my expense account, but I don't want to establish a precedent. You might think I ought to pay my expenses to Louisville for the Derby, but I tell you, Arch, any time you go to the horse races it ain't charity. And then you might think I'd want to pay my expenses to Florida this winter to work so hard for you, but that ain't charity either, what with the prices they charge there for everything. So I'd like to get this thing straightened out.

You know it'll be worth more than $1.50 of anybody's money to see Charley Comiskey, Bill Wrigley, Harry Grabiner, Bill Veeck and Johnny Seys pay to see their own teams play. And in addition, just think of the players and even the umpires paying to see themselves work. It'd be just like me paying you to let me do all the hard work I do, but I didn't mean to bring that up either.

Anyway, it's going to be a great game and it looks like a great crowd and a substantial sum for the unemployment fund so I think you fellows of THE TRIBUNE sports department who suggested this game would feel mighty pleased. So, if you won't regard it as a present, I'd rather pay for my own ticket instead of putting it on the expense account, and I don't remember ever paying before to see a baseball game except a couple of benefit games for sports characters who spent all they had while they had it and then needed something in the gray of their lives or whatever color it is when people get old and broke. See you at the game, Arch.

Regards, HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

Dear Wake: I understand the American league ball is to be used during the first 4½ innings of the Cubs-Sox charity game Wednesday and the National league ball during the last 4½ innings. Which ball will be used if the game goes extra innings or hasn't any provision been made for such contingency?

HTW: Watching a practice match preliminary to the national amateur tourney at Beverly, overheard a conversation in the large gallery following Jimmy Johnston, Max Marston, Francis Brown of Hawaii and Harry Hampton, Beverly pro. Queried a lady enthusiast of her friend, "Who is the little chap so beautifully tanned?" "That's Francis Brown, a multi-millionaire, so they say." "Is he still a millionaire?" "O, yes," was the reply, "he comes from a wealthy family," to which the friend countered, "Well, no wonder he has a gallery following him." YANKS WIN PAIR FROM ATHLETICS; BABE HITS TWO Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A bombardment of five home runs gave the New York Yankees a 9 to 4 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics in the afternoon game and a sweep of the double header with the champions today. New York won the morning game, 15 to 2.

Babe Ruth drove out two of the circuit drives, Nos. 29 and 46, while Lou Gehrig sent his 42d of the year over the right field fence. The other two were made by Bill Dickey and Lyn Lary.

MR. SPONGE WINS OPENING STAKE AT BELMONT PARK

Takes Highweight Race by 4 Lengths.

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A bargain bill of seven races and ideal weather served to attract 20,000 persons to the opening of the 12-day Belmont Park fall meeting this afternoon. The colors of J. E. Widener were carried to an easy victory in the fall highweight handicap, six furlong feature, by the four-year old Mr. Sponge, which was an 8 to 5 favorite.

Mr. Sponge, perfectly ridden by Mack Garner, carried 126 pounds and crossed the finish line with four lengths to spare over the Brookmeade stable's lightly weighted Helianthus. The Sagamore stable's Balko, carrying top weight of the small field, was third, another length away.

Six of the best sprinters in training competed over the Widener straightaway, and Mr. Sponge covered the distance in 1:11 3-5 to earn $3,025.

Balko and Mr. Sponge both broke slowly but the latter had enough speed to spurt into contention and assume command a quarter of a mile from home. Hi Jack, after leading for brief period, dropped out gradually. Helianthus, showing fine speed, maintained second position almost throughout and showed a good, even race. Balko, lacking his former speed, was steered all over the track under his 126 pounds and never was a serious threat.

NATIONAL FOREST IN WISCONSIN IS BIG PLAYGROUND

Wild Game, Camp Sites Are Plentiful.

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Argonne National Forest, Wis., Sept. 7.—The sight of 30 deer assembled in a grassy open "park" where once stood a lumber camp; two pet skunks that visit a cook tent, chew bacon rind and then move on when the cook begins to stir; a 100 foot fire tower from which you can get a magnificent view of the north country and watch black bears browsing through the brush; a bright red fire wagon that hurries through the forest on "still alarms" in to "jump on" brush fires; and a number of lovely camp sites which have been selected and soon will be improved for you and me.

These are just a few of the many interesting things we saw on our trip into the heart of this new national forest east of the town of Three Lakes, where the government eventually will have approximately 150,000 acres for reforestation and a public outdoor playground. In general, it's a hint of what Illinois can have in the southern part of the state when the government gets going on national forests down there.

On this trip we looked at several camp sites which will be improved for fishermen and other outdoor fans who want to camp in a forest which retains a wilderness flavor, yet is accessible, on which Ray Iverson, the forester, pointed out is going to make a big hit with the trout fishermen because it's right on Pine river, from which the trout anglers can fish the Pine, McDonald's creek and Jones' creek.

In keeping with the policy of the U. S. forestry service the site will be equ

Science Fights with Religion in Garden Spot

Susan Ertz Tells of British Countryside.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Story of Julian," by Susan Ertz. [Appleton.]

SUSAN ERTZ is known affectionately to an increasingly large American reading public who met her and took her to its heart with her first novel, "Madame Claire," in 1922.

SUSAN ERTZ.

How popular her work is in England I never have been able to gather, because I never have met any one in England who knew either her or her work well. But that is the case with many popular English authors. Miss Ertz is not, strictly speaking, an English author, although she was born there and now lives there. For her parents were both New Yorkers and she was brought at a very early age to America. She has had a sort of shuttlelike life between the two countries.

At the age of 7 she was taken back to England and remained there for five years. When she was 12 years old she crossed the Atlantic again and spent the six following years in California. When she was 18 she had a taste of New York life and then went back to England in May, 1914, "to the enjoyment of a near perfect months before the world war," she once said.

She did war work in London, came to New York for six months, and went back to England to do canteen work for American soldiers from late in 1917 until after the armistice. And since then she has not, so far as I know, been back to the land of her parents' birth. Her writing life has been spent in England, and Americans always think of her as an English author.

It is almost always about England that she writes, although "Now East, Now West" was about both of her native lands, so to speak. "The Story of Julian" is wholly English. There isn't even one American in it to give the usual comic relief that seems about English villages often need. It is the story of two generations, Julian's and Hildegarde's, 18 or nineteen, and their parents.

The titular hero is a sensitive lad who is constantly torn between his love for his mother and his love for his father and their unhappiness. His father is vastly religious. His father is a minister. The battle between religion and science is waged constantly and devastatingly between them, although the mother "suffers in silence" and the father has long learned that argument is of no avail against her convictions.

They are desperately unhappy, but cannot separate because the mother will not. Her spiritual adviser is a rabid believer in the hell fires which are waiting for the divorced. Although the father pleads for his release, she refuses. The refusal has the attendant miseries of other people to make it more complicated.

Contrasted with his own mother's and father's unhappiness is the pagan complete happiness of the parents of Hildegarde and his own and Hildegarde's complete, unreserved understanding and oneness of spirit and design. They are two young things who are meant by destiny for each other, who know it, and who glory in their knowledge and mutual love. They are healthy, normal, intelligent young things, "rare birds" in the menagerie of modern youth as exemplified in modern literature.

"The Story of Julian" is also, in a sense, the story of the English countryside, for the rich green of the trees and the lush grass, the misty days and the violent downpours, the quiet, the physical calmness of the English countryside all combine to form an unnamed character in the book; perhaps not a major one, but certainly one of the important minor ones.

To me "The Story of Julian" is not Miss Ertz's magnum opus. It hasn't the vitality of "Madame Claire," for instance, nor the insight into character. It is an interesting study of types, a study, however, that does not ever cease being a study. You feel its adequacy and its skill, but you do not feel that special throb of reality that really great novels always have at their heart.

The selfishness of Julian's mother, his alarm and the frustrated eagerness of Julian's father, the unselfish devotion of Pauline Trellet and her pitiful attempts at selfishness, the second blooming of acstatic love in Mr. Trellet in his middle age, Hildegarde's honest, straightforward love, Julian's tortures of loyalty over his parents and his joyous understanding love for Hildegarde, the nasty cruelty of the local Cæsar—everything is chronicled skillfully and sympathetically and impressingly for the reader. But that tense sense of reality is lacking. It is a "study" rather than a living life.

Good Morning!

This penny dreadful is one—and I hope the last one—of the Fu Manchu series. I don't see how it can help being the last because this time, without a doubt Fu's life is snuffed out, and, in the final reel, his daughter, whom we are led to believe is his only living relative, joins him in what is Chinese for the Happy Hunting Grounds.

You are familiar with the history of Fu Manchu, the noted Chinese doctor whose wife and son are accidentally killed in a revolution by a bomb thrown by the English. Fu, crazed by the tragedy, sets out on a career of revenge which, he determines, shall never cease till he deems retaliation complete.

In this number his loyal daughter carries on where he is compelled to leave off.

Acting honors go to lovely Anna May Wong. She's a darling! Sessue Hayakawa, though he gets by, is not the wonder in sound films that he was in the silent drama. Of the other players, Harold Minjir, as a fussy, old maidish male secretary does the best work.

"Daughter of The Dragon" will prove exciting fare for children, that I know. The little girl in front of me jiggled and squeaked and bit her fingernails from start to finish. But adults, I fear, will stifle a yawn and let their minds turn to ball games and Empress Eugenie hats.

See you tomorrow.

HOOVER FELICITATES JEWS, WHO SOON START NEW YEAR

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—President Hoover praises the idealism of the Jews and their contributions to the contempary world, in a message to Jews of America, sent to the Jewish telegraphic agency and made public today.

This message as well as one from Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt were sent as greetings to the Jews in this country on the occasion of the Jewish New Year which will be celebated next Sunday. Jews throughout the world join in services in ushering the year, 5,692 of the Jewish calendar.

"The Jewish New Year affords an appropriate occasion to recall the contributions of an ancient people to the contemporary world," President Hoover wrote.

"Jewish deeds and idealism are written indelibly on the scroll of time," the message continued. "Down through the centuries to our own time has flowed a continuing stream of enrichment of the spiritual and cultural life of the world.

"In business, the arts, the professions, philanthropy and above all in the evolution of the spiritual life of mankind, the race has contributed elements of strength, beauty and tolerance which are the common heritage of all men.

"On the occasion of the happy festival now being celebrated, I wish to extend my heartiest congratulations and most cordial good wishes."

Hutchins Is Expecting Largest Freshman Class Ever at U. of C.

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago returned to the campus yesterday after a two months' vacation in Europe. He went there for a complete rest, he said, and spent much of his time swimming off the island of Brioni, forty miles from Trieste, near the head of the Adriatic sea.

Two principal problems confront him on his return, President Hutchins said. One is the initiation of the university's educational reorganization. That plan will go into effect for the freshman class which enrolls on Sept. 21. Because, under the new plan, the old limit of 750 freshmen has been removed, the class is expected to be the largest in the university's history.

The second problem is financial. Universities have felt the depression as much as business, and must observe a prudent financial policy to operate without a deficit at present, he said.

"Fortunately," he pointed out, "the fiscal policy of the University of Chicago has been sound in the past, enabling it to operate for twenty-two years without a deficit."

Group Health Insurance Plan Is Urged

Rosenwald Aid Gives More Details.

Michael M. Davis, director of medical service of the Julius Rosenwald fund, in an article prepared for publication by the University of Chicago Press, urges an improved form of group insurance whereby the average wage earner may be protected in event of serious illness. In his article called, "Paying Your Sickness Bills," Mr. Davis points out that although many people budget their funds to pay for life insurance, or save to buy a home or to provide for the education of a child, few save against a future demand which may never arise, such as sickness.

"While the individual cannot budget for sickness, because it is not predictable, it can be budgeted if distributed over a group," the article states. "If so distributed in an improved form of sickness insurance, $5 to $15 a year per person will pay for all the hospital expenses and professional fees for acute illness." Mr. Davis points out that a typical commercial sickness insurance policy for an individual costs about $60 a year and does not cover any members of the family except the person insured.

In his article Mr. Davis urges the group insurance method as being the most practicable plan to assure competent medical care of the sick, and at the same time eliminate the $365,000,000 a year medical charity now given by doctors, hospitals and clinics. He indicates the burden that this charity lays on the shoulders of the average practitioner by pointing out that "free services for approximately seven to ten per cent of a doctor's clientele, and reduced charges for another twenty per cent, results in 35 cents of every dollar paid by a patient going to the doctor's 'overhead.'"

This is largely due, he states, to the fact that a doctor must earn his living and pay for the expensive equipment of his profession in about one-third of his working time, devoting the balance to charity and to 'professional advancement.'

"The average woman will pay for silk stockings, but go to a free clinic for medical care," Mr. Davis remarks. "A man will pay $1,095 for a new automobile, but will think $1,000 for the skill and weeks of care necessary to save the life of a loved child outrageous.

"The average patient will cheerfully spend $200 on a vacation trip, but will resent a charge of half that much for a trip to the operating table, even though it restores health."

Veterans of 1898 Warned Against Pauper Pension Idea

New Orleans, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Steps to place the United Spanish war veterans on record as unalterably opposed to "pauper" or "needs" classes in federal pension legislation were taken at the annual convention of the organization here today. The convention next year will be in Milwaukee.

Rice W. Means, former Republican senator from Colorado and a past national commander of the veterans, sounded a warning that "there is always a chance of slipping over a piece of legislation which would rob you of the rights you now possess."

After criticizing recent executive vetoes of pension legislation and lauding congress for overriding the vetoes, Means predicted the possibility of the pauper clause being revived as an issue in the next congress. He asserted propaganda to that end was being widely disseminated, and advised the veterans to present a solid front against "putting pensions on a charity basis."

There is a general misunderstanding, he said, that pensions once granted are permanent.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE most famous play of the period, perhaps the "great American drama" of every critic's dreams, came to the Illinois theater last night, to begin the second chapter of its brilliant career. The first chapter, of course, was its eighteen gala months in New York, recently ended; and its title, as everybody knows, is "The Green Pastures."

It was received with enthusiasm and delight by an audience that was well prepared for its novelty, its fascinating blend of humor with religious mood, and its insight into the Negro imagination. In short, the Chicago première of Marc Connelly's dramatization of the Old Testament in the plantation idioms of the deep south was worthy of the play.

Here is the Sunday school and camp meeting mythology of the untutored Negro mind, depicted in all the richness of its reverent naïveté. Here the awe of the story of the Creation and the wonder of the tales of Genesis and Exodus are communicated with charm and laughter.

Here is a winning, touching, happy drama of the Lawd of Afro-American folklore, fretting and laboring over the troublesome little Earth that he has made as a whim. Of the Lawd who plans, in kindliness and in wrath, to rescue his pet miracle, Man, from sinful waywardness; who learns in the end that even a God must be pitiful, and must suffer for and with his children.

This is a remarkable play. It might easily have resulted merely in a clever specimen of impertinent humor—nothing more than a parody of the Bible stories. But as Marc Connelly immersed his mind in them, and as he sought out the religious soul of the Negro in remote southern parishes, inspiration came to him.

He did not lose his gift as a humorist, but purified his wit with a kind of heavenly laughter. His material, one suspects, exalted his purpose; and when he had finished he found himself with a masterpiece on his hands. "The Green Pastures" has the quality that marks every great piece of writing; it is so exactly right in every touch that it impresses its observers as something inevitable — a work of Nature rather than art.

The haste of a first night review does not permit one to deal with the contents of this play in detail. Its episodes range from the Garden of Eden to the siege of Jerusalem, getting the essence out of the massive story of God's experiment with Earth and his Chosen People. Glimpses of heaven, as it might be conceived by a fantastic Negro mind, are added to the chronicle, and they are the choicest portions of the fable.

If you seek for heartache, I recommend the episode in the second half of the program, where Moses, heavy with years, reaches the border of Canaan with his people and is denied admission. If you want humor, listen to the gossip of the winged charwomen as they are cleaning up the Lawd's office.

The performance by the Negro company is rich with vitality, feeling, and character. Richard B. Harrison's representation of the Lawd, in heaven and on earth, is noble acting. The stage designs by Robert Edmond Jones are admirable in their fidelity to the gay, casual character of the Negro imagination.

Yankee Explorers Back from Peru; Flew Above Andes

It had completed nine months of still camera and motion picture exploration in Peru, using airplanes extensively.

Archeologists, historians, and explorers were on hand to greet the group.

In addition to viewing the "Great Wall of Peru" in the Santa valley, the expedition had many novel experiences. These included having their airplanes commandeered by Peruvian revolutionists, a military revolt which cut them off from ten days in the "lost" Colca valley with a damaged airplane high in the Andes, and 454 hours in the air for a total of 45,000 miles, mostly at heights at which oxygen had to be used.

Wheat Surplus Partly Due to Yankee Diets

Fruits, Vegetables Replace Old Grain Products.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—If Americans ate wheat products as they did a half century ago some 6 billion, 300 million pounds more of wheat flour would be consumed yearly, according to Charles Lathrop Pack, war-time president of the national war garden commission.

"During the last fourteen years the food habits of the American people have changed," he said. "This shift is both interesting and of great economic importance. It is due largely to several different campaigns of public education that have militated against wheat products and in favor of other items in the diet. The federal farm board would do well to consider a like program in favor of wheat consumption.

"If the American people consumed products of the wheat field as they did fifty years ago, some 6 billion, 300 million more pounds of wheat flour would be consumed annually than is the case today. This is equivalent to more than eight billion pound loaves of bread. It represents a per capita decrease in wheat flour consumption from 223 pounds to 177 pounds. Every year, on account of this decrease 147,300,000 bushels of wheat must find new markets. And why?

"The citrus fruit industry has combined, into different groups and through them nationally advertised healthful values of fruits, vastly increasing consumption. Growers and canners of vegetables have done the same thing. Vitamins have been 'sold' to the American people in the printed word and over the air. Slenderness is the style and to attain it a more or less wheatless diet is prescribed.

"It is interesting to note what all these and other educational campaigns have done for vegetable products at the expense of wheat. In the last seven years twenty-five leading truck crops have enlarged their acreage by 39.4 per cent. In the ten years since 1920 fifteen important crops have increased car loadings 60.8 per cent.

Lettuce ranks next to potatoes, 55,700 carloads of it moving from the shippers now as compared to 12,143 cars in 1920. Four times as many carrots are being eaten today as ten years ago. Spinach has forged ahead in about the same proportion, jumping from 2,900 cars to 10,000 cars in a decade.

"All this dietary change could not take place without some other item of food feeling the effects. And wheat has suffered. It has bowed to the power of high powered advertising, to the advance of refrigeration in transport, to the perfection of canning. If it is to regain its place it needs some one to plead its cause and to recreate demand for its use. If, on the other hand, the diet of America today is better than that of fifty years ago, if we are better off with salads, fruit, green vegetables and a lesser amount of meat than we were with a diet of bread, potatoes and meat, then some steps need to be taken to bring the production of wheat more closely within the limits of the demand for it."

3,000 Dolls Made by Children of South Parks

Dolls, more than 3,000 of them made by girls in the summer handicraft classes conducted in the south parks, are on exhibit at the annual doll show which opens today in the fieldhouse of the Grand Crossing park at 72d street and Ingleside avenue. The show will continue through Friday. On that day awards will be made.

Prizes will be in the form of points toward the "supremacy flag" for which the eighteen small parks compete annually on a basis of athletic and handicraft activity.

Because the ages of the exhibitors vary from 5 to 15 years the dolls range from the crudest types with milk bottle bodies and yarn heads to elaborate and lifelike creations. The exhibit is open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. B. K. Brown, superintendent of south park playgrounds, is in charge.

Parents of Gifted Children Will Like Studies Listed Here

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

There is, unfortunately, not a great deal. There are studies being constantly made, but their findings are usually in a form that would not be usable by parents nor readable for them. Probably the best one book which has gathered together conclusions that the interested father and mother would understand and enjoy is "Gifted Children" by Leta Hollingworth. This book costs $2 and is published by MacMillan.

A little booklet called the "Gifted Child," which the Child Study association publishes for 10 cents, contains three short articles of interest. They are called, respectively, "Who Are Gifted Children," "Special Abilities," and "The Public School and the Gifted Child."

There are a number of special studies obtainable on gifted children. I have not read all these listed below except the last but I know the sources to be authentic.

"The Psychology of Drawing," by F. Ayer. Published by Warwick, Baltimore, 1916.

"The Attainments of Gifted Children Under Individual Instruction," by C. Washburne. Twenty-third yearbook of the National Society for the Study of Education, Public School Publishing company, Bloomington, Ill., 1924.

Two additional books which have a special bearing on the child gifted in writing are "Creative Power" and "Creative Youth," by Hughes Mearns. These are entertaining besides being most illuminating.

GROWER PATENTS ROSE.

First of what is expected to be a long series in the new field of plant patent protection is the grant made by the United States patent office to Henry F. Bosenberg of New Brunswick, N. J., as recognition that he had developed a new type of ever blooming rose. After more than a year of waiting he obtained patent No. 1.

Measures for similar plant protection for plant breeders are heartily indorsed in European countries, according to Frank C. G. White, member of the Men's Garden club of the Chicago region, who reports that England and France are now trying to put through such laws and that South African and South American countries also are endorsing plant patents.

The New Jersey applicant put in his first claim for a patent Aug. 6, 1930, and claimed that the rose, which resembled the Dr. W. Van Fleet rose, was improved as a "sport" or mutation from the parent plant in that it bloomed from the middle of May to the middle of November or killing frost, instead of the two weeks credited to the Van Fleet rose.

At first the plant patent bureau replied that in its investigations it had no assurance that the rose was of the so-called ever blooming type and as no other claims were stressed could not grant a patent. But Rosenberg sent in affidavits supporting his claim and the patent then was issued.

Correct Application of Lipstick Is No Dash and Run Affair

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I was talking the other day with a makeup expert, a man employed by the movie concerns for expert camera work with creams and rouges and eye shadow stuffs. Naturally, his eye is keyed for street makeup observation, too. And, in his opinion, the great American makeup fault is done with lipstick. This authority believes our women to be pretty clever in their color choices, but in the way they lay on the lip paint many of them are amateurish, if not pretty bad jobbers.

He showed me how both an upper and a lower lip could be shaped to look perfectly natural in line and be greatly improved in shape. Now, I regret that I cannot tell you how you can work the principle out on your particular lips, because those observed were only one pair of one shape, and peculiar only to the one woman owning them.

But I do know why most women's lips show the crude touch complained about. It's just a phase of the great American speed mania that breaks out in us in dozens of different forms.

I'll wager more women stand up to color their lips than sit before a well lighted mirror while they are applying rouge. It's a hurried performance at best.

I don't say the sitting position is necessary for a good lip tinting job—but time is. And for that first street appearance a comfortable working position is recommended. For the later retouchings during a shopping or working day you may have to compromise with circumstances, but one good slow, steady, thoughtful job a day will put you in the way of greater lip tinting experiness on every application.

Hearty, Carefree Laugh Is Good for Proposal Any Day

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Reading over the letters submitted in a "How We Met" contest, one is justified in saying that a laugh is good for a proposal any day. If you can laugh heartily over a situation in which you turn up the embarrassed party, you're good for an early date. As the girl who landed gerplunk in all her Sunday glory in the middle of a muddy pool and roared with the rescuing gentleman at the mud spattered face. As the other girl who grabbed up the package belonging to the male customer at the same counter, mistaking it for her own and clinging tightly to it in spite of his gentlemanly protest. Finally giving it up with a hearty laugh when he disclosed it was a piece of male apparel she couldn't have any use for. Or, like the girl behind the counter whom the bashful boy adored so much that he bought silk stockings for six sisters before her laughter brought the confession that he hadn't a sister at all.

The difference between one who can laugh at herself or himself and one who cannot is that the latter takes his feelings too seriously. For a comfortable living partner, the one who does not take his or her feelings too seriously is much the more agreeable.

Folk given to exhibitions of embarrassment over trifling errors might try to realize that no one takes the mistake so seriously as they. If they could break out in a jolly peal of laughter over the incident the air would be cleared immediately and every one would feel the better for it.

And in marriage there is room for a good deal of it. It's one institution where it would be well to cultivate the art of not taking oneself too seriously.

French Dressmakers Like Large Sleeves

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—An inflation of the sleeves of evening coats seen around Paris is apparent. Whatever interesting and new happens to jackets this fall is above the waistline, and generally, nay almost invariably, this occurs in the sleeves. There are about three places where sleeves can be inflated: the upper sleeve, the elbow region and the lower sleeve. Paris dressmakers are adding bulk to each of these three parts of the sleeve.

The jacket of this ensemble is brown velvet and the dress is white crêpe satin. Together they make one of those outfits so necessary to modern life—something informal and equally formal. The bolero of this Rouff ensemble is just a plain jacket, hitched together at the neckline in front by a braid of velvet looped over two velvet-covered buttons. The sleeves are very wide, like kimona sleeves below the elbow, and shirred up the inside of the arm under braids of brown velvet that extend from wrists to underarmholes.

The dress is cut princess, with a cowl neckline in front, and it is trimmed with white satin braids around the deep back décolleté, which loop and cross to become full circular skirt panels below the hips—a tricky and chic way of making the evening skirt full.

SYNOPSIS.

Lee Reynolds is the owner of a ranch which drought has almost ruined. She leases a Texas ranch and moves her starving herd there. She is barely settled when a range war breaks out. Megares, bogey man of the border, is the leader. Dunc Brennan, a former lieutenant of Lee's, is his right hand man. Brennan was discharged by Lee and vows revenge. Lee hires a new hand, who is recognized by Dunc Daggett, an old ranch rival, as Jack Hadley, a millionaire oil man of California, whose father owned a mine adjoining Lee's ranch and was murdered by outlaws. Hadley is searching for the murderer of his father. Hadley and Lee call on Megares, who is, apparently, friendly to them. Megares is at the ranch for dinner and is infatuated with Lee's guest, Mrs. Doris Silver, whose husband is off driving Lee and her ranchers are attacked by a band of soldiers. Daggett comes to live at the ranch.

INSTALLMENT XX.

OUT OF A CLEAR SKY.

Brennan's eyes jeered at Lee. "Who do you reckon the scalawags were that killed Stumpy?"

"I don't know. Outlaws, I suppose." As she looked at him, the suggestion he had offered grew in her mind. "Do you mean that Megares——?"

"Figure it out for yourself. If he wanted to move in, wouldn't he want to give a good excuse? And what could be a better one than that it wasn't safe for you all to stay here without him to protect you?"

"Is there anything I can do about it? We're helpless here—prisoners. He's out in the patio now forcing his attentions upon Doris," Lee said.

"Does he have to force them on her?" he demanded. "The little fool hasn't got any more sense than to flirt with him. Why, a baby might just as well play with a tiger."

It was true that Doris flirted with Megares. She was afraid of him and yet was fascinated by the very danger of such a relationship. Lee was not sure that she agreed with Brennan as to the folly of her friend's course. For her to turn her back upon the bandit general would be to raise an instant enmity. Was it not better with such a man to play for time, to lead him on with vague hints that quickened hope of a surrender due to his personal desires?

Hadley was at the piano playing soft music.

"Shall we go into the patio?" she asked.

The young man rose. There was a tacit understanding that when possible Megares must not be left alone with Doris too long.

Hadley rattled the handle of the door and opened it. He followed Lee to the porch. Megares confronted them angrily.

"What do you want?" he demanded.

Lee played up to the demands of the situation. "If we only knew, general. We think we want one thing and all the time it is something else. Tonight, in the patio here, with the fountain splashing and such a moon, I'm almost convinced I want romance. But who knows? Probably if I had it I'd be wondering what the quotation is today for beef in Kansas City."

Slowly the Mexican relaxed. He had been prepared to issue an order, but the girl's persiflage took the wind out of his sails. He suspected she had come out to interrupt his lovemaking, but he was not convinced of it.

"You have a saying, you Yankees, that three makes a crowd," he told her. "A moon loses its luster when it looks down on more than two. A star, a maid, and a moon. That is a perfect combination. Try it, my dear señorita. Surely Mr. Hadley could be persuaded to play Romeo to so charming a Juliet."

A warm color beat through the tan of Lee's cheeks. She knew she was blushing and was grateful for the dim light of night.

"Mr. Hadley has not your Latin temperament, general. He probably couldn't be persuaded that the world would be well lost for love."

"Come, Mr. Hadley," the Mexican said, "are you one of those prosaic Yankee business men who find the romance of life in the price of pork?"

"Not quite, general," he said carelessly. "But Romeo is a little out of date. Mercutio always seemed to me a better bet."

Inside the lighted room Doris turned to Lee, all animation. "What do you think, dear? Gen. Megares has brought our mail out from Palo Duro, where it has been lying ever since the war began. Where is it, general?"

Megares turned to Brennan. "Will you get my brief bag, colonel?"

Brennan looked as though he would like to tell him to go to the devil, but he contented himself with the ugly glare of resentment. Reluctantly he walked out of the room.

"Have you a vaquero by that name, Miss Reynolds?" he asked.

He handed her the letter and she flipped it over to Hadley. Jack ripped open the envelope and ran his eye through the contents.

Deep in one of her letters, Doris gave a little cry of surprise. "Harold is coming west. Why, he must be here now—in Arizona, I mean."

Megares brushed his mustache with finger tips. The mocking smile was scarcely concealed. "So near and yet so far," he murmured.

"But I must meet him," Doris said. "Can't you arrange it, general? If we could get a pass to cross the line!"

"Impossible. The troubled state of the country—roving bands of outlaws. I couldn't consider it."

"I want to see my husband," Doris said wistfully.

The eyes of the Mexican, hard as jet beads, did not waver.

"We must try to make up to you, corazon," he said, in the low voice that could be so dulcet. "I, myself, am very much at your service. Husbands, after all, are not indispensable. For myself, I have often found them inconvenient. Let us bear ourselves with resignation in his absence. The moon will still shine—for you and for me."

Disturbed, Doris looked at Jack, urgent appeal in her eyes. All her life she had shuffled and dealt the cards. Now her wishes did not count. The dread of imminent disaster chilled her.

Jack knew better than she did how great was her danger. If the revolution gave promise of success the peril might be delayed, but as soon as Megares knew he was doomed to failure fear of the United States would no longer be a factor in his calculations. He would probably seize Doris and take her into the mountains with him, there to lead a fly-by-night existence, hunted from one fastness to another, as the federal troops pursued the outlaws.

The young man smiled at her. "What must be must, Doris. After all, Gen. Megares has given his word that all will be well. Some day, when he is the great man of this country, we shall all look back on these days and remember how exciting they were."

"Too indeed, dear lady, and you will visit me in Mexico City and we will talk of moons and old memories," Megares purred.

Lee and Jack were alone at the morning meal on the day succeeding the one when their mail had been delivered. Long since Megares had left for Palo Duro.

"Dunc tells me that each of my riders has to report at night," Lee said, pouring coffee for her guest. "They are to take care of the stock during the day, but if they don't show up to report they'll be treated as spies. If one disappears the others will be held responsible, and Dunc is to talk with me only once a day to get orders. Just after breakfast. We're only prisoners."

Her clear eyes looked into his. "What will he do to us when he sees the revolt is failing—if it comes to that?"

"He'll probably let us go."

"And Doris?"

"He won't let her go," he answered slowly.

"We must save her, Jack. We must find a way," she cried.

"I've been wondering if Brennan might not help us. He hates his chief. He's jealous. Of course he hates us, too, but at the moment his feeling is more virulent toward Megares. The Mexican knows how he feels and finds much pleasure in feeding his jealousy. By the way, the letter I got last night was from Sally, the girl I was engaged to before I went to Los Angeles. She writes me that the name her patient gave as one of the murderers of my father was the one I had asked her about in a letter."

"Name?" she asked.

"Yes."

He waited a moment before she put her next question. "What do you mean to do?"

"Nothing at present. The important thing now is to get out of here and see him to help us escape?"

A rap on the door interrupted them. At Lee's invitation Dunc Daggett came into the room.

"Well, I got news for you, Miss Lee. Rusty came in from the big pasture half an hour ago lickity split. Down in the hollow of the hills he had found an airplane. It landed just before daybreak. There's two men in it. One of 'em said he was Mrs. Silver's husband."

Fort Sheridan Horse Show Success Sure

BY THALIA

THE Fort Sheridan Horse Show association had some misgivings because of the show's being so late this year, and thought that maybe people might not show their horses nor attend. Their fears were unfounded. The box list for the show for Friday and Saturday is long, and there are 225 entries posted.

The entrants include Laurance H. Armour, Mrs. C. W. Canfield [Betty Poor], Mrs. Keith Carpenter, Miss Elizabeth Chase, Donald B. Douglas, Mrs. Alma Louise Dickson, Richard Florsheim, Ralph Hines [Gwen Bowen is to ride his horse, Fad], Mrs. John E. Hughes, Eleanor Mayer, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, John T. Pirie, Mrs. David M. Pope, Maj. W. A. Rafferty, Miss Laura Sprague, Mrs. Kenneth Templeton, Stuart Templeton, the Tennant girls, Barbara and Isabelle, and Mrs. Edward K. Welles. Children who have entered and will ride their own steeds include Kay Sawyer Goodman, Annie May Henry, Idamay Minotto, David Wilhelm, and Theo Winters.

The show will begin at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and 1:30 in the afternoon on both days. The wives of the noncommissioned officers are to have charge of the luncheon and refreshments tent, as they have in previous years, and there will be the usual luncheon at the Officers' club.

R. S. Wrights' Daughter Will Be Christened Glee Doren Wright.

Despite the fact that the three godparents of the Redmond Stephen Wrights' little daughter are away from Chicago, her young mother and father hope to have her christened before they depart, about three weeks hence, for their Paris abode. The ceremony probably will be performed in the Fourth Presbyterian church. There the former Glee Louise Viles and Redmond Stephen Wright were married a little more than two years ago. The baby's paternal grandmother, Mrs. William Van Doren Wright, and her aunt, Miss Marion Wright, are expected to be back from Colorado in time to hear the little girl, who, by the way, looks exactly like her father, officially christened Glee Doren Wright.

The Chicago club at Charlevoix was crowded to capacity over the Labor day week-end, and there were numerous house parties of young people at the cottages. A. Watson Armour Jr., Miss Jean Schweppe, and Hoyt Smith were among the Cyrus A. Adamses' guests, and Miss Constance Hasler and her brother, Wyndham, were guests of the Frederick H. Scotts.

The John W. Stuarts' young guests included Nancy Traylor, Honoré White, Barbara Raymond, Paul Fentress, Enoch White, and John T. Shields. The recently married Edward Hageys [Elinor Whiting] were with her mother, Mrs. O. H. Whiting, and Leslie and Seymour Wheeler were guests of Howard Linn.

The annual regatta of the Charlevoix Yacht club, which is the "sailor" group of the Chicago club, finished on Saturday, and the final scores were computed. Mr. L. A. Steadman of St. Louis placed first in the 6 meter boat class, and Oscar W. Johnson's Meteor was second. Cynthia Wilson's Binx won the Manchester class.

Miss Anne Trickett Wyles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom R. Wyles of Highland Park, and Willis Prague Coleman Jr. of Madison, Wis., were quietly married on Saturday afternoon at Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park. They departed immediately after the ceremony for Madison, where they are to reside.

Mr. Coleman is the son of Col. and Mrs. Willis Prague Coleman of Tampa, Fla. The wedding had been planned to take place next month, but the young couple decided to dispense with a more elaborate ceremony. They telephoned the bride's parents, who are in the southwest, for their consent to the earlier date, and were married with only a friend or two for witnesses.

There'll be all sorts of meetings in the next few weeks to get various organizations going again after the summer's idleness. The Joint Committee on Hourly Nursing is to hold its first fall board meeting Thursday afternoon at the organization headquarters, 8 South Michigan, to make plans for the season, and the first of the Opera box committee's weekly luncheons will be on Wednesday, the 16th, at Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's house.

Destinations and doings—Mrs. John Lewis Cochran is going to Baltimore next Monday for a visit with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Murray Peabody Brush, and to collect her youngsters and bring them back from their visit with their grandparents. . . . The Donald R. McLennans of Lake Forest are to return shortly from Brule, in northern Michigan, and their son, Don Jr., who has been on a European trip since his graduation from Yale in June, is expected back about the 15th. . . . Dr. Horace Bridges is to return to Chicago next week from a summer in Europe, and he and Mrs. Bridges are going to visit Mr. and Mrs. John Slade at Wausaukee, Wis., soon thereafter. . . . Ruth Card, daughter of the Joseph B. Cards of Highland Park, is studying at the Chicago Art theater and is to play Nora in Ibsen's "A Doll House" this season in a student performance. . . . Mrs. Volney Foster's mother, Mrs. Baxter, and her sister, Mrs. Perry Beadleston, have been visiting her, and Mrs. Charles Dewey gave a luncheon for Mrs. Baxter at Shoreacres a few days ago.

Members of the Onwentsia Hunt who were in town over the holiday week-end rode out from the hunt club at Milliburn on a sort of practice hunt early yesterday morning. The actual hunting season won't begin for several weeks, but Austin Niblack, M. F. H. of the Onwentsia Hunt; Mrs. Edward H. Bennett, Mrs. John E. Hughes, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Prince Michael Cantacuzene [secretary of the hunt], and Thomas Furness and several others sallied forth yesterday with the hounds to get in trim for the season.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Lighter Side of Business.

My favorite ending for personal letters is "lots of love." While filing some correspondence at the office one day, I discovered to my horror that my pet expression reposed at the end of a letter to a very dignified young man. Fortunately, he possessed a rare sense of humor. By return mail arrived a formal reply, but the ending was as follows: "Received your kind greetings. Am sending hugs and kisses under separate cover." Otis-Owings Wedding in Michigan

MR. AND MRS. NATHANIEL A. OWINGS AND WEDDING ATTENDANTS.
[Grinated Photo.]

The marriage of Miss Emily Huntington Otis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis of 1415 Astor street, to Nathaniel A. Owings, son of Mrs. Cora M. Owings of Evanston, took place at Birchwood Farms, the Otises' summer residence at Harbor Springs, Mich., last Saturday afternoon. The bride was attended by Mrs. Alfred McCormack and Miss Marie Smith, and Lewis Skidmore of Chicago and Harold Wade of New York were best men for Mr. Owings. Mr. and Mrs. Owings are to be at home at 118 East Delaware place after Oct. 15. They are touring the southwest on their wedding trip.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Paul May, wife of the Belgian ambassador, and their three daughters, sailed Saturday for this country to join the ambassador in Washington. He has spent the summer in a cottage on Chesapeake bay near Annapolis. He will go to New York to meet them on their arrival Saturday on the Belgenland.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. H. L. Stimson, who remained in their Long Island home after their return from their long stay in England to attend the wedding of their niece, Miss Camilla Leonard Edwards, and Francis O. Noble of New York, principal of the Lawrenceville school, will return to Washington tomorrow.

Food Talk.

Many women suffer from jelly making ills during the month of September, so perhaps the following letter from Mrs. A. R. T. expresses your feelings, too. She says:

"I would like to have you tell me how to make grape jelly so that it will not form granules. It seems that when I use either ripe or green grapes I get the same results."

When a sugar solution is boiled in the presence of acid, such as grape juice, invert sugar is formed in amounts depending on the strength of the acid. The greater the amount of invert sugar produced the less danger there is of crystallization. For this reason, jellies made the old fashioned way of longer cooking instead of the quick method of two or three minutes' boiling, are better; for, generally, prolonged cooking produces sufficient invert sugar to prevent crystallization.

By "prolonged cooking" is meant the process of cooking the juice first, and then adding the sugar. However, the cook should take care that this cooking is done only by rule. The heated sugar is added to the juice when the juice begins to boil, following which the sugar is stirred until thoroughly dissolved, and the cooking finished rapidly. Long cooking after the admission of the sugar to the juice will tend to produce a leathery, dark jelly.

It is an excellent plan to insure yourself against the crystallization of your grape jelly by the addition of a few tart apples.

TOMATO WITH BAKED EGG.

Peel firm, ripe tomatoes; cut off the tops and scoop out the pulp. Rub salt around the inside. Drain, and sprinkle with chopped onion. Mix bread crumbs with the tomato pulp. Fill each tomato half full of the mixture, and place in a hot oven [400 degrees F.]. Bake for about 25 minutes. Remove from the oven and break a whole egg into each tomato. Salt, pepper, and butter the eggs. Return to the oven to bake until the eggs are nicely jellied.

BAKED BLUEBERRY ROLL.

1 tablespoon sugar.
1 egg.
1 cup of blueberries mixed with ¼ cup of sugar.

Sift the dry ingredients together; cut in the shortening; and add the milk and beaten egg. Mix well, and toss on a well floured board. Knead for a second or two. Roll out very thin into a sheet about 10 inches square, and spread with blueberry mixture. Roll up; pinch edges together to prevent the juices from escaping during the baking. Place in shallow pan and bake in a hot oven [475 degrees F.] for about 25 minutes. Serve with a hot liquid sauce.

Persia's Women Win Victory Over Tradition

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Owing to the economic crisis an event of major importance has escaped the attention of the world. The women of Persia, more numerous and more cultivated than those of Turkey, will be free beginning Oct. 16, 1931.

That date marks the end of Islamic jurisprudence, operative in Persia since A. D. 636. The Persian women's divorce bill has at last received the imperial assent after stormy passages through both the chamber of deputies and the senate. In both houses its opponents were the reactionary party. Its supporters were the progressive party.

The entire clergy and large numbers of the landed gentry opposed the measure. It puts an end to domination by the men. It accords to women the privilege of divorcing their husbands on the same grounds as husbands may divorce their wives.

This is in direct contravention of the teachings of the Koran, but in strict obedience to the dogmas of the national poet of antiquity, Zoroaster [Zarathustra], whose influence is reviving in Persia.

Because it differed with Mohammedan beliefs the shah hesitated to sign the bill. It awaited his assent for nearly a fortnight after it had passed through the legislature. Pressure was brought to bear from many quarters, and one friendly legation went so far as to cite the case of Amanullah, exking of Afghanistan, who was overthrown by diehard Moslems because of western reforms.

The shah in his dilemma sought refuge in flight to his hunting lodge in the Elburs mountains. So precipitous was his flight that he left both the queen and the unsigned bill behind. The court gazette announced that his imperial majesty had gone on a tour of inspection in the provinces, but in a few days the news became known that he was trying to forget the divorce bill by shooting ibex.

A deputation headed by the archpriest of Ispahan and the guardian of the sacred shrines of Meshed set off to tackle the shah anew.

The queen, who is credited with mothering the bills, set off in a high powered car to race them to the mountains. She took the unsigned bill with her. In order that there should be no mistake, two ministers were picked up on the way to the mountains. There the shah, in hunting clothes, signed away the inheritance of Islam. The two ministers countersigned after him and the bill thus became law.

Long after the ministers had set out on their return journey to the statute office at Teheran the pious deputation arrived at the foot of the mountains. The shah continued to shoot ibex, but the queen descended to advise them that the bill was signed, whether they liked it or not. Henceforth, she intimated, they would have to treat her sex a little better than they had in the past.

The awakening of Persian women is largely due to American influence through missionaries, books and films. W. Morgan Schuster's prophecy in 1910, about the time when he was financial adviser to Persia, that in less than a generation Islam would be a dead horse in Persia has been more than fulfilled.

FISHER IS MADE CRIMINAL COURT CHIEF JUSTICE

Assails Use of Vengeance in Fixing Penalties.

Judge Harry M. Fisher opened his term as chief justice of the Criminal court yesterday with a recommendation, based on a two months' study of European prisons and courts from which he has just returned, that it is "better to err on the side of mercy than on the side of severity."

Speaking of his European trip, he said:

"The judges of the Cook county Criminal court measure up with any group of judges on earth. Nowhere did I find conditions as they prevail in Cook county. Judges in other countries are not humiliated or forced to stand the slanders as they are here, which attacks are all aimed to force them to give up justice and to substitute the spirit of vengeance.

Closing European Prisons.

"I found in Europe that they are closing their penitentiaries, while we in this country are opening new ones. There, even in the countries which mete out the most severe sentences, they realize that a man sent to prison must come out to live in society, and their object is to make these men more fit when they return to society.

"The judges of this court are not to operate machine like, or to hand out justice by the yardstick. It is better to err on the side of mercy than on the side of severity.

"On the courts depends social safety, and the judiciary is not to be carried away by sentimentality. Dangerous criminals should receive the full measure of justice. Chicago has been advertised as the crime center of the world. This libel ought to be erased, and we can do it."

Prosecutor Conducts Ceremony.

State's Attorney Swanson was master of ceremonies at the installation of Chief Justice Fisher, and the arrangements were handled by the prosecutor's secretary, Christian G. Kiesling. The state's attorney, after predicting "perfect coördination" between his own office and the new chief justice, said:

"I don't look forward with a great amount of joy to the coming year. Economic conditions have created a situation which indicates that the courts will have much to do."

Other speakers were Judges Joseph Kelly, Walter T. Stanton, Joseph Burke, and Rudolph F. Desort.

Mother of Ambassador Edge's Wife Dies in Paris

PARIS, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Harold M. Sewall of Bath, Me., mother of Mrs. Walter E. Edge, wife of the American ambassador, died tonight of a heart attack at the American embassy residence. She was 65. Ambassador and Mrs. Edge were at the bedside, as well as Mrs. John W. Williams, Baltimore, Md., a daughter; Loyall F. Sewall, a son, and Mrs. Norman McLaren of Paris, a sister. Another son, Arthur Sewall II., is on his way to Europe. Burial will be in Bath.

Albert Polacheck, Tribune Circulation Worker, Dead

Albert Polacheck, 60 years old, 1373 East 57th street, an employé in the circulation department of THE TRIBUNE, died yesterday following a short illness. His widow survives. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow from the chapel at 7206 Stony Island avenue, with burial in Waldheim cemetery.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Old Jake

SANITARY CANAL UNABLE TO HELP LOW MISSISSIPPI

Diversion at Peak, Engineer Says.

With the Chicago river delivering its maximum under the war department order, no relief for the dangerously low condition of the Mississippi river can be expected from this source, Horace P. Ramey, assistant chief engineer of the sanitary district, advised yesterday. "Only in cases of extreme emergency are we permitted to withdraw more than the specified maximum of 4,200 cubic feet per second, which the canal is now carrying," he said, "and all such excess withdrawals must be equalized subsequently to make an average of 6,500 cubic feet per second."

In the last three days the Mississippi has fallen 3.1 feet to a stage of 1.3 feet above low water mark. The government forecast indicates the river will continue to fall, but more slowly during September. A new all-time low water record is regarded as imminent.

At best, Mr. Ramey said, the Mississippi could be raised only three or four inches through increasing the flow of the drainage canal. Lake Michigan is 2.2 feet lower than it was a year ago, according to the sanitary district's figures.

A general deficiency of rainfall in the great lakes' drainage area is the cause ascribed by Mr. Ramey. Although the figures for the entire area are not available, Mr. Ramey said the rainfall had been "spotted." As an example he cited the fall of 3.84 inches in a single storm as registered at the University of Chicago, whereas only 1.9 inches was recorded in the same period at Evanston.

Although the level of the great lakes is not falling rapidly at present, a continued recession can be expected through December, Mr. Ramey said. Early in January the situation is reversed and they continue to rise through June.

Pebblestone Wins Derby, and Without a Jockey

Ponca City, Okla., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Pebblestone joined the roll of hard shelled immortals here today, conquering 49 other turtles in the eighth annual waddle of the 101 Ranch Terrapin Derby and winning $3,500 for his owner, T. F. Boettcher, Hollis, Okla., merchant. There were 3,500 entries. Two days of elimination heats preceded today's finals.

Hospital Surgeons Reset Stanley's Jaw After Yawn

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Stanley Gorecki, 42, St. Francis, town of Lake, dislocated his jaw tonight with an expansive yawn. His jaw was reset at Johnston Emergency hospital.

"TALKIE" EQUIPMENT TO PROVIDE SHOWS IN SOLDIERS' HOME

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Talking picture equipment is being installed at the National Soldiers' home, and within two weeks semi-weekly presentations will be given for the 500 veterans, according to Col. Charles M. Pearsall, director.

The "talkies" also will be installed at the Veterans' Administration hospital at Waukesha, Col. Pearsall said. More than fifty veterans' homes throughout the nation are being equipped for the talking films. Contracts will be made with leading film exchanges for pictures.

Remodeling of the theater on the Milwaukee grounds to improve acoustics has been completed and part of the sound outfit has been installed, according to Col. Pearsall. The projectors will arrive soon. The main building has a seating capacity of 1,200.

Silent motion pictures, which have provided entertainment for several years at the soldiers' home, have been discontinued while the new equipment is being installed.

PARIS, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Archibald F. C. Fiske of New York, second vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, died here today. He was the son of the late Haley Fiske, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. He was born in Summit, N. J., March 11, 1888.

TOO MUCH NOISE NEAR HOSPITALS, NEW YORK FINDS

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Eighty per cent of the hospitals in New York City are surrounded by noise sufficient to retard appreciably the recovery of patients, it is revealed in a report made public by the noise abatement commission. In almost half the hospitals included in a survey made by the commission the noise was found to have a really serious effect on the health of patients; in others, its effect was described as either "important" or annoying.

Traffic noises, especially those made by heavy trucks, headed the list of complaints, and the next was the noise made by children playing. Fire apparatus, street cars, low flying airplanes, ash and garbage collections, shots [in Manhattan] and church bells [in Brooklyn] and the omnipresent radio were other causes of noise, disturbing not only to patients in hospitals but to doctors and nurses as well.

"These figures indicate an extremely grave situation of emergency which must be immediately remedied as far as is possible under present laws by the agencies in whose hands is the enforcement of these laws," the report says. "One of the most vital functions of the city is to take adequate care of its sick. It is essential that hospitals be surrounded with almost perfect conditions of silence. How far conditions are from perfect is startlingly indicated by the figures quoted above.

"Many of the superintendents pointed out that the noise conditions not only had a detrimental effect on the patients but also interfered with the health and efficiency of doctors and nurses, thus making them less able to give the patients the best possible care. As has been shown by previous studies made by the commission, noise that has a serious effect on the sick has a detrimental effect on the healthy also. Many well people will be forced into hospitals by the same noise that will hinder their recovery when in institutions. The situation, then, is grave for those already sick."

German Mail Flyers Freed from Mongolian Prison

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—The German pilot, Rathje, and his mechanic, Kilbe, who were arrested and imprisoned in Mongolia after a forced landing early in July, have been released, according to a message from Urga, Mongolia. They were making the first Nanking-Berlin postal flight for the new Eurasia airline when arrested. The air line immediately halted its service.

BURY MINISTER, THEN ANNOUNCE DEATH; HIS WISH

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Dr. Joseph Burnley Moody, 92, widely known Baptist minister, was buried late today in the Camp Mooney cemetery near here without a funeral or flowers. The burial was conducted in the utmost privacy in accordance with written instructions left by Dr. Moody.

At his request Dr. Moody's death was not announced until after the burial, and surviving members of the family carried out his wishes that none except those who performed the actual work at the grave attend the funeral.

Dr. Moody left written instructions regarding his burial. "When I die bury me in my everyday clothes. Put me in my coffin and seal it up. I don't want anybody to see my dead face and form except those who put me in."

"I don't want anyone to attend my burial except those who are to put me away. There is to be no funeral and no flowers. Don't let anyone know I am dead until after the burial," he wrote, according to surviving relatives.

First real vacation in years

City worker enjoys holiday free from usual drawback

Sojourning at mountain resort

DO YOU know how this man used to spend his vacation? Believing he should get a complete change, he'd pick out some nice place in the mountains.

Then he'd spend the whole two weeks trying to get his system adjusted to the change of water, air, food, and routine. And then when he got back home he had to get readjusted all over again. Often he didn't feel as well as before he left.

This year, though, he came back feeling like a million dollars. "The first real vacation I have had in years," he declared enthusiastically. "And the others might all have been just as good as this! Believe me, if I were running a tourist agency, I'd recommend Nujol as part of a person's equipment for any vacation trip. It certainly does the trick. I'm so sold on it that I'm going to keep it up the year round."

Nujol keeps the body functioning normally under all conditions. It works so easily and naturally that it has no upsetting effects. It can't possibly hurt you or disagree with you because it is a pure substance that contains no drug or medicine. It not only keeps any excess of body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but aids in their removal.

When you go on your vacation, summer or winter, pack a bottle of Nujol. It will do you more good than the extra two days you'd like to sneak. And if you want to prove to yourself what it will do try it out now, before you start. Be sure you get the genuine.

No harm in trying, is there? For Nujol can't possibly upset or hurt you. It contains absolutely no medicine or drugs. Perfected by the famous Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

SEANS FUTURE FOR FABRICATED STEEL OUTLETS

New Uses May Develop to Spur On Industry.

BY SCRUTATOR.

Interesting comment on the growth of the fabricated steel division of the steel industry and its seemingly unlimited possibilities for the future is contained in an article by Charles F. Abbott, executive director, American Institute of Steel Construction, Inc., in the recent issue of Investment Banking. Much of the information following is derived from Mr. Abbott's report.

At the time the United States entered the world war fabricators of structural steel for all uses were known as bridge builders. They had grown over the fabrication of metal parts in the days when iron bridges were introduced and had expanded their activities to include among many other lines the manufacture of the steel members used in the building of skyscrapers.

Becomes Principal Outlet.

In previous years supplying the requirements of the railroads was the chief source of revenue for the steel companies. Later the automobile companies became the steel industry's best customer. Now structural steel has found both the automobiles and railroads to become the principal outlet for the industry.

How long this branch of the steel industry will be in first place remains to be seen, but it has done remarkably well despite the depression. While no report of the steel industry as a whole is stated to be in a position about where it was in 1910, orders for structural steel during the first half of this year exceeded in volume those of the same period in 1921. What does the future of this specialized branch of the steel industry, which might be said to have entered its greatest period of expansion with the creation of the Steel Construction Institute in 1921 by a number of independent American and Canadian fabricators to promote their business?

Only a few years ago an order for 5,000 tons of structural steel was considered a huge one and one for 20,000 tons was almost unheard of. But now demands have broadened immensely. Two buildings recently completed, the Merchandise Mart here and the Empire building in New York, each took about 40,000 tons. And it is estimated that 125,000 tons will be used in the construction of John D. Rockefeller Jr.'s Radio City in New York.

Plan Massive Bridge.

In the development of transportation systems, both for railways and highways, larger and larger bridges are being constructed. It is structural steel that permits of the construction of such structures such as the Ambassador bridge at Detroit, the Kill Van Kull bridge connecting Staten Island and Bayonne, N. J., and the harbor bridge in Sydney, Australia. Only recently bids were taken for 110,000 tons of steel for the Golden Gate bridge at San Francisco. Now plans are being considered for the construction of a bridge over the Hudson at 178th street in New York which will require approximately 360,000 tons of structural steel, being the most massive undertaking of its type ever proposed by man.

Further development of air rights in Chicago—this field has hardly been scratched here—and New York offer huge possibilities for the future. Electrification of the railroads will require huge amounts of standardized steel parts for wire supports. The utility companies will need steel parts for the construction of their transmission lines.

Steel Frames for Homes.

Then the day seems to be approaching when small homes of steel frame construction will be general. "Battledeck" floors are being used in buildings to advantage. It is stated that through the use of steel floors the height of a building can be increased 25 per cent without increasing the weight on the foundations.

Structural steel is seen as destined to take a greater part in the construction of the nation's highways. For instance, a steel highway guard has been developed which is said to be far safer for automobile traffic than the fence types now used. And experiments are being conducted with structural steel as a base for hard road surfaces.

Have Large Output.

In the imaginative field there is the possibility of great steel islands scattered across the seas to facilitate airplane travel.

Mr. Abbott states that there are about 250 important steel fabricators in the country at present with a total investment of about $300,000,000. Their output is around 4,000,000 tons annually, valued at $250,000,000. In the past, with one or two exceptions, the fabricators have largely been independently owned, but now the tendency is toward control by the large mills.

Discussing the present of the structural steel industry, Mr. Abbott finds price concessions occasioned by sharp competition an adverse factor in operations. Since the close of 1929 the industry has been running at around 50 per cent capacity. However, orders for the first half of this year were larger than in the like period of 1930.

Young Farmer Shows Profit in Feeding Cattle and Hogs

BY PAUL POTTER.

Telltale records kept by a young Kendall county, Illinois, farmer were produced yesterday to picture graphically how 40 whitefaced steers and the pigs that fattened at their heels brought him 74 cents a bushel for his corn instead of prevailing market prices.

CLARENCE THUROW. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

And in addition the benefit accruing to his land from fertility returned to the soil, and a premium market for other home grown corps complete the story of a typical better type of cornbelt farming that is carrying business-like farmers through these times that most farmers are complaining about.

Bring Top Prices.

These forty steers were sold in Chicago the other day for $9.85 per hundredweight, to top the market for the day for finished heavy cattle. They had been on feed for eight months. From their feed lot had been marketed 75 hogs, in three lots of 25 each.

When Clarence Thurow and his father bought these steers as feeders in the west they averaged 770 pounds, or a total of 30,820 pounds in the yards. At $8.35 per hundred they were the choice feders in quality and price on that day's market.

When sold, the 40 steers averaged 1,313 pounds apiece, or a gross weight of 52,520 pounds. The difference between purchase and selling prices was $2,350.29, Thurow's records show.

They were pastured on arrival at the farm for about 3 weeks, and given access to corn stalks for about 90 days, with silage fed as they would clean it up during this preliminary feeding period. Then they were placed on full feed of shelled corn and alfalfa hay.

Kept in Prime Condition

"Ground oats and barley was added with oil meal to keep the cattle in prime feeding condition and prevent them going stale," declares Thurow. "After 200 days of feeding I found they had consumed 3,000 bushels of corn, 600 bushels of oats, 160 bushels of barley, 50 tons of silage and 21 tons of alfalfa, all of it home grown."

In addition, he purchased oil meal, $30; tankage, minerals and salt, $75. The oats were set down at $120, the barley at $80, silage at $180, and hay at $210, each of these representing top cash prices. The feed items totaled $743, which amount deducted from the gross income of $3,350.39 left $1,682.39.

But in the meantime, the hogs had been fed on the lot. The first 25 were on feed 40 days, starting at an average weight of 203 pounds and ending by weighing 242 pounds. The gain [marketed at $7.50 a hundred] was about $75 on this lot of pigs.

Gets 74c a Bu. for Corn.

The second lot of 25 shoats were bought at $7.50, weighing 127 lbs average, and were sold at $6.50, weighing 217 lbs, still showing a profit, with the market decline, of $95.75 in two months of feeding.

The third group of shoats weighed 115 lbs average, costing $6.50 a hundred. When sold they weighed 195 lbs and brought $7 with a gain of $154.50 for the lot. The three groups of pigs then made a money gain of $323.25. This with the cattle gain made a total net of $1,925.64.

On this basis, the 2,600 bushels of corn were marketed at 74c a bushel, representing the premium over market prices he received for his own labor and ability.

"On top of this, of course, we gained by taking our straw, for which there was no cash market, and allowing it to work into the manure," adds Thurow. "There are 150 tons of manure left which we estimate will be ample to cover 25 acres of ground.

Southern Pacific Extends Time on Stock Transfer

J. F. B. Mitchell, chairman of the St. Louis-Southwestern stockholders' protective committee, announces that the Southern Pacific has granted an extension until Sept. 15 for St. Louis-Southwestern stockholders to deposit their stock and assent to the offer by Southern Pacific to exchange its stock on the basis of three shares of Southern Pacific for each five shares of Cotton Belt preferred and one share of stock for each three shares of Cotton Belt common.

Wheat Feeding by States; Percentages Range High

Feeding of wheat all over the country is becoming more general, because of the low prices relative to other grains, and the results secured. Last year the government estimated that 225,000,000 bu of wheat would be fed to live stock, which was too high. Nat C. Murray, the Clement Curtis statistician, estimates that it will be 175,000,000 bu this year, as indicated by returns in balancing up the statistics for the year. His estimates last year were 117,000,000 bu. Feeding in a number of states runs higher than in any other year.

In thirteen large states the percentage to be fed, compared with production, ranges from 10 to 34 per cent, with the exception of Pennsylvania, which is estimated at 54 per cent. The central west estimates range from 16 to 21 per cent, the latter in Indiana. In Minnesota it is 34 per cent; North Dakota, 20; South Dakota, 27; Nebraska, 25; Kansas and Oklahoma, 14, and Texas, 10 per cent, with an average in all states of 19.3 per cent, as compared with 14 per cent last year.

Peoples Gas Melon Worth Five Millions

Back in the good old days of 1928 and 1929 the word "melon" was frequently used to describe the offering of "valuable rights" to stockholders. These rights were valuable because the stock would be offered to the holders at par or a stated value sometimes considerably below the market price of the shares.

Of late this word has fallen into disuse. However, it may be dusted off again and called into play to tell of a stock purchase melon worth more than $5,000,000 which the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company plans to split up among its stockholders.

Seek Permit Today.

Directors of the company today will apply to the Illinois commerce commission for permission to issue additional stock in the aggregate amount of $7,900,000 par value. Par is $100 a share. The stock is currently selling, however, at $138.50 a share, having dropped eleven points on the New York Stock exchange in the last week.

Of this issue $1,000,000 par value is reserved for the employes' savings fund, through which the employés of the company become stockholders in it.

The balance of the issue will be offered to stockholders of record on Dec. 15, and each will be entitled to subscribe for shares to the amount of ten per cent of his present holdings. Payments may be made in one installment on or before Jan. 15, 1932, in quarterly installments or ten monthly payments commencing Jan. 15, 1932.

The rights are worth approximately $7.84 a share on the stock now outstanding.

Vote Regular Dividend.

This action, the company asserts, is taken to provide funds to reimburse the company's treasury for expenditures made for extensions of its property.

Directors also announced that they have authorized the regular quarterly dividend of $3 a share, payable Oct. 17 to holders of record Oct. 3.

Buying Gains Momentum in Holiday Toy Trade

Buying activity in toys for fall and holiday selling has now gained its greatest momentum since the spring toy fairs, trade reports state. The advance business to date, however, remains somewhat under a year ago in both dollar volume and units, price readjustments have been made on a number of items and marked attention is being accorded specials which retail at $1. The doll situation continues highly competitive and a large percentage of holiday business remains to be placed.

Prices Rise 1 to 9 Points in Berlin Boerse Trading

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Prices went up one to nine points on the boerse today and at the close buyers were still clamoring for some issues.

A. E. G., the German General Electric, was up two points; Ilse, the mining combination was up nine, and I. G. Farben up 3½. The Reichsbank improved by one-half a point and Darmstaedter und National bank by ¼. The weak spot was the Dresdner bank, which fell off three points.

CHEMICAL FIRMS NOW REPAIRING RAIL EQUIPMENT

Indications that manufacturers and users of chemicals are preparing for business recovery by putting their railroad equipment in order are evident from the large number of special freight cars now undergoing repairs.

The General American Tank Car corporation, prominent in the development of special cars for the chemical industry, reports exceptional activity during the past three months at its ten repair plants in various parts of the United States.

Especially busy have been the shops at Lincoln, N. J., which serve the New York-Philadelphia-Wilmington area. Here mechanics have been working overtime during the past month, testing, strengthening and repairing parts of various types of tank cars which haul chemicals from manufacturing plant to point of consumption.

The Port of Philadelphia Plus the Panama Canal

Saving Money For World Shippers

One of the reasons for this large tonnage is that shippers use the Port of Philadelphia via the Panama Canal to save money. These same facilities are available to you.

Why don't you take advantage of them?

Manufacturers East of the Mississippi are invited to send for the facts showing that, with few exceptions, their products can be delivered to Pacific Coast ports more economically by a combination rail and Panama Canal rate via the Port of Philadelphia.

Philadelphia is the logical distribution point for the richest Eastern market. The Atlantic Coast area contains $45,802,804,000 of the spendable income of the United States or 48.14% of the total. This income centers at a point six miles northwest of the Philadelphia Metropolitan area.

Send for booklets on "Labor," "Power," "Transportation," "Distribution Efficiency Applied to Plant Location," and "The Real Philadelphia". Without cost or obligation, specific data will be submitted on Philadelphia's opportunity for your business. Address Department C on your business letterhead.

The Horse—not the Harness

No. 3 in a Series of Advertisements "Seasoned by Time"

It's not the tanks and turbines, pipes and poles that make a utility system . . . it's the Men.

Thirty-three men who are the chief executives of the Associated System average 25 years in service. They were seasoned in the quarter century that saw the phenomenal rise of the electric industry, the rejuvenation of the gas industry, and the development of the holding company that did much to make both these possible.

Mature Management

Seven of this group of 33 have served more than 30 years . . . 28 more than 20 years. There are in addition 283 major executives who have averaged 16 years in System service. These men direct the activities of the 14,600 Associated employees.

Both gas and electricity face years of expansion that will need the direction of this type of mature management.

Electricity in 1940—It is estimated that by 1940 electric output will increase 85%; gross revenues from light and power, 59%. Television, railroad electrification, air conditioning and the electron tube are among fields for expansion. Some believe the electric utilities will be the next major industry to lead America through a new cycle of prosperity.

Gas for heating—Development of gas for heating promises further accomplishment for this industry that produced more gas during the past decade than during the preceding century. Heating homes, heating water, and new uses for industrial heating offer outstanding growth possibilities. Research projects under way include utilization of gas for cooling homes and buildings in summer.

The Associated System, which serves 1,432,108 customers in 3,117 communities, is prepared by policies of long-term management to participate in the years of growth ahead.

CITE GROWTH OF FRENCH CHAIN STORE SYSTEMS

Standards of Operation Differ from Ours.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 7.—The impetus that the general economic crisis has given to chain stores to the detriment of small merchants reveals something few have ever suspected—that the chain store, so far from being an American innovation, was more highly developed in France twenty years ago than it is in America today.

In fact, it can almost be asserted that France is the birthplace of the chain store. The first ones were founded shortly after the Franco-Prussian war and by the end of the nineteenth century the system was firmly established. Today four Paris banks through thousands of provincial branches do at least 80 per cent of the country's banking, five department stores have branches in every big provincial town and in North Africa, and two grocery stores, Felix Potin and Julien Damoy, rival our Kroger's and Great Atlantic and Pacific with more than 3,000 branches each.

National Dairy Chain.

Then there is the "Lait Maggi," a national dairy chain with branches in nearly every village, and Raoul Shoes, which has a flourishing branch store showing Paris shoes at Paris prices all over the country.

Every one who has traveled widely throughout France has probably run across miniature department stores calling themselves "Bon Marche," Printemps, Galleries Lafayette, or Samaritaine in towns like Tours, Marseilles, Rouen, Bordeaux, Tolouse. These are all subsidiaries of the big Paris department stores of the same name, organized in the same way and selling the same goods, usually at the same prices.

Few, however, know of the thousands of less prominent mercantile enterprises that are operated as chains throughout the country. And within Paris itself there are famous chains of restaurants and cafés like Duval and the ubiquitous Cafés Billard.

The prevalence of the chain system here is somewhat paradoxical owing to the traditional French individualism and distaste for organized effort. To a large extent it is due to the centralization of the nation's forces—political, financial, commercial, industrial—in Paris. Only in Paris can be found the necessary capital and the adequate organization for launching big mercantile projects in the provinces.

Operates on Shoestring.

Outside of the branches of the big Paris firms there are few important local stores in the provinces. Manufacturing remains fairly decentralized, but the local merchant usually operates on a shoestring, counts his profits in sous and sells out when he has enough to last him through his old age.

Under these conditions it is impossible for him to carry a large stock or handle articles for which there is not a general demand. Thus the need of chain stores selling national products on a large scale and relieved through reduced overhead from the necessity of worry about quick profit to meet bills for supplies.

On the other hand, the chain stores in France do not sell their goods especially cheap. They make no effort to undersell their local competitors—in fact, they don't look on the local merchants as being exactly competitors. Their appeal is in diversity of selection, efficient sales service and uniformity in price and quality.

Saves Housewife Steps.

A grocery store like Potin may not be any cheaper than the neighborhood shops, but saves the housewife a lot of trouble by allowing her to do all her shopping in one place. Otherwise she would have to go to a "boucherie" for her slab meat, a "tiperie" for tripe or sausage, a fish market for fish, separate establishments for eggs and coffee and still another for wine. Incidentally, chain wineshops are prevalent, Nicolas being particularly prominent throughout the country.

It was the banks which first started the chain idea in order to give attention to the credit needs of farmers and small merchants throughout the country. Then the Maggi milk people started up, buying the milk and butter from the farmers in the district in which the branches were located. The idea caught on rapidly and chain stores are now taken as a matter of course in France. Recently a chain of 5-and-10 stores called Uniprix was established and the number of branches is growing all the time.

In many cases the chain store was founded by manufacturers to create markets for a given product. This is the case with the Raoul Shoe stores, which is an enormous organization, both on the industrial and the commercial end.

Run on Different Lines.

Many of the most famous dressmakers of Paris are only branches of some textile manufacturing concern and two or three of these companies own strings of couture shops in Paris that have world-famous names. The men who gave them the names remain only as managers.

The French chain store is run on somewhat different lines from our own. Except for the name and the standard brands of goods offered the customer would not realize he is in a chain store. The policy is to appoint one of the leading local citizens as manager and leave him pretty much of a free hand in catering to local taste. All the main office does is provide him with the goods and take over his receipts after salaries have been deducted.

FIND SENTIMENT MORE CHEERFUL IN NORTHWEST

"Business men in the northwest take a more cheerful view of general conditions than is found in Chicago despite the fact that crops in that section are the poorer and prices the lowest in years," said Robert P. Boyland, Patrick H. Joyce, chairman of the board of the Chicago, Great Western railroad, has returned to Chicago after an investigation of crop and business situations in the northwest last week.

"We met leading business men in nearly all lines, particularly the best informed men in the grain trade in that section," said Mr. Boyland. "The latter are working hard and building up a large cash grain market which will take business away from Chicago unless the traders here bestir themselves.

"One concern is building a 7,000,000 bushel concrete elevator at Minneapolis which will give them storage capacity aggregating 17,000,000 bushels. Government and state building as well as other construction work is under way, and efforts are being put forth to make the most of the unfavorable conditions. In all there is a decidedly different feeling expressed by all interested from that encountered here."

Standard Gas & Electric Reports Income Balance

Consolidated earnings of Standard Gas and Electric company and its subsidiary and affiliated companies for the twelve months ended June 30, 1931, show a balance of $11,148,594, after all charges, including retirement reserve and preferred dividends, compared with a balance for the twelve months ended March 31, 1931, of $12,250,867, according to John J. O'Brien, president of the company. The balance of $11,148,594 is equivalent to $5.15 a share on the 2,162,607 shares of common stock outstanding June 30, 1931, and compares with a balance equivalent to $5.66 a share on the 2,162,607 shares of common stock outstanding March 31, 1931.

LATE CORN IN IOWA

Iowa's corn is dented and out of danger from frost and a good average yield is expected, says the Illinois Central System crop report. The late crop has been benefited by rain the last week and should make a better yield than the early crop, provided frost holds off until a normal date or later. Cutting is 2 or 3 weeks ahead of the usual time. Corn in Illinois is making good progress and prospects are for a good yield. Except in parts of Iowa, weather continued favorable for pastures and haylands.

"UNEASINESS" LAID TO CHAINS BY HEAD OF GROCERS' ALLIANCE

That big business had encroached on the sphere of small business in instituting the retail chain food store to the economic detriment of the country was the declaration of J. Frank Grimes, president of the Independent Grocers' alliance, in opening the regional convention at the Hotel Sherman yesterday. An "unscrambling" of the chain systems back to individual ownership he saw as the only solution to the present "uneasiness."

"It may be true that chains have led in the lowering of prices and increasing of efficiency, and the independent merchant is only now catching up with them, but only at the cost of taking the vital factor of profit away from neighborhoods in which they do business, and concentrating it in a few hands."

"Prices are reduced by hammering down the prices paid the farmer, and the manufacturer, by paying a wage below American standards to their help, and by doing away with the services of brokers, and wholesalers. Unemployment in the last eight years may be partly due to them."

Meetings will continue today at the Garfield theater and the Hotel Sherman, and the closing banquet will be addressed by Col. Robert L. Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

BARGE LINE CO. PREPARES NEW RATE SCHEDULE

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Mississippi Valley Barge Line company, which for the last year has been required to operate in a limited territory, is preparing to put into effect on Oct. 21 rates which will be applicable throughout the Mississippi valley and in many northern, southern and eastern inland centers.

The new routes are made possible through an order issued recently by the interstate commerce commission directing railroads to join with the privately owned river transportation company on or before Oct. 21 in establishing rates for the expanded territory.

Establishment of the new routes will result in material savings for shippers of many metropolitan centers, L. Eads Childress, president of the Mississippi Valley Barge Line company, said today. Joint rail-barge rates are from 10 to 20 per cent under all-rail rates, depending upon the type of service rendered.

U. S. Rubber Import from Malaya Is 27,634 Tons

Detailed figures covering Malaya's rubber shipments during August disclose that exports to the United States were about the same as in July, the total being 27,634 tons last month, compared with 27,645 in July and 27,051 in August last year.

BONDHOLDERS' BODY SET UP FOR FLORIDA RAILWAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—Holders of Florida East Coast Railway company first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, series A, have been advised of the formation of a bondholders' committee, which is requesting the deposit of bonds with J. P. Morgan & Co., as depositary, under a deposit agreement dated as of Sept. 1, 1931. Receivers were appointed for all the property of the railroad on Aug. 31, and interest on the above bonds has been defaulted.

The committee consists of A. M. Anderson, chairman; P. V. Davis, F. W. Ecker, J. J. Nelligan, Harold Palagno, H. S. Sturgis, and F. W. Walker. Davis, Polk, Wardwell, Gardiner & Reed are counsel, and John M. Young, 23 Wall street, is secretary.

The deposit of fully registered bonds or bonds registered as to principal only must be accompanied by proper instruments of transfer executed in blank, with the signature guaranteed by a bank or trust company doing business in New York City or having a New York City correspondent, or by a New York Stock exchange firm. Coupon bonds must be accompanied by all coupons maturing Sept. 1, 1931, and subsequently. The committee expects to make application in due course for the listing of the certificates of deposit on the New York Stock exchange.

Losing Bidder Attacks U. S. Air Mail Contract

Camden, N. J., Sept. 7.—The Ludington corporation, owner of the Ludington line, the Ludington flying service, and part owner of the Central airport which recently lost the air mail contract between Philadelphia and Atlantic City, in a statement has demanded congressional investigation of the awarding of air mail contracts.

The statement declared the Ludington corporation will continue its challenge of the "illegality and impropriety of the recent action of the postmaster general in awarding a contract for the carriage of the air mail between Atlantic City and New York, Philadelphia and Washington without competitive bidding at an annual cost to the government of approximately $100,000 when an efficient air mail service could be given to Atlantic City for approximately $15,000 annually."

DEPOSIT COMMITTEE

To the Holders of Florida East Coast Railway Company First and Refunding Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds, Series A:

On August 31, 1931, Receivers were appointed of all of the property of Florida East Coast Railway Company. The Railway Company has not provided funds for the payment of the interest instalment due September 1, 1931 on its First and Refunding Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds, Series A, of which there are $45,000,000 principal amount outstanding.

The undersigned have agreed to act as a Committee to represent the holders of the Bonds under a Deposit Agreement dated as of September 1, 1931. In order that the Committee may act effectively, you are requested to deposit your Bonds with J. P. Morgan & Co., Depositary, at your earliest convenience.

Fully registered Bonds or Bonds registered as to principal only, must be accompanied by proper instruments of transfer executed in blank with the signature guaranteed by a bank or trust company doing business in New York City or having a New York City correspondent, or by a New York Stock Exchange firm. Coupon Bonds must be accompanied by all coupons maturing September 1, 1931 and subsequently. Certificates of Deposit registered in the name of the depositor will be issued by J. P. Morgan & Co. against such deposits at its office at 23 Wall Street, New York.

Requests for copies of the Deposit Agreement and for additional information should be addressed to the Secretary of the Committee.

Midland Utilities.

Kindly let me know what you think of an investment in the Midland Utilities preferred stock. Thank you in advance.—A. K.

Midland Utilities company is controlled by Midland United company. It controls through stock ownership public utility companies serving 313 communities in Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois.

Interrupting the upward trend evidenced since 1926, gross revenues for 1930 were $26,633,388, against $27,317,244 for 1929. A drop in operating expenses and an increase in profit from sale of securities enabled the company to show total earnings of $10,325,827, against $9,974,316 for 1929. Interest on funded debt in 1930 was $470,000 greater than such charges for 1929.

Net profit for the year was $4,715,560, or $21.24 per share of prior lien stock and $17.93 per share of class A preferred. For 1929 net was $4,736,471, equal to $21.36 per share of prior lien preferred and $17.77 per share of class A preferred.

Excluding profit on sales of securities net income in 1930 was equal to $14.24 per share of prior lien preferred, against $15.72 per share in 1929, and on the class A preferred $9.85 and $11.19 respectively. For 1928 total net income was $4,098,739 and for 1927 $3,614,283.

The 6 per cent and 7 per cent prior lien preferred have equal preference over the 6 per cent and 7 per cent class A preferred.

Winston-Salem Gas.

I have an unlisted bond, the obligation of Winston-Salem Gas company, North Carolina. Can you tell me if the company is in good standing?—Mrs. E. F. W.

There are outstanding $500,000 Winston-Salem Gas company first 5s, due July 1, 1932. On July 1, 1926, the company's property was acquired by North Carolina Public Service company, a subsidiary of Southern Public Utilities company.

North Carolina Public Service company furnishes varied public utility services to a population of about 215,000 in North Carolina. Gross revenues have shown yearly increases since 1925. Charges were earned 1.68 times in 1930, 1.61 times in 1929 and 1.30 times in 1928.

Winston-Salem Gas company first 5s are secured by a first mortgage on all property owned before acquisition. They underlie $3,100,000 North Carolina Public Service first lien and refunding 5s, due 1956. They are a business man's investment.

A REAL SALESMAN.

A large manufacturing company, whose product has more than the average sales resistance and which is sold to but one merchant in each town, on an exclusive agency franchise, will employ a high grade man of unusual sales ability.

To qualify for this connection requires a successful record in selling intangibles, such as advertising service, territorial rights, agency contracts, and other kindred lines that require intensive selling.

To be successful with us absolutely requires the above experience, plus the ability to close on the first interview. Only such type of salesmen need apply, and to the man selected we offer a permanent connection, with opportunity to earn a large income.

This position requires constant travel and the ownership of a car is essential in this work. We advance necessary traveling expenses. For interview call at Room 1412, 230 N. Michigan ave., between 9:30 a. m. and 12 o'clock.

MEN

$197.50 AND $194.25.

These were just two checks drawn by two of our men who had no previous sales experience. One a former mechanic, the other a bookkeeper. We have a few more making this kind of money and more, and a lot of men making $40, $50, $60, and $70 a week. Of course, we have failures, but we get a man who has a good appearance and is a willing worker, that will follow instructions, can't fail to make a fine living in this business.

You put up no money. We give you very thorough instructions as how to do the job.

A man must be able to carry himself for one week, while he is getting started. These are permanent jobs, and only good men with permanent addresses will be considered.

Come in and see our wonderful product and hear our plan. If you are satisfied and we are also after our talk, we will make arrangements to start you in at once.

Call Tuesday and ask for Mr. Smith.
